BEER BILL UP TO PINCHOT, VETO CERTAIN

Today

More New Laws.
England Will Not Like Russia.
Beer, Weak, But Powerful.
One Racketeer Tragedy.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE SENATE upholds the 5-day week bill, 52 to 31.

The House of Representatives adopted a resolution authorizing President Roosevelt to forbid any shipment of arms from this country to nations at war.

That power the President might find embarrassing. To sell to one nation, refusing another, would come close to inviting war with the second nation, and would certainly involve unnecessary ill will.

If this country must make money by selling killing machinery, it should sell to all alike.

DISPATCHES FROM Moscow indicate that Russia will release as innocent one of the British prisoners, convict the other five, but execute none of them.

From jail they can be released at any time; from a quicklime grave they could not be brought back, and even haughty Russia believes that Britain would not take the execution of those men patiently.

The Russian prosecutor says the five Britishers are guilty of offenses for which "the penalty is shooting and the crime deserves it." He adds:

"But our justice is Soviet justice. We do not cling too formally to the law."

ONE ENGLISHMAN, Thornton, accused of spying for the British Secret Service, was accused also of cowardice and lying. The prosecuting Russian, Vishinsky, said:

"Some day you may serve as fertilizer on our Soviet fields. You might just as well be dead now so far as the British intelligence service is concerned."

England will not like that Russian way of addressing an Englishman. British - Russian trade will not be helped by this trial.

WEAK LITTLE glass of 3.2 beer seems powerful when multiplied by the thirst of 123,000,000 people. Government will get in taxes from mild beer one hundred and fifty millions a year, perhaps more.

Some hotels and restaurants, that were ready to quit business, leaving the field to speakeasies, are now recovering prosperity. Thousands of young women have found work twisting pretzels into the right shapes, and crab fishermen of Chesapeake Bay are getting double prices for all they can catch. Beer and crab meat seem to go together.

Most important, since beer came back, drunkenness and arrests for drunkenness have diminished.

ALSO, IN Washington, right under the dome of the capitol, close to the Supreme Court, yesterday for the first time in thirty years beer was sold in the Congressmen's cafe, price twenty cents a glass.

Congressman Delaney, of New York said "Prosit." Congressman Berlan, of Pennsylvania, replied "Skoal," and they both drank beer.

THERE ARE tragedies and excitement in "racketeer" life. When police trapped "Big Eddie" Horstman, liquor runner, in his hotel room, he, with many reasons for not being caught, tied bedsheets together, seeking to escape. A knot slipped, the sheet-rope broke, "Big Eddie" fell seventy feet to death. He threw two loaded revolvers out of the window ahead of him.

A young lady, twenty-eight, found in the room, was released. The police are particularly interested in "Big Eddie's" radio apparatus. They think he ran a "wildcat" radio station from his room to his liquor fleet.

SIR HENRY HALLETT DALE, director of the National Institute for Medical Research in England, here to lecture at Johns Hopkins University, is one of the greatest bio-chemists in the world, engaged in work that will be important to human beings as long as we stay on this earth.

Therefore nobody knows anything about him. If he came here as "contender for the heavyweight championship," everybody would know all about him.

PLEASANT gentlemen, from different countries, on their way to visit President Roosevelt and his Secretary of State, talk "about a world recovery plan."

When these gentlemen have left, you will find that their one plan for world recovery consists in unloading a debt of ten thousand million dollars, money foolishly lent to Europe for its throat-cutting activities.

How that will help our problem of world recovery is not clear.

THE CASE of Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to hang in Arizona, is before a lunacy commission, and her mother swears that there was lunacy in the family. There was certainly lunacy in Mrs. Judd when she committed the two atrocious murders of which she was convicted. But the real question to be answered by the men of Arizona is "MUST WE HANG A WOMAN?"

WITH TAXATION constantly increasing the French learn that war doesn't pay even when you win. A great French store says that 71 per cent of its profits goes to the French government for taxes, only 29 to stockholders.

Clement Vautel, well-known writer, says the state gets pay for seven of every ten lines he writes. He gets the other three.

RUTH JUDD GRANTED REPRIEVE

Alienist for Defense Testifies She Is Insane

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 18.—(AP.)—A reprieve until April 28 was granted Winnie Ruth Judd today as counsel for the condemned "trunk" slayer presented expert testimony at a lunacy hearing that she is insane.

Sentenced to die on the gallows at dawn next Friday, Mrs. Judd was given a stay of one week by the State Board of Pardons and Paroles pending a verdict by the lunacy jury which will decide whether she is to be hanged or committed to an asylum for life. Her attorneys had asked for a three weeks' reprieve.

CALLS HER INSANE

Dr. George F. Huffman, of Florence, testified today for the defense that the blonde slayer of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson is insane in his opinion, adding:

"I know she is not malingering."

Prior to the start of today's court session, Dr. Joseph Catton, of San Francisco, and Dr. Paul Bowers, of Los Angeles, psychiatrists for the state, examined Mrs. Judd at the state penitentiary and reported she refused to co-operate with them.

THREE EXAMINATIONS

Dr. Harry E. Pinkert, of Coolidge, Ariz., testified he had examined the condemned woman three times, each time visiting her from an hour to an hour and a half. He said:

"When I found numerous symptoms of insanity, I checked up to discover if she was shamming."

O. V. Willson, of Mrs. Judd's counsel, asked:

"And what was the result?"

"The result was I found she was not shamming."

JOLIET, Ill., April 18.—(Universal)—Preparations for execution Friday midnight of the death sentence upon 18-year-old Russell McWilliams have been completed.

A plea for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment was submitted to the State Board of Pardons and Paroles last week by the aged Chicago lawyer, Clarence Darrow.

Fire Captain Hurt In Fighting Blaze

Fire Capt. Frank Kuss, of Engine Company No. 57, was cut when he broke a window in the home of Robert Lorina, 516 Ferncliff street, during a fire which caused $2,500 damage today. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Nobody was home when the fire broke out. Neighbors turned in the alarm.

MISS KATHLEEN SMYTH

FAY'S ACCUSER TO TELL STORY

NEW YORK, April 18.—(Universal.)—The deep mystery surrounding the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against Fay Webb Vallee by Kathleen Smyth, a vaudeville dancer, who calls herself Mrs. Kathleen Leon, will be aired in court within a few days, it was revealed today.

Miss Smyth, or Mrs. Leon, swears she is the wife of Garfield Leon, handsome and sleek-haired young adagio dancer, and that the estranged wife of Rudy Vallee stole him from her.

Mr. Leon's denials that he ever had a wife have elicited from the camp of Miss Smyth only an ominous silence.

Leon also has announced indignantly that he and the pretty Mrs. Vallee were old school friends, and nothing more.

Maxwell C. Cutler, attorney for the self-styled Mrs. Leon, announced today that Mrs. Vallee has given notice of an appearance. This gives Cutler 20 days in which to file the complaint, but he has it ready to file within a couple of days, he says.

GIBRALTAR, April 18.—(AP.)—The British steamer Beholm sent out a call today for immediate assistance. It reported a fire on the shelter deck.

Woman's Eye Injured As Bean Can Explodes

Mrs. Mary Carothers, 35, of West Newton, is being treated by a McKeesport specialist for a minor eye injury as the result of such a can explodingg in the kitchen of her home.

While Mrs. Carothers was accompanying her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, 15, on the piano in rehearsal of a new school song, the beans were being heated in a pot of water.

Cooking too long, the water evaporated, and when Mrs. Carothers reached for the can, it exploded. The contents spattered the four walls and the ceiling, and injured the woman.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Chasko, 318 Wabash avenue, Clairton, was eating bread when the fowl tried to snatch it from him, pecking the cornea of the eye. The father lost his left eye in 1915 when, in a steel mill accident, hot metal splashed into his face.

COURT RULES OPERATION ON BABY

Judge Has Power to Compel Treatment, Superiors Hold

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court today upheld the right of Judge George Smyth, of the Westchester County Children's Court, to order an operation performed on 2-year-old Helen Vasco, who has been spirited away from her home at Hastings by her parents to prevent medical intervention.

Yesterday the father, John Vasco, appeared at a police station and said his family had been visiting relatives nearby.

The father, even before he took his family away, had become reconciled to the prospect of an operation if the courts should decide it was necessary, but he said his wife was still firmly set against it.

As the Appellate Division's ruling was made public today a report was received from Hastings that the Vasco family had returned home and had gone into seclusion on the second floor of the little house they occupy. The alley in which the house is located was roped off by police and no one was allowed to pass through it who did not have busibness there.

While Judge Smyth was waiting to hear the higher court's decision as to his right to order an operation on the baby, he himself had to go to a hospital to undergo a minor operation. He was expected to be back in court next Monday.

From the hospital he issued a statement saying he would be "just as considerate of the mother as possible."

BRITISH AWAIT SPY VERDICT

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

MOSCOW, April 18.—The case of six British engineers and 11 Russians accused of espionage, bribery and sabotage in the Metropolitan-Vickers spy trial went to the "jury" today.

The "jury" consisted of the three grave-visaged judges who have presided for the last week over one of the most startling cases in the annals of jurisprudence.

They went to their chambers with the last statements of the accused ringing in their ears. When counsel for the defense had concluded their arguments, each of the defendants was called upon to stand and say whatever he might in his own behalf.

"I have said that I am guilty. I have nothing to add."

Ten hours are expected to elapse before the verdict is announced.

Sacco-Vanzetti Case Judge Stricken Ill

BOSTON, April 18.—(AP.)—Judge Webster Thayer, presiding justice of the Sacco-Vanzetti trial, is critically ill at the University Club.

The judge, who is 75, suffered a shock at the club Friday. Last September the Thayer home in Worcester was bombed.

Monaca Club Padlock Case Up on Monday

Next Monday was set for a hearing on equity proceeding in Common Pleas Court to padlock the Monaca club.

The bill was filed by Deputy Attorney General John D. Meyer in behalf of Attorney General W. A. Schnader and District Attorney A. T. Park.

SHOW GIRL, WALKER MARRY

Jimmy Jests as He Weds Betty in French Town

CANNES, France, April 18.—(INS.)—Embarking on a life which he said would be "a bed of roses," former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, was married here today to Betty Compton, of England and Broadway.

In a simple but colorful ceremony, the picturesque ex-Mayor and the former musical comedy actress were joined in matrimony by Dr. Gazagnaire, chief executive of the City of Cannes. The ceremony took place in the local City Hall.

Jimmy voiced his optimistic prediction concerning his future married life when he and his bride repaired to the Hotel Martinez, his residence, for a champagne party to celebrate the event.

NERVOUS AS BOY

As nervous and excited as a boy on his honeymoon, Walker threw himself on a divan when he entered the suite, landing on top of a huge bunch of red roses sent to his new bride. Betty screamed:

"You're sitting on my roses."

Jimmy said:

"That's just to show that from now on my life is going to be a bed of roses."

Walker and his bride made unusual efforts to keep the marriage secret, explaining they wished to avoid publicity. An original announcement said the ceremony would take place in Miss Compton's villa, "Beau Geste," but at the last minute the bridal party hustled over to City Hall.

Accompanied by her mother, Miss Compton entered City Hall

Hulk of Akron Wreckage Found In Ocean Grave

NEW YORK, April 18.—(INS.)—Twenty-five miles off the New Jersey shore, grappling hooks suspended from the naval tug Sagamore today gripped a sunken, twisted mass of silk and metal—a large portion if not all of the hulk of the ill-fated dirigible Akron.

The discovery was reported in a wireless message from the Sagamore to the U. S. Destroyer Portland, which has led the search for the sunken airship and the bodies of its 70-odd missing victims ever since the craft went to its doom.

The strike was made near the scene of her sea plunge 20 miles off Barnegat Light (N. J.) on April 4 last.

SENATE VOTES HARRIMAN QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—The Senate today directed its Judiciary Committee to investigate the delay by the Department of Justice in prosecuting officials of the Harriman National Bank for alleged violation of the banking laws.

It adopted without a word of debate a resolution by Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, calling for the investigation.

Clergyman Missing From Liner at Sea

S. S. BERENGARIA AT SEA, April 18.—(AP.)—Canon Horace Granville Monroe, sub-dean of Southwark Cathedral, London, a passenger on the Berengaria, is missing and it is believed he was drowned. He had been in ill health and was mourning the recent death of his wife.

The Berengaria is en route to New York.

Hotel Man Held In Beer Slayings

ELIZABETH, N. Woman Weds Suitor She Had Arrested

WINCHESTER, Va., April 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ethel Reinert last night was married to Frank A. Elms, whom she recently had arrested on a charge of threatening her with death unless she married him.

Elms was an itinerant carpenter employed on Mrs. Reinert's farm.

Magistrate Job Not for Scorza, Herron Asserts

Mayor John S. Herron says he can't keep up with romances concerning deals and dismissals. He said so today in denying reports that Assemblyman John D. (Kokey) Scorza would be appointed a police magistrate. Scorza is not under consideration, the Mayor said.

The report had it that the trading post which Senator James J. Coyne and the Mayor have installed to bolster up Herron's chances of election was wide open for business—and the first customer was John J. Verona, who controls some of the votes on the Hill.

ANOTHER 'ROMANCE'

As a result of this trading it was said Scorza, nephew of Verona, was to be named Magistrate at Central Police Court to succeed Leo Rothenberg. Rothenberg was to replace Morals Court Magistrate Thomas D. Jones, who was to take the place of Magistrate William McNamara in Oakland, to be let out.

The Mayor said:

"The story is utterly without foundation. I have no intention

Mr. Sullivan illustrated such books as "Tom Brown's Schooldays," "Carlyle's French Revolution," "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "Omar Khayyam."

REPEAL PACT PERILED BY SENATE

Brew Measure Voted Despite Hostility Of Governor

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, April 18.—The Senate today adopted the conference report on the Sowers beer bill. The vote was 32 to 16, with all Allegheny County senators voting for the measure.

Having passed the House last night by a vote of 105 to 23, the bill now goes to Gov. Pinchot.

The Governor will veto the bill and throw the whole question of beer regulation and license back to the Legislature.

At the Governor's office immediately after the bill was passed by the Senate today, Mr. Pinchot's previous declaration that he would disapprove the bill was reiterated.

The veto probably will be appended this week. It certainly will be delivered before the Legislature has a chance to adjourn next week. The Governor does not wish to be put in the position of through his own tardy action forcing a special session on beer.

NEW START

The gubernatorial veto will mean that there will be no beer control or license legislation before either House for action.

Under that circumstance, a complete new start must be made, requiring at least five legislative days for any new measure to be passed, even if there is complete harmony in the House and Senate, as there probably will not be.

Action of the Legislature on the Sowers bill has jeopardized the McClure bill for 15 delegates-at-large to a convention to consider repeal or retention of the Eighteenth Amendment. The Governor had agreed to approve this meas-

SUNDAY SPORTS VIEWS AIRED

HARRISBURG, April 18.—(INS.)—Baseball enthusiasts and opponents received their final turn at bat on the Schwartz Sunday sports bill at informal hearings before Gov. Gifford Pinchot this afternoon.

The Governor listened to the arguments of liberals and the advocates of blue law retention before acting on the bill which will permit Pennsylvania to decide by referenda whether baseball and football may be played legally on Sunday afternoons.

A delegation in favor of modification of the ancient statute was headed by William W. Roper, Philadelphia councilman. The Rev. William B. Forney, Philadelphia, headed a delegation opposed to enactment of the Schwartz bill.

The Governor indicated action on the bill can be expected within a day or so.

Judge Bans Beer For West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 18.—(AP.)—Stating the West Virginia beer law is "unconstitutional, null and void," Federal Judge George W. McClintic instructed the grand jury today to return indictments where there was evidence of beer being transported into the state.

Four Killed as Plane Crashes Into Field

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—(AP.)—Four persons were killed today in the crash of an airplane near Valmeyer, Ill., about 25 miles south of St. Louis.

The victims were not identified and the ownership of the plane was not immediately determined.

William Schaefer, tenant farmer, reported that the plane appeared to be having engine trouble as it passed over his house and that the ship crashed in a wheat field and burst into flames.

U. S. TO SHUN M'DONALD-HERRIOT 10-CENT DEBT PLAN

CONGRESS SET AGAINST CUT IN PAYMENTS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The expectations prevails in administration quarters that both Ramsay MacDonald, the British Prime Minister, and Edouard Herriot, the ex-Premier of France, will make "lump sum" proposals to the United States next week in the settlement of their respective debts.

If advance notices are borne out, the proposals will follow the Lausanne pattern of "10 cents on the dollar."

There is scant indication, however, that such priposals, when and if made, will receive any really serious consideration by the administration.

Such a settlement would amount to cancellation of 90 per cent of the debts. The Democratic platform, to which President Roosevelt is rigorously adhering, spoke out flatly against debt canellation.

CONGRESS OPPOSITION

Administration leaders frankly hope to subordinate the debts issue to what they deem of more importance—the lowering tariff barriers and the removal of other artificial restrictions on world trade.

They believe, Secretary of State Hull in particular, that once these barriers are removed, and once international trade is flowing as in the days before the economic collapse, the debts will take care of themselves. In this connection, they point out that none of the debtors found their burden particularly onerous before the crash.

The administration's policy with regard to the June 15 payments, now only two months away, will not be determined until after it can be seen what MacDonald and Herriot have to offer.

The expectation is, however, that President Roosevelt will ask congressional authority to defer the June payments for a limited time, say until the conclusion of the world economic conference which is due to meet about June 15. Probably congress would grant such authority, although reluctantly.

HERRIOT DUE SUNDAY

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE AT SEA, April 18.—(AP.)—Former Premier Herriot, of France, is making his second voyage to the United States in 10 years in the company of Walter E. Edge, retiring ambassador to France, and Manuel L. Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate.

They will reach New York Sunday.

S. S. BERENGARIA AT SEA, April 18.—(AP.)—Prime Minister MacDonald, on his way to Washington, continued today his preparations for the talks.

ARMS EMBARGO FOES ORGANIZE

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(Universal.)—Foes of American entanglement with foreign powers today sharpened their knives for the bill empowering President Roosevelt to join other nations in declaring embargoes on arms and munitions to aggressor nations, and were organizing to defeat or modify its drastic provisions when it comes up in the Senate.

The measure, passed by the House yesterday, faces a hard fight in the upper chamber.

Republican House opposition was based on the argument that a presidential embargo against only one of the two nations at war would violate neutrality and subject the United States to reprisals by the national against whom the embargo is laid.

Woman, Maximilian Party Member, Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kate Kentling, who was a member of the party of Maximilian when Napoleon III sent him to Mexico to become emperor, died here today. She would have been 97 April 28.

As the bride of William Heide, bandmaster to the Archduke Maximilian, she went to Mexico. She also served as lady in waiting to the Empress Carlotta.

of disturbing either Magistrate Rothenberg or Magistrate Jones. Mr. Scorza is not even under consideration. This is just another guess, and it is impossible for me to keep up with these romances."

This deal, it was reported, marked the first important move by the Coyne-Herron outfit to land the organization vote for Herron. There are many other sections of the city in which similar trades will have to be made.

"Kokey" was one of six tried with Verona in 1929 on charges of beating up Joe Engelsberg, Hill vote deliverer. The case collapsed and the prosecutor was ordered to pay the court costs.

BOYD TO STAY

Inspector of City Detectives Frank R. Boyd today was assured that he would remain head of the Detective Bureau. Following a conference with Supt. of Police Franklin T. McQuaide, Boyd was told that he would continue in his present capacity.

McQuaide requested that Boyd submit a list of his subordinates. A shakeup in that department is due.

Former City Detectives William J. O'Bryan and Robert Patton, retired on pension several months ago by Supt. Walsh, will return to the Detective Bureau, it is said. This was assured when O'Bryan and Patton were summoned to the superintendent's office and informed they would be appointed detectives.

At least six detectives will be dismissed or demoted. The rumor that Detective John Dean would lose out was denied. Dean, however, was so certain that he would be among those to get the ax that he tendered his resignation late yesterday. The resignation was not accepted.

Supt. McQuaide, who promised a shakeup yesterday, said that in all probability he would make some changes in the Police Bureau today.

The dismissal of Director of Public Safety James M. Clark has been consigned to some future date. The Mayor gives no indication of preparing to replace Clark with Harmar D. Denny, Jr., mentioned for the Director's post. There are some who say that Denny is not as strong a candidate as he was a week ago.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt will possibly be the next official to resign. Herron, however, does not appear to be pressing Waldschmidt to retire.

HUGE ARMY CUT THREATENED

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(Universal.)—The guillotine of economy hung over the Army by a slender thread under a program for drastic reductions in officers and enlisted men which is to be presented to President Roosevelt today.

The cut, amounting to $144,000,000 in all, would fall horizontally across the entire activities of the Army, including the highly important air corps, Secretary of War Dern revealed.

The reduction in officers throughout the entire Army would total between 2,000 and 3,000. The reduction in enlisted men would be between 12,000 and 15,000.

BANK REFORM BILL READY

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—A Senate Banking Subcommittee today completed the draft of a permanent bank reform bill, but awaited recommendations from the administration before finally approving it.

After another meeting of his subcommittee, Chairman Glass announced that it had done "about all we are going to do" until Secretary Woodin was ready to submit the administration's views.

The final decision of the subcommittee was to include provision in the bill for admission of mutual savings and Morris plan banks to the Federal Reserve system, so they could participate in the proposed $2,000,000,000 fund for insuring deposits.

Pole Sentenced For 'Atrocity Story'

BERLIN, April 18.—(INS.)—The first foreigner to be tried in the special German courts on a charge of spreading atrocity stories received a sentence of nine months in jail today.

He was Herman Beer, a Polish citizen and commercial traveler, accused of spreading rumors that people had been killed and mutilated in Berlin.

MISS PERKINS SEEKS CONTROL OF OUTPUT

Suggests Wide Powers In Amendment to 30-Hour Week Bill

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(INS.)—A "suggestion" to Congress to place in the hands of the Secretary of Labor dictatorial powers to limit production of industries which engage in unfair competition has been made by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

She declared today she had sent this "suggestion" to Congress in the form of an amendment to the Black 30-hour week bill. She said:

"The suggestion which I made would authorize the Secretary of Labor to limit the total number of hours of operation of any plant or enterprise which was found to be disturbing or preventing a fair plan of production and bringing about over-production. I made the proposal as a suggestion and was asked by members of Congress to send it up in the form of an amendment so it could be added to the Black bill if desired."

The 30-hour week bill, now exclusively before the House as a result of the Senate's refusal to reconsider it, thus may be expanded into the most far-reaching measure of the present session.

Controlled or planned industrial production, Congressional students of the labor question said today, is consistent with the views publicly expressed by President Roosevelt.

In his message on Muscle Shoals he pointed to the lack of economic planning in the building of America's industrial system. The farm relief bill recommended by the administration also contains the most ambitious plan of restricting agricultural production ever presented to Congress.

The possibility of increased efficiency of workers resulting from the five-day week also has stirred interest in control of production. The House Labor Committee has reported that workmen in the Ford plant produced far more in an eight-hour day than in a nine-hour day.

FINED IN ROW INJURING GIRL

Her right arm in a sling, Mrs. Pauline Knoellinger, 26, waitress in a restaurant at 117 West Ohio street, testified in North Side Police Court today against Kent Houpt, 36, of 858 North Lincoln avenue.

She said he had started a fight in the restaurant Sunday night and knocked her to the floor, injuring her arm. Houpt testified he had been drinking. He was fined $50, with the alternative of 60 days in the workhouse.

Magistrate Ray E. Schneider advised Mrs. Knoellinger to make information against Houpt to recover hospital expenses and loss of wages.

Yesterday Houpt failed to appear for a hearing and it developed that he had been released on his own recognizance by Junior Capt. John Flavin. This drew fire from Magistrate Schneider, who said police should use "better judgment."

U. S. INFLATION PREDICTED BY RAINEY

Clears Way for F. R. Proposal; Farm Bill Freed of Schemes

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—Maneuvers in the dispute over currency expansion dominated in Congress today, with Speaker Rainey flatly predicting "we are going to have some kind of inflation."

Changing their course in the light of the 43 to 33 defeat for free silver in the Senate yesterday, advocates of inflation abandoned—for the present at least—the attempt to tack it to the farm bill.

Debate on the price raising features of the legislation proceeded, while the House adjourned until Thursday to let committees whip more of the Roosevelt program into shape.

FAVOR RULES CHANGE

The Rules Committee approved the plan for amending House rules so 218 instead of 145 members would have to sign petitions to discharge committees from jurisdiction over legislation.

The change was wanted by the party leadership in the interest of downing such bonus and inflationary propositions as are not wanted by the administration.

Speaker Rainey said the administration "wants to submit its own plan for inflation," giving that as the reason for tightening up House rules to ward off differing proposals.

He apparently expects "the administration plan" to be withheld until after the forthcoming conference between President Roosevelt and world leaders—in which currency questions will loom with maximum importance.

SHELVES PROPOSAL

Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, one of the inflationist leaders, gave no explanation to the Senate for laying aside his inflation proposal, but reserved the right to reoffer it after the farm bill is out of the way.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, then withdrew an amendment by Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, to authorize purchase of $100,000,000 in silver, against which currency would be issued. Robinson said he took this action at the request of Long.

He did predict, however, that the truce would permit passage of the farm bill by tomorrow night.

GAS TAX BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—The House Ways and Means Committee today approved the Doughton bill to continue the 1 cent a gallon gasoline tax for another year, reduce first-class drop letter postage from 3 to 2 cents and give authority to President Roosevelt to increase or decrease first, second and third-class mail rates.

No effort was made by the committee to amend the measure approved by the administration to include the Doughton proposals for the repeal of the bank check tax.

Girl Explains Her 'Runout' to Dodge Marriage

MISS FREDA FREDERICK, 25

'Ache' Stopped as at Dentist's Door, She Relates

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 18.—"It was just like a kid going to a dentist to have his tooth pulled—the ache stopped at the door."

In this manner Miss Freda Frederick, 25, stenographer, explained why she left John Z. Feld "waiting at the church." She literally "ran out" on him as they stepped into the door of the office of the marriage license clerk.

Miss Frederick ran out the back door and didn't stop until she was several blocks away. She explained:

"He wrote such wonderful letters that I fell in love with him; that is, until we reached the marriage license office.

"When he arrived he proposed marriage; said he had $7,000 he wanted me to help spend. I thought I cared for him and I put on my best dress and started for the Courthouse several blocks away. I kept thinking over the matter as we hurried along, and at the last minute, and thank goodness in the nick of time, I chose my liberty to the $7,000.

"I know there will be murder if John finds me, but I've asked the officers to look out for him."

Asked about John's home, Miss Frederick said:

"He wrote me letters from a number of towns."

PROBE FRENCH PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(INS.)—The State Department is investigating reports that the French government appropriated 33,000,000 francs to finance a propaganda campaign in the United States, secretary of State Hull today informed Senator Robinson, (Rep.), of Indiana.

Hull told Robinson the department had received a copy of a report made to the French Chamber of Deputies on the propaganda subject.

F. R. CONFERS WITH ENVOY ON CUBA

Revision of Treaties 'Very Essential,' Diplomat Says

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt personally took up the Cuban situation today in an hour's conference with Ambassador Cintas from the island republic.

Leaving the conference, Ambassador Cintas told newspapermen that internal economic and political affairs of Cuba were barely discussed with the President.

JOBLESS UNREST

He said it was "very essential" to obtain a revision of the commercial treaties between the countries.

He told the reporters he considered recent shootings in Cuba "very unfortunate" and he attributed them to the unrest resulting from unemployment.

CUDAHY SLATED

Obviously closely watching developments on the neighboring island, Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication of whether he contemplates any action by this government.

He is informing himself thoroughly of the situation and regards Cuban stability as a vital factor in Latin American affairs.

Meanwhile he is withholding the appointment of an ambassador to Havana although it has been believed that John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, would be appointed shortly.

SECURITY BILL DELAYED

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—The Senate Banking Committee today put off until Friday final action on a third redraft of the administration securities control bill which Chairman Fletcher described as having been strengthened in some particulars and liberalized in others.

One of the most important last-minute changes would require the issuer of securities to file additional information with the Trade Commission regarding the actual cost of assets, loans to officers and directors exceeding $20,000 each, and the issuer's expenses and fixed charges during the preceding three years instead of one year as originally provided.

Crib Slaying of Baby Baffles Erie Police

ERIE, Pa., April 18.—(AP.)—Authorities investigating the death of 14-month-old Marjorie Smith indicated today they will attempt to trace the possible presence of an intruder in the Smith home on the night of April 2.

Yesterday a coroner's jury found that the infant was slain. They found no one guilty of the crime.

At the inquest the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith, testified that they often left the doors of their home open at night. Authorities said they admitted a person might have entered the house while they were asleep.

On the night of the child's death there were visitors at the Smith home. The callers, a man and his wife, were present at the inquest. They testified that they left the Smith home about 11:30 p. m., and that the child was asleep at the time.

The Smiths testified that next morning they found Marjorie dead in her crib, both arms broken, the eyes blackened as if from blows, and the head and body beaten.

Coroner W. G. Stroble, at the time of the child's death, quoted the parents as saying their 3-year-old son might have injured his sister.

'Postage Due' on Farley Invitations; Blame Rain

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Preliminaries to a dinner of honor to Postmaster General Farley, to be held here May 13, have demonstrated the great scientific principle that a wet day is not as good a day to mail a letter as a dry day.

This has come to the attention of the Postoffice Department in the matter of invitations mailed to some of the 3,500 persons who are to be given the privilege of buying a $6 ticket to the dinner.

The committee had elaborate invitations printed on choice linen paper. Enclosed in the envelope was a subscription card, and a return envelope.

Having misgivings about the weight of the invitation, the committee had a sample weighed at the postoffice. It came within the three-cent stamp requirements. So the invitations were mailed.

The great scientific principle which the committee overlooked, however, was that the sample invitation was weighed on a dry day, and the actual mailing was done on a wet day.

So what? The linen paper, in accordance with the well-known scientific principle concerning linen paper, began absorbing moisture. It added weight. It became overweight.

Postoffice clerks found the invitations called for another stamp. They put "3 cents postage due" stamps on them.

Considering the fact that the dinner is for the head of the Postoffice Department, the committee was chagrined.

WOMEN URGE MOTHER TO PERMIT OPERATION ON BOY

M'GOVERN BACK, NOT TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Home From Sea Trip, Says He Wouldn't Take Job as Gift

Col. C. C. (Buck) McGovern pulled off a torn, faded sweater, stepped out of soiled, unpressed trousers, shaved, put on his Sunday suit and drove back to work today.

The independent chairman of the County Commissioners was back on the job, rested after 26 days exploring Germany, England and the Atlantic Ocean.

But he came back totally uninterested in talk that he might be a mayoralty candidate. One arm leaning against a fence on his farm near Glenwillard, another on the cane he has been forced to carry since his leg accident of a year ago, he spat and announced:

"I wouldn't take it on a tray—not even an appointment. I don't like the city charter."

SILENT ON HERRON

The Colonel was noncommittal on a suggestion that he might—or mightn't—support Mayor Herron in the September primary. But he was less mysterious as to Herron's friend, Senator James J. Coyne:

"Coyne and I are on cordial terms, but nothing like what the newspapers have said . . . I tried to get him to go for Ralph Flinn for Auditor General and two or three other things, but . . ."

Most of the Commissioner's time on his trip was cruising the ocean. He was in Germany for one day during the boycott, having flown there from London. He reported:

"I didn't see any fighting or anything, but those Hitlerites or whatever you call them—Nazis—were knee-deep everywhere. They were pretty arrogant."

Col. McGovern brought back good news for the county payrollers. He doubts that there'll be much more eliminating of jobs, although he says a bit of pruning will be necessary here and there in other directions.

O. K. WITH PINCHOT

His relations with Gov. Pinchot, he said, are unstrained.

"I saw the Governor before I left and agreed to the appointment of Ben Lencher, (now Judge Lencher) . . . You've got to have three things to be a candidate for Judge. First, you've got to be sympathetic with the administration. Then you've got to be able to pay the freight—finance your campaign—because a judge has no patronage to give out. Then you've got to have somebody ringing the bell for you—people demanding your appointment. Ben had two of those. There was nothing in his record to show he was sympathetic to an administration like Pinchot's.

POLICE IN POLITICS

The Colonel's complaint against the city charter is that under it the police department cannot be kept out of politics. He explained:

"I've been watching mayors in this town for 40 years and I've seen how it works. A Mayor should be a Mayor and have a business administration and not have to meddle around with a police department, about 13 per cent of which always has its hands out. You put a Mayor in there and by the time he finds out how to run the police department his term's up."

The ideal arrangement, McGovern suggested, would be to merge all the law-enforcement agencies in the city and county under one non-political head appointed every six years by the Governor. Is the colonel hopeful that such a proposition can be put over in his lifetime?

"Well, they've got it in Boston and St. Louis."

Dry Director Forced To Move 70 Animals

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 18.—(AP.)—Under stipulations recorded today Col. A. J. Hanlon, a prohibition director, has agreed before May 1 to remove more than 70 animals from his home which caused a neighbor to file a nuisance suit against Hanlon.

The animals are to be taken to the country, Mrs. Hanlon said, where they will be cared for by an attendant.

Bulgar Desecration Charged by Turks

ISTANBUL, April 18.—(AP.)—Turkish indignation has been aroused by a report from Sofia that 200 Bulgarians demolished the Turkish Moslem cemetery at Rasgrad, knocking down tombstones and desecrating 150 graves.

Bride at Last

BETTY COMPTON

by the back door. She was ushered into Mayor Gazagnaire's private office, where Walker and the witnesses were waiting.

The only ones who viewed the ceremony were Dr. Joseph Fisher, Walker's physician; Alfred Sharon, his lawyer; the proprietor of the Martinez Hotel and Miss Compton's mother.

POLICE 'TRAP' NEWSMEN

Photographers and newspapermen were herded into a hallway and kept there by a detachment of the local gendarmerie.

After the ceremony, however, it was learned that what might be termed a typical "Walker incident" occurred.

When the Mayor reached the point where he was ready to pronounce Walker and Miss Compton man and wife, he turned to Jimmy and asked for the ring.

Everyone expected Walker to fumble through his pockets, but Jimmy had set a new wrinkle in preparedness for bridegrooms by wearing the bridal ring on his own little finger. To the amusement of the assembled guests he had a little difficulty in getting it off.

He finally succeeded in placing it on Betty's finger, however, and at the conclusion of the ceremony, he kissed his bride in approved fashion. The new Mrs. Walker then went to the arms of her mother, who was sobbing.

From City Hall the Walker party went to the former New York Mayor's hotel for a wedding luncheon.

The marriage of Miss Compton, one-time Broadway star, and the former Mayor of New York, is her third venture into matrimony and his second.

Recently Walker was divorced by Mrs. Janet Allen Walker, who had been married for years to the man who once wrote the song hit "Will You Love Me in December As You Do in May?" She filed suit at Miami, March 9, alleging desertion, and the final decree was handed down on March 27.

Walker's Ex-Wife Silent on Wedding

FACTOR READY TO PAY SON'S RANSOM

Way Cleared for Deal With Kidnapers; Climax Due

BULLETIN.

CHICAGO, April 18.—(INS.)—Two men were taken into custody by police today in connection with the kidnaping of Jerome Factor, 19-year-old son of John (Jake the Barber) Factor. One of the suspects was taken to detective headquarters to be confronted by Factor, who also was at the Detective Bureau awaiting the suspect.

International News Service.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The climax was expected to be enacted today in the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor's son, Jerome, abducted near his home last Wednesday night.

George Cohen, brother-in-law of Factor, was reported to have received by special messenger in his North Side apartment a letter from the kidnapers, containing definite and final instructions as to the method of making the $50,000 ransom payment.

NEGOTIATIONS BEGUN

It is said that negotiations were begun almost immediately looking toward acquiescence to the abductors' demands and the return of the boy to his father. The instructions were said to be definite as to the time and place of making the deal.

The money, it was believed, had previously been raised and "planted" in the pocket of one of Factor's closest and most trusted associates.

Petitions for habeas corpus writs on behalf of six hoodlum members of the Capone gang were filed today with Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal Court, also included were the names of Harlan Fischetti and John Russo, other Capone syndicate members.

GANG AS "GO-BETWEENS"

It was the first intimation that police also had seized these men. They were taken after a hotel raid yesterday, but police did not make clear their connection with the case.

The arrest of the Capone gang members, while acting as "go-betweens" for the elder Factor in dealing with the kidnapers, brought to light a clue pointing to a downstate Illinois and Iowa band of kidnapers as the abductors of the 19-year-old boy.

Police this afternoon brought the elder Factor from his hotel suite to the Detective Bureau for questioning.

CROWD RIOTS OVER EVICTION

Mrs. Belia Zeman, 45, of 2556 Center avenue, suffered a bruised head and cut mouth today when set upon by a mob protesting an eviction from a Devilliers street dwelling she owns.

When Deputy Sheriff John McVay set out the furniture of Louis Pratt, Negro, 400 Devilliers street, and his family, 200 indignant persons gathered.

Only the arrival of police in response to a riot call saved the woman from being seriously beaten by the mob.

Three women, Irene Bennett, 29, of 228 Lombard street; Eva Riley, 32, of 2118 Reed street, and Minnie Riley, 36, of 2118 Reed street, all Negroes, are being held.

Planes in Search For Italian Aviator

CALCUTTA, India, April 18.—(AP.)—Four airplanes were sent from Dumdum Airdrome in search of the missing Italian flier, L. Robiano, unreported since Friday, when he started from here for Burma in an attempt to set a speed record for a flight from England to Australia.

A search also was being made in the Chittagong area, where a wrecked plane, believed to be Robiano's, was found.

ESTELLE HELD 'TEETOTALER'

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(Universal)—"Miss Taylor doesn't drink—doesn't touch a drop—and, if necessary, we will subpena half of Hollywood to prove it."—Attorney William M. Rains, counsel for a plaintiff.

Thus did the question of the sobriety of Estelle Taylor, film actress and former wife of Jack Dempsey, become an issue in court today.

It was raised in Superior Court with the calling of Miss Taylor's $150,000 damage suit against Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, as a result of injuries received when Joyce's car, driven by his chauffeur, and in which she was riding, hit a tree.

ACCUSE BEAUTY IN FATAL ROW

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., April 18.—(AP.)—Loretta Carl, 23, once chosen "Miss East St. Louis" in a Southern Illinois festival, today was held by police who said the young woman had confessed a quarrel between her and an 18-year-old brother ended in the youth's death from a knife wound.

Miss Carl and her father, W. F. Carl, an East St. Louis contractor, were quoted by officers as saying Willis Carl, the brother, fell on a butcher knife.

The fatal scuffle allegedly occurred in the kitchen of the Carl home where the youth attempted to seize several neckties which Miss Carl had given him, but reclaimed after an argument. The father said he attempted vainly to separate his children.

Flying Publisher, Pilot Lost in Arizona

WINSLOW, Ariz., April 18.—(INS.)—C. L. Giragi, "flying publisher" of Winslow, and Pilot Jack Irish were the objects of a widespread search over Arizona desert and mountain lands today. They departed by airplane for Phoenix at 7:30 p. m. yesterday and failed to arrive there.

GUNMAN ROBS, ATTACKS GIRL

A 21-year-old girl told South Side police that she had been attacked by a gunman in Arlington avenue, early today after she and her escort had been robbed of cash and jewels valued at $300.

Miss Miller

Marlene Miller, 21, victim of the alleged attack, said her escort, whom she knew only as "Joe," disappeared after driving her to Fifth avenue and Grant street, police reported. He and the gunman are being sought by the police.

The girl told police that she met her escort in an uptown restaurant and was invited for an automobile ride. While driving in Arlington avenue, she said, the gunman leaped to the running board of the machine and ordered the driver to pull into the curb. She said the thug robbed her of a ring valued at $250, a wedding ring valued at $10 and $22.50. From "Joe" he obtained $12.

After robbing them, the thug attacked her, police said the girl told them. She said she lived at the Florence Hotel, Smithfield street.

Faced with Spanking, Boy Shoots Himself

BELLEVILLE, Ill., April 18.—(AP.)—Threatened with his first whipping, Robert L. Van Sent, 14, a grade school student at Sparta, Ill., shot himself in the head with a shotgun and is not expected to live.

The lad said he was "too old to be spanked."

Luis Firpo Arrested On Fraud Charges

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 18. — (AP.) — Luis Angel Firpo, former prize fighter, was arrested last night on charges which the police said arose from the sale of property near Buenos Aires.

Firpo, at present an automobile salesman, will be arraigned tomorrow. Police said that the ex-fighter, once the opponent of Jack Dempsey, had been named in fraud charges by the purchaser of a ranch.

NOTED PAINTER OF NUDES WEDS

NEW YORK, April 18.—(Universal.)—Everett Shinn, 55, noted painter of women in the nude, married Paula Downing, 21, of Westport, Conn., at Doylestown, Pa., Saturday, it was learned today.

The bride, the artist's third wife, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Downing, of Westport, where Shinn is a member of the art colony, and has a $250,000 home and summer cottage.

Shinn's second wife, Mrs. Gertrude Chase Shinn, recently obtained a divorce decree after accusing her husband of wanting to photograph her in the nude and distribute copies of her picture. She further charged cruelty.

His first wife was Mrs. Florence Scovel Shinn, who divorced him and named an actress as co-respondent.

HOUSE GROUP ACTS ON RELIEF

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—The House Banking Committee today ended hearings on the Wagner $500,000,000 relief bill and decided to take it up in executive session.

Figures to show it would require federal expenditure of only one-sixth of that being spent for the same purpose in Great Britain and Germany were presented by Representative Lewis (Dem.), of Maryland, sponsoring the bill already passed by the Senate.

Owen R. Lovejoy, representing the Child Welfare League of America, indorsed the bill and warned the committee:

"Appropriations for all child protection are being reduced at a time when they ought to be increased because the children are not getting enough protection in their homes."

Publisher, O. Henry's 'Discoverer,' Dies

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Ormond Gerald Smith, 72, founder of a host of popular magazines and "discoverer" of many noted writers died suddenly last night of a stroke.

Smith was president of the Street & Smith Publishing Company. He founded such magazines as Ainslee's, Popular, People's, Smith's, Top Notch and Picture Play. One of the important discoveries attributed to Smith was O. Henry, whose work first appeared in Smith magazines.

TELL OF SONS MADE WELL BY TREATMENT

Parent Refuses to Return Child To Hospital

Two mothers, who chose to take their children to the hospital rather than let them die from tuberculosis of the spine, today offered encouragement to Mrs. Mary Lesic, mother of the stricken 3-year-old Millvale boy, whose life doctors say is imperiled.

Both wish that they might talk, as one mother to another, with Mrs. Lesic, of 248 Arlington street, to convince her that medical skill can and should save the life of little, dark-haired Billy Lesic.

Mrs. Susan Bornham, of 2907 Preble avenue, who took her son, Eugene, 3, to the Children's Hospital with the dreaded disease, said:

"My boy has been on a frame at the hospital for a year and the doctors tell me that he is recovering and will soon be home again. I'm thankful that I took him to the hospital."

Another mother, Mrs. Peter Kanai, of 300 Helen street, McKees Rocks, pointed proudly to her 12-year-old son, Edward. He was taken to the Children's Hospital in 1926 with one of the most dangerous cases on record. In just one year and two months Edward was back home.

Mrs. Kanai, explained:

"I don't regret for a minute that I took him to the hospital. That was the only sensible thing to do and today he is real living proof that the disease can be cured if properly cared for."

Mrs. Lesic, who took her son from the same hospital, after only a few days of treatment, is steadfast in her decision not to take him back. She will not listen to argument. She told a Humane Society official yesterday:

"I won't let him go back to the hospital. I'm going to take care of him at home."

CONDITION SERIOUS

Doctors at the hospital who diagnosed Billy's case said today that he already has serious bone destruction in the spine. Unless cared for properly he will not live more than four years.

The Lesic case which was originally scheduled for court hearing tomorrow or Thursday probably will be delayed. Both the Humane Society, which is prosecuting the case and the Juvenile Court officials, are hoping to get the consent of the parents in returning Billy to the Children's Hospital.

Miss Grace Stoakes, chief probation officer of the court, said:

"We are working for the interests of the child. However, we would rather get the consent of the parents, even if we have the law in our favor."

MANN ACT NETS FARMER, MAID

CLEVELAND, April 18.—(AP.)—A warrant charging violation of the Mann act was issued in Federal Court today against Homer Akin, 42, a farmer, of Ashtabula County, now held in Warren, O., with a young girl who authorities said has been living with him.

The girl's mother, federal authorities said, signed an agreement "in fee simple" granting permission for her daughter to live with Akin until she is 21.

Federal authorities quoted the mother as saying her intention was to see that Akin and the girl were not arrested in every town they visited. They said Akin hired the girl to work in his house as a maid after she had advertised for a job. Akin is married and the father of seven children.

MOVIE STUNT MAN SHOT

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP.)—Hurd McClellan, daredevli motion picture stunt actor, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday at the Universal studio while depicting for a newsreel the daring of a typical stunt man.

McClellan was wearing armor plate and advancing in a close-up shot toward the muzzle of a revolver in the hands of Mrs. Marion Semmelmeyer, member of the women's state pistol team.

The actor stepped from a line that had been marked for his path, and in doing so, came directly into the line of fire. A bullet pierced his abdomen and he fell to the floor as the photographer recorded the scene.

Jail in Nightie Threat Routs Society Woman

FAIRFIELD, Conn., April 18.—(INS.)—The second Mrs. Henry A. Bishop entertained beside guests at 5 this morning. She didn't invite them. They just walked through the unlatched door, climbed the stairs and cleared their throats until she awakened. They announced:

"We have a warrant for your arrest."

Mrs. Bishop, the former Edith Weed who succeeded Gloria Gould as the mistress of the Bishop menage, looked up sleepily. Said she:

"Well, you'll have to arrest me this way. I won't get up."

Reinforcements came in the persons of three detectives headed by Sergt. Thomas Maloney, of the vice squad. He said:

"Listen, you'll get up in five minutes or we'll take you that way."

She got up.

After two hours in a cell, Mrs. Bishop, who is 29, was arraigned and held in $500 bail on a charge of passing two worthless checks.

PINCHOT CURB ON UTILITIES INTRODUCED

HARRISBURG, April 18.—(INS.)—On the heels of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's demand for more rigid supervision of public service companies, Senator Benjamin H. Thompson, Westmoreland, today introduced the administration's utility bill.

The bill, intended to supplant the McClure omnibus utility measure awaiting final action in the House, was referred to the Senate Judiciary General Committee. It provides for strict regulations which Gov. Pinchot claims are necessary to prevent a condition in Pennsylvania similar to the "Insull collapse."

LIMITS CHARTERS

The measure gives the commission complete control over utility security issues, inter-company contracts, rate increases, excess earnings and refunds for overcharges. It limits utility charters and franchises to 50 years and requires commissioners to devote their entire time to their official work.

Introduction of the bill sounded the keynote for what is expected to be another fight between the Governor and the Republican state organization. The Governor's insistence that his recommendations must be adopted was regarded as assurance he would veto the McClure bill.

His address before the Senate last night termed the latter piece of legislation insufficient to provide the Public Service Commission with the power necessary to obtain rigid control over the utilities.

In this newest volley of a warfare that has extended through his two terms as Governor, Pinchot last night assailed the Senate for failure to confirm his appointees to the Public Service Commission, and for pursuing generally a "path of dawdling, do-nothing and delay."

CITES INSULL CRASH

He emphasized the need for restrictions which would prevent "writeups" of investments and "pyramiding securities" to which he attributed the smashup of the Samuel Insull utilities system.

The Governor asked immediate confirmation of Commissioners P. Stephen Stahlnecker, George W. Woodruff, Frederick P. Gruenberg and C. Jay Goodnough.

He reiterated his demand that the Senate return the nomination of Dr. Clyde L. King, his former secretary of revenue and erstwhile "right-hand man," whom he named as commission chairman last year.

DISPUTE WITH KING

The Governor and Dr. King split recently over the chairman's indorsement of legislation sponsored by Pinchot's political foes and his assertion that he saw no need for continuing a Senate committee's investigation of utilities and their relations with present and former commissioners.

Comparing the measure he introduced last night with that drafted by Republican organization senators (the McClure bill), Pinchot said his own proposal would give the commission:

Dr. King called Gov. Pinchot's speech "his first shot in his new factional fight." He said:

"Gifford's piece was only his first shot in his new factional fight. But I don't mind saying that the sole duty of the chairman of the Public Service Commission is not to make bricks out of Pinchot straw to throw at friend or foe. But Gifford thinks it is."

The Senate listened intently to Gov. Pinchot's demand for immediate confirmation of his appointees to the commission, but appeared in no haste to acquiesce in his request. Soon after the Governor completed his message last night, nominations of a number of notaries public and hospital board members were reported from committee.

Teachers' Salary Cut Bill in Conference

HARRISBURG, April 18.—(AP.)—A conference committee was named to iron out differences over the Wilson (McKean) bill permitting school districts to reduce teachers' pay by 10 per cent. The Senate has placed with the Superintendent of Public Instruction the power to sanction cuts of more than 10 per cent in hard-pressed districts, while the House gave this authority to the county courts.

Sharon Taxpayers Threaten to Strike

SHARON, Pa., April 18.—(AP.)—Spokesmen for the Mercer County Tax Justice League, objecting to a 12-mill tax rate, today announced that 10,000 members of the organization will consider a "tax strike" unless the rate is reduced.

County Commissioners fixed the rate yesterday after a stormy session.

Restaurant Heads To Debate Beer Sale

The Restaurant Association of Western Pennsylvania will meet Thursday evening in the William Penn Hotel to discuss the sale of beer, particularly draft beer. All restaurant proprietors are urged to attend. Walter Mennigke is president of the organization. New officers will be elected at the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

PINCHOT GETS DOOMED BEER BILL

ure in the event the House and Senate substituted for the Sowers bill the compromise reached last week in a conference of Republican and Democratic leaders, wet proponents and the Governor.

PINCHOT UNPLEDGED

Sincere wets today ruefully admitted that the action of the Legislature on the Sowers bill had absolved the Governor from his pledge on the McClure bill.

Some legislative leaders, having gone through with what they knew was a futile gesture in passing the dual bill for control and license, now are advising that the propositions be separated. It is predicted that a license bill could be passed without much trouble, as there is no difference between the Governor and the Legislature on the proposition to tax beer $1.24 per barrel.

The controversy arises over the system of control and issuance of licenses.

The Sowers bill makes Quarter Sessions Courts the licensing boards, a demand upon which William S. Vare, of Philadelphia, insisted.

Democrats had urged that bi-partisan license commissions be set up. The Governor originally insisted that his Department of Revenue should issue licenses.

AGREEMENT SCRAPPED

A compromise was thought to have been reached last week, by which all sides were in agreement that county treasurers should issue the licenses. This agreement, like many others made in this session of the Legislature, was scrapped almost as soon as it was made, the Philadelphia Republicans drumming through the conference report approving the judges as license boards.

On the first rollcall in the Senate today only 26 senators voted in the affirmative. Eager to make a showing, Pinchot opponents scoured the cloakroom and disinterred six more senators, a total of 32, but still two short of the number required to pass a bill over executive veto. Many of those who voted for the bill will not vote to override a veto.

In the House it is probable a majority will vote to uphold the veto if the matter is brought to an issue.

Meanwhile Pennsylvania will continue to be without revenue from beer, as Gov. Pinchot pointed out yesterday, and the brewers will continue to "enjoy a golden harvest."

FUTILE GESTURE

The House last night, recognizing its action was a gesture of utter futility, passed the conference report on the Sowers beer bill by a vote of 105 to 93. Members understood as they voted that the Governor would veto the measure if it eventually reached him through approval by the Senate, and that action then would have to start all over again to obtain revenue from beer.

A revenue measure could not be passed until the end of next week, which would postpone for at least 10 days the time in which brewers might enjoy their newly legalized trade without any impost except that fixed by the federal government.

Democrats voted almost solidly against the conference report last night, insisting upon their own program of bi-partisan boards to license manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers.

Representative James L. Quinn, of Allegheny County, attacking the conference report, declared the system of court licensing would inevitably lead to beer rackets.

BROOKS LAW SCORED

Replying to Representative Clinton A. Sowers, author of the bill, who likened it to the Brooks high license law of the pre-prohibition era, Quinn said:

"With licenses granted by the courts we experienced different instructions in every county. There are many brilliant judges, but there are those of another type. It is said in Allegheny County that under the Brooks law one judge owned 21 saloons. There was no law more mistreated than the Brooks law.

"Judges have asked me to oppose the provision investing them with the license power and I do not believe there is a reputable judge in Pennsylvania who wishes to be charged with this new responsibility. We would never repeal the Eighteenth Amendment because this beer regulation would make a travesty of the whole thing."

That was the note of the Democratic attack, which grew so hot that proponents of the measure shut off Representative John J. Kane, of Allegheny County, by moving the previous question.

Kane was ready to charge that the bill is a lawyers' racket, designed to enable some lawyers to roll up substantial fees through representing clients seeking licenses before the courts. Sowers explained the manner in which fees had been obtained in the days of the Brooks law, a requirement being that lawyers should be employed.

SOWERS BACKS PLAN

Sowers defended this plan and made a long and detailed explanation of the manner in which the conferees considered the bill. The conferees, in addition to Sowers, are Senators John J. McClure, James J. Coyne and Herman Baumer and Representatives Joseph G. Steedle and Albert L. O'Conner.

McClure is understood to have informed the conferees that in defending the original form of the Sowers bill they were setting back adjournment for at least two weeks. He was, however, outvoted after a remarkable series of negotiations in which the Democrats claim they were involved, being short-changed and double-crossed, as usual.

One prominent Democratic leader insisted that an hour before the report was considered Sowers had asked if it would be satisfactory to substitute county treasurers for courts as the licensing power, as was urged by Gov. Pinchot.

DRYS URGE BEER CONTROL PLAN ON PINCHOT

Demands for licensing and restricting beer sales were being presented today to Gov. Pinchot in Harrisburg by the Rev. Dr. James McQuilkin, representing the newly organized Federated Dry Agencies of Allegheny County.

The federation was formed yesterday by representatives from six local church and dry groups. These were the Anti-Saloon League, County Sabbath School Association, National Reform Association, W. C. T. U., Federated Young Peoples' Organization and the Ministerial Union.

Demands being presented today, preceding opening of campaign work to achieve the restrictions and fight repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, included:

Prohibit sales in grocery stores; place license fees for retail stores at minimum of $200 to keep confectioneries and small stores from handling beer; prohibit sale to minors; prohibit sale on Sunday, election day and holidays; prevent sales from within 250 feet of churches and schools, and provide local option for boroughs, townships and wards.

The Rev. Dr. J. E. Morrison was named chairman of the new group at a meeting in the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church. Other members are Attorney A. T. Moragn, of Federated Council of Churches; J. Kirkwood Craig, Sabbath School Association; Mrs. Elizabeth Gibson, W. C. T. U.; the Rev. Dr. James A. Martin, National Reform Association; the Rev. Dr. D. E. Cruea, Anti-Saloon League, and William Wise, Federated Young People.

While taking no action to boycott places selling beer, the group plans to urge churches individually to follow such a policy, Dr. Morrison said.

'Metro' Bill Changes Approved by House

HARRISBURG, April 18.—(AP.)—The Senate last night concurred in minor House amendments to the Coyne resolution providing a metropolitan charter for Greater Pittsburgh.

The resolution would amend the Constitution and will be submitted to the voters in November.

BEAMISH SHUNS VOTE MACHINE 'MESS' HERE

HARRISBURG, April 18.—Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, today said he would not interfere with the Allegheny County voting machine row.

After dispatching a letter to the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, who asked that the county commissioners be stopped from awarding a contract to repair the machines, he said:

"The Allegheny County voting machines situation is such a mess that action by me at this time would only add to the confusion."

In his letter to Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, he said:

"Your letter and its accompanying statement indicate that the Allegheny County voting machine situation is distinctly up to the County Commissioners and the courts of Allegheny County. The complications are too involved and too numerous to be settled by any dictum coming from this office.

"I am referring your letter and its accompanying statement to the Attorney General and am asking him to advise me whether or not I have any further duty at this time under the conditions as they exist."

Vote Machine Repairs Put at $125,000

It will cost Allegheny County approximately $125,000 to repair its 1,100 voting machines, it was announced today as County Commissioner C. M. Barr opened bids for the work. As he opened the two bids submitted, the League of Women Voters was awaiting word from Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard L. Beamish as to its request that he force the Commissioners to delay the award.

The Thomas Spacing Machine Company, Glenshaw, was low bidder for the work, with three proposals ranging from $123,310 to $126,720. The Automatic Electric Company, Chicago, had three proposals ranging from $167,585 to $179,455. It would cost $15,000 to ship the machines to Chicago, it was said.

ROYALTY WAIVED

H. O. Whipple, representing the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, which repaired two machines, on which the specifications were based, said his company would waive the $20 license fee on each machine.

The Automatic Voting Machine Corporation, of Jamestown, N. Y., which was in the market when the county purchased the present machines, offered a trade proposition, $200 for each county machine with net cost of $868 for each new machine.

Bill Would Limit 'Bag' of Nimrods To One Hunter

HARRISBURG, April 17.—(AP.)—A new "game limit" for Pennsylvania hunters—one fellow-gunner—would be fixed by a bill introduced by Senator Richard S. Quigley, Clinton.

His measure would permit the Game Commission to revoke the hunting license of any person found to have caused injury to another by gun fire through carelessness or negligence "on a second occasion."

The commission would be allow to refuse hunting privileges to the offender for as long as the commission should decide.

Plan Reception Here For Polish General

Plans for the reception of Gen. Roman Gorecki, noted Polish soldier, statesman and financier, were discussed yesterday by the American Legion Allegheny County executive and public celebrations committee and Polish Consul Jan Lech Byszewski.

Gen. Gorecki will arrive here May 3. He is visiting the United States as international president of the Inter-allied Federation of Former Combatants. He will be accompanied by prominent fellow countrymen.

REGISTRATION BILL PASSES

HARRISBURG, April 18.—Conflicting bills for permanent registration of Pittsburgh voters are advancing through the Legislature.

The Senate last night passed the bill of Senator Frank J. Harris providing for permanent, instead of annual enrollment of voters in the entire county. In the House this bill may be amended to apply to Pittsburgh only, and to call for a registration commission of five members, instead of three, as it now provides.

The Senate also advanced for final action today the Pittsburgh Registration Commission's own bill, sponsored by Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr. This bill applies only to the city, and proposes that instead of the present commission, registration be in charge of a one-man bureau serving full time.

TRAFFIC SIGN CALLED PERIL UPHELD

The billboard Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence branded a traffic hazard will stay, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the Education Committee of the Better Traffic Committee.

The safety sign is in Water street facing Liberty avenue. In a letter of protest to the Better Traffic Committee, Mrs. Lawrence, chairman for Pennsylvania of the Billboard and Roadside Committee, Garden Club of America, suggested the sign be removed. At a meeting yesterday the committee on education, to which her letter was referred, decided to take no actioon.

The committee will report to the Better Traffic Committee that in its opinion the "Drive Safe" sign does not distract the attention of motorists in a manner to cause accidents. In reply to Mrs. Lawrence, Rosenbaum said:

"Before the committee decided to erect its sign at that spot, we studied the location carefully from a safety angle. No accidents for that corner are on record, either for the time before we put up the sign or since.

"The committee does not believe the sign is a traffic hazard or that it is distracting. But it does convey a valuable safety message. Our general policy is against any signs which are actually distracting or obstructive, but we do not believe that this one is. There is a stop light on that corner, traffic is slow, and only half the street is moving at once."

The sign in queston reads:

"Thou shalt not kill. Your car doesn't think—Do You?"

Backed by the Civic Club and other organizations, Mrs. Lawrence has had introduced into the Legislature a bill imposing a tax on billboards, and subjecting them to state regulation. In her letter she asked the Better Traffic Committee to indorse her bill. Officials of the committee said they believed such a matter was outside its province.

Committee Delays Plans for Wharves

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang announced late yesterday that the committee appointed to recommend a wharf improvement plan to City Council has not reached a definite decision.

Lang's announcement followed a meeting of the committee in the offices of the City Planning Committee. He said it was awaiting reports from several interested groups.

Fannie Hurst Writes President's Day Tribute

Universal Service.

(Fannie Hurst, author of "Humoresque," "Song of Life," "Back Street," "Five and Ten" and other novels, wrote this statement on the observance of President's Day for Universal Service Exclusively.)

By FANNIE HURST

Written Expressly for Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 18.—It is a right and fitting gesture that the entire country should dedicate a day to the expression of confidence in and higher fidelity to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

No man is so exalted that the sympathetic understanding and co-operation of his fellows does not make easier his way.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's way is our way, and our way is Franklin D. Roosevelt's way—the greatest good to the greatest number. Stress and duress have leavened our party considerations and our partisan considerations to the praiseworthy level of common ground.

We realize with a sense of sympathetic accord that in all the history of these United States no man has been called to their helm at more critical or difficult times.

We are also realizing how nobly, how powerfully, and how intelligently he is taking that helm. We are still in rough waters. There are doubtless rough waters ahead, but already confidence and co-operation are doing much to help right our listing ship of state. Every citizen who loves his country should honor and respect the efforts of the sincere gentleman at its head to steer us out of midchannel.

President's Day should be observed in the spirit of gratitude and confidence.

Canes and Jewelry Stolen From Home

PASTORS FAVOR PRESIDENT DAY APRIL 30

Members of the Methodist Episcopal Ministerial Association and the Presbyterian Ministerial Association of Greater Pittsburgh have endorsed President's Day, April 30.

Meeting yesterday, the two groups passed resolutions — the Methodists with the Rev. Dr. J. Morrison presiding urging all the churches to observe it.

The Rev. Dr. T. D. Imbrie, head of the Presbyterian group, suggested the various clergymen in their denomination might be favorable to the observance, and the body agreed. The resolution:

"As an association we look upon the observance of a yearly President's Day with favor."

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Leith made the motion from the floor.

Dr. Morrison spoke of President's Day before the Methodist group, which met in the Methodist building. The meeting room was crowded. Dr. Morrison said:

"The group acted in regard to President's Day, and urged all the churches to recognize it."

SESSION OPENED BY AMARANTH

The state convention of the Order of Amaranth opened today in Hotel William Penn with a Pittsburgher scheduled for elevation tomorrow to the grand royal matron.

Mrs. Sara E. Killen, present associate royal matron will succeed Mrs. Dora B. Smith, also of Pittsburgh. A public installation will be held Thursday night. Dr. Frank C. Blessing, Pittsburgh, will be succeeded as grand royal patron by Henry C. Weibel, Philadelphia.

The annual banquet will be held tomorrow night, followed by dancing and cards. A public reception last night informally opened the convention which continues through Thursday.

N. Y. MINISTER TO TALK HERE

"Is there a Crisis in Religious Education?" will be the subject of a sermon by the Rev. Edwin Fairley, of New York, at the morning services in the First Unitarian Church Sunday. For 13 years he has been associate secretary of the department of religious education of the American Unitarian Association.

His sermon will be in connection with an institute for parents and teachers which opens Saturday night in the First Church. At this time Dr. S. P. Franklin, professor of religion and religious education of the University of Pittsburgh, will speak on "What Should be the Responsibilities of the Volunteer Church School Teacher?"

Bandit Locks Victim In 'Cooler' with Gun

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 18.—(AP.)—It was a cold-blooded holdup, Frank Slesur told police, but he couldn't keep cool enough to shoot straight, and the bandit got away with the cash.

Slesur, a meat market manager, reported a gunman locked him in the ice box, where he had a small caliber gun hidden. He gripped the cold steel and fired through the ice box window, but the shots went wild, and the gunman left, unharmed.

Club Here Urges Tinkam Support

A resolution upholding United States Congressman George H. Tinkam, Massachusetts, in his request that Congress investigate seditious organizations, has been adopted by the Irish Independence Club of Pittsburgh. The club urges congressional representatives from this district to support Tinkam's action.

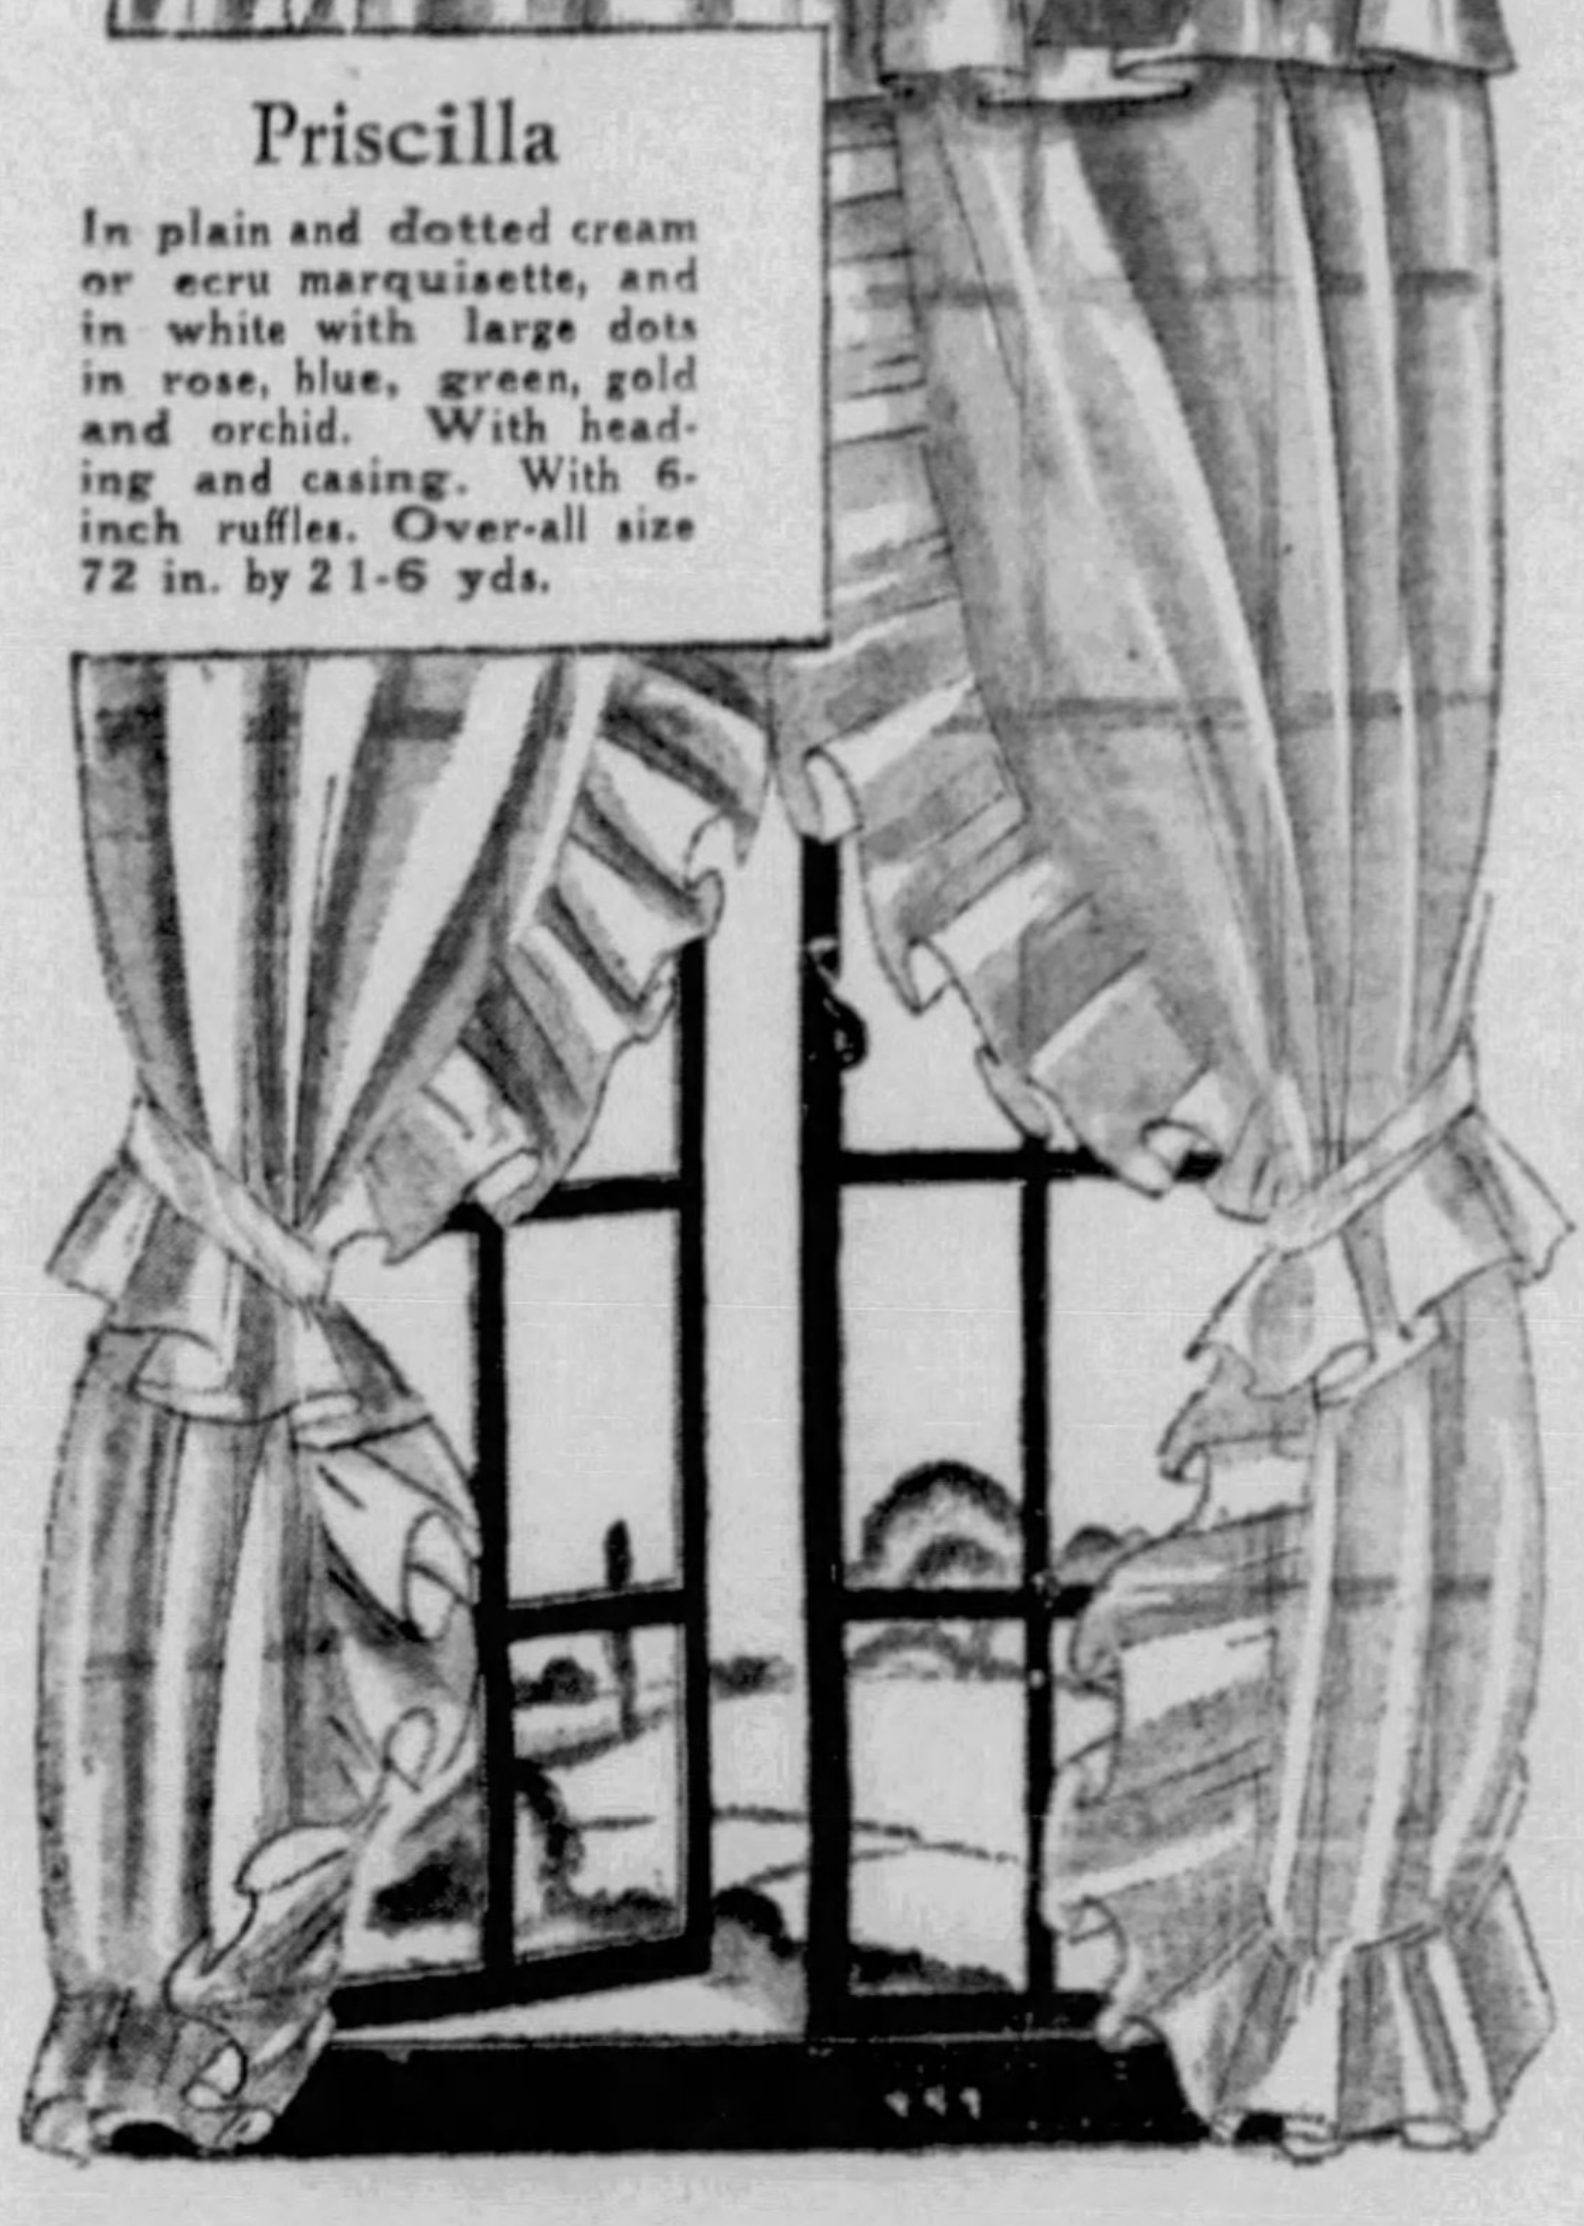
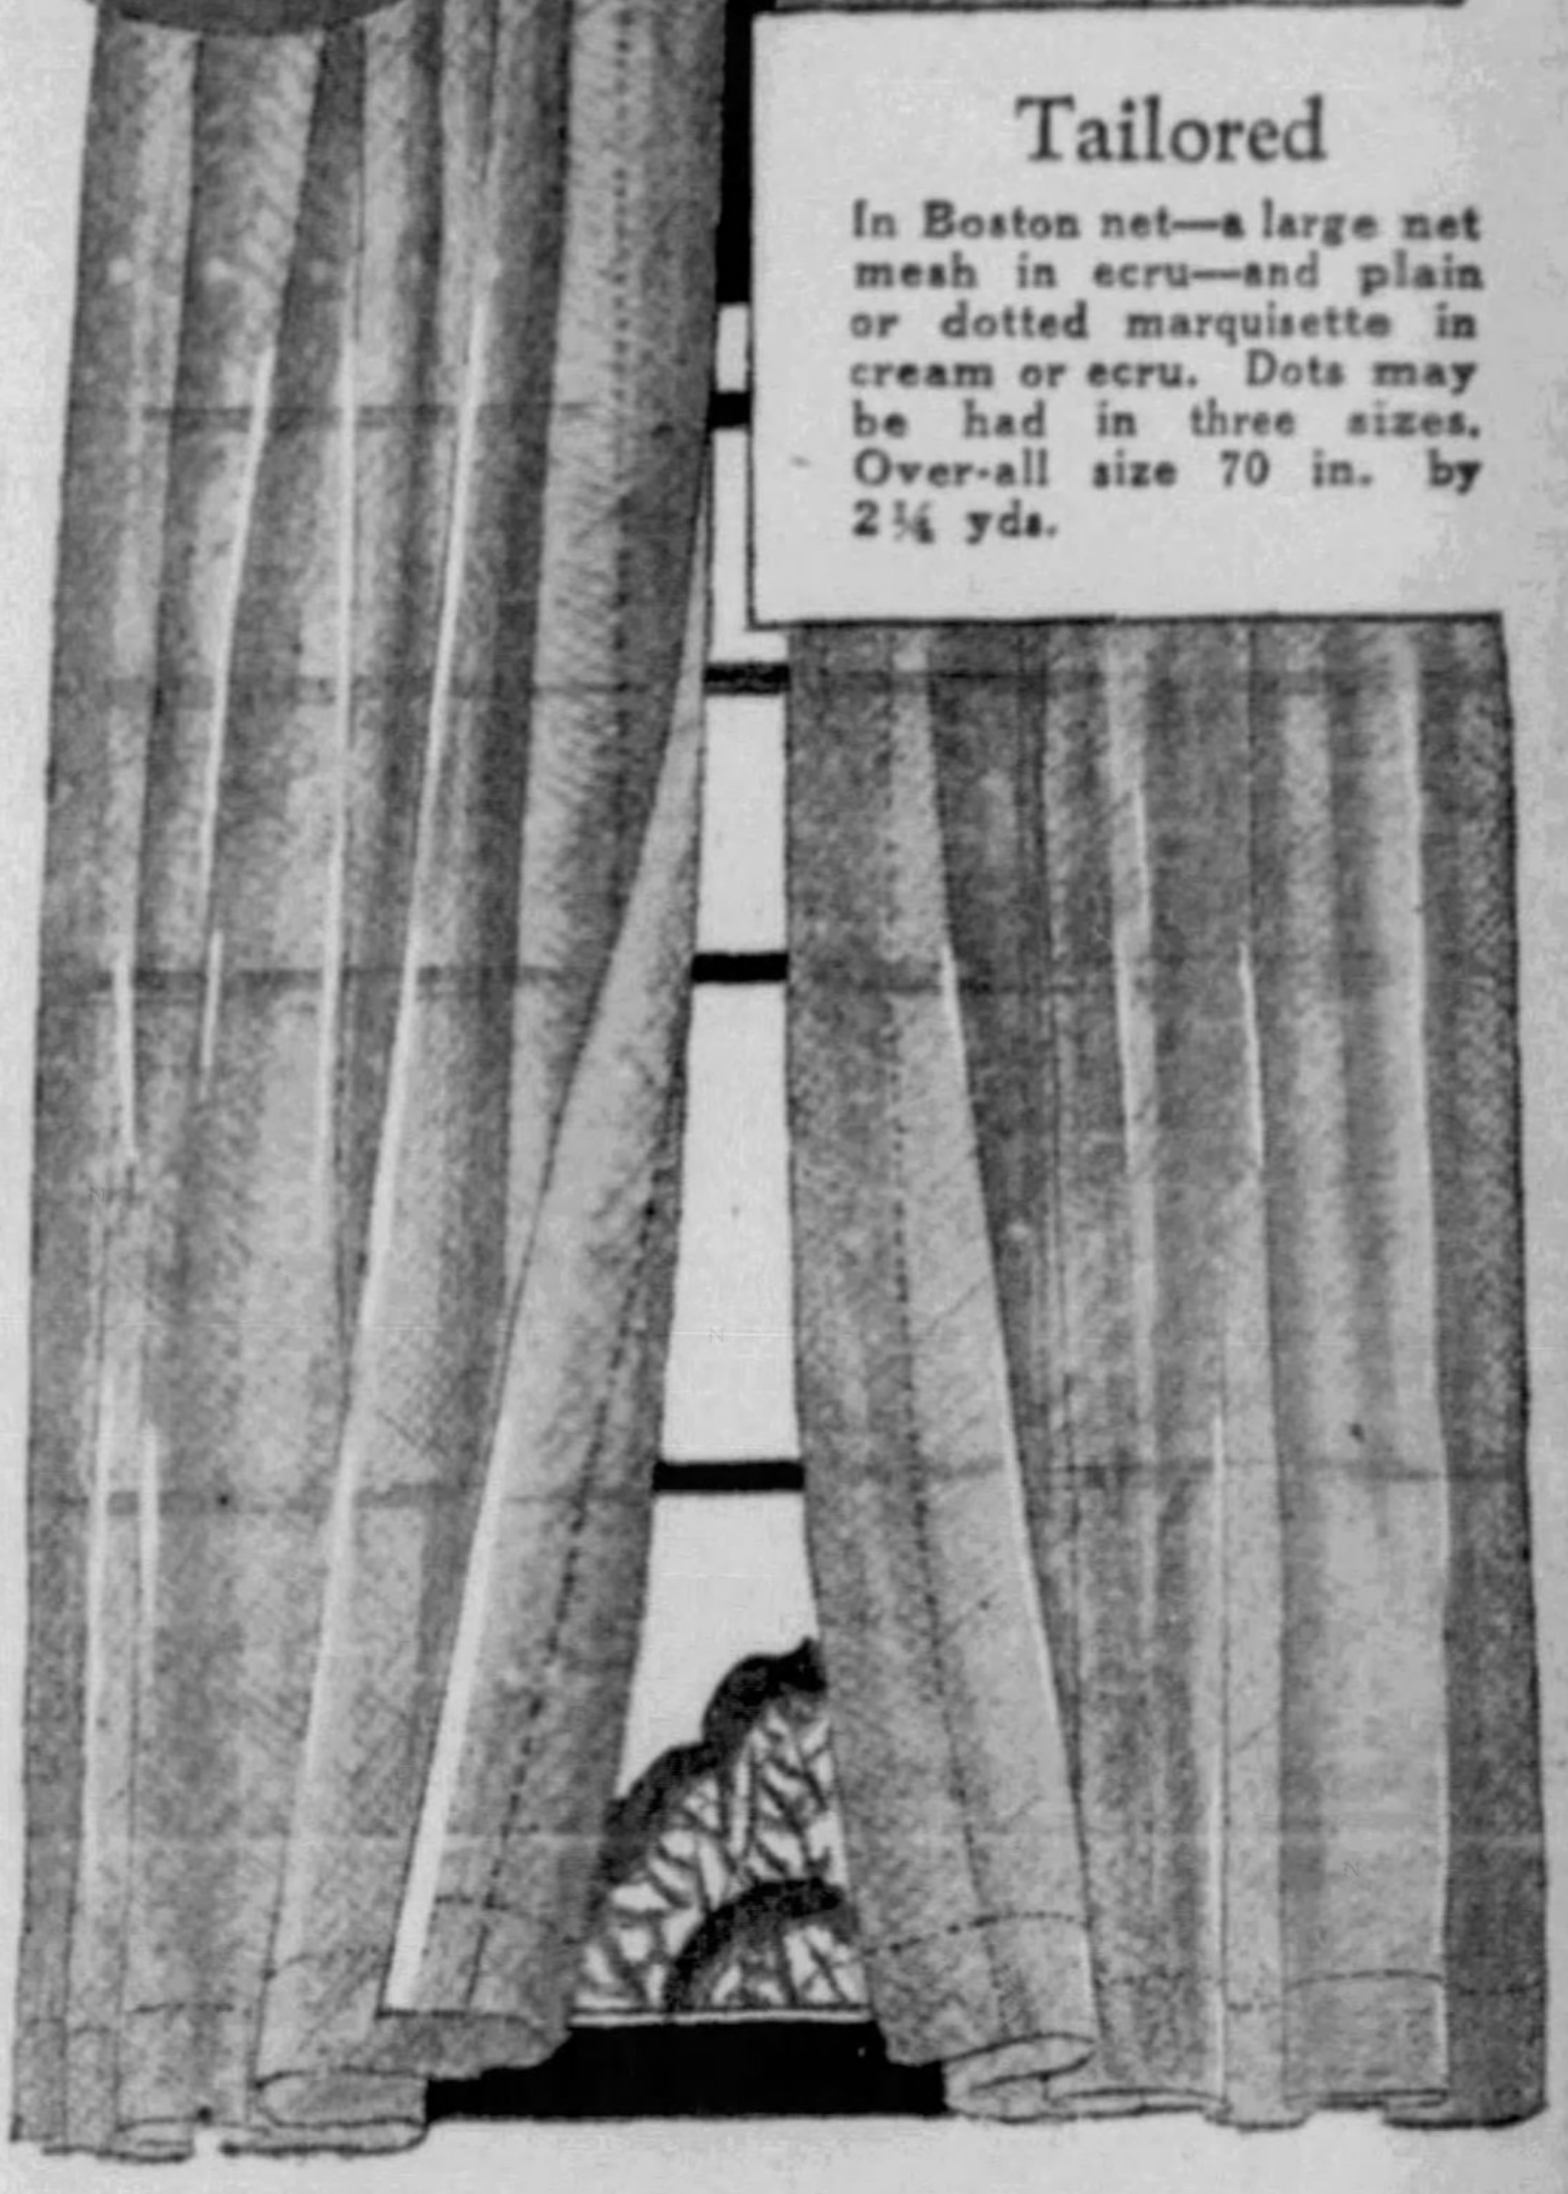
Finer Qualities—Regularly Much More

8500 Pairs—Curtains for Every Room

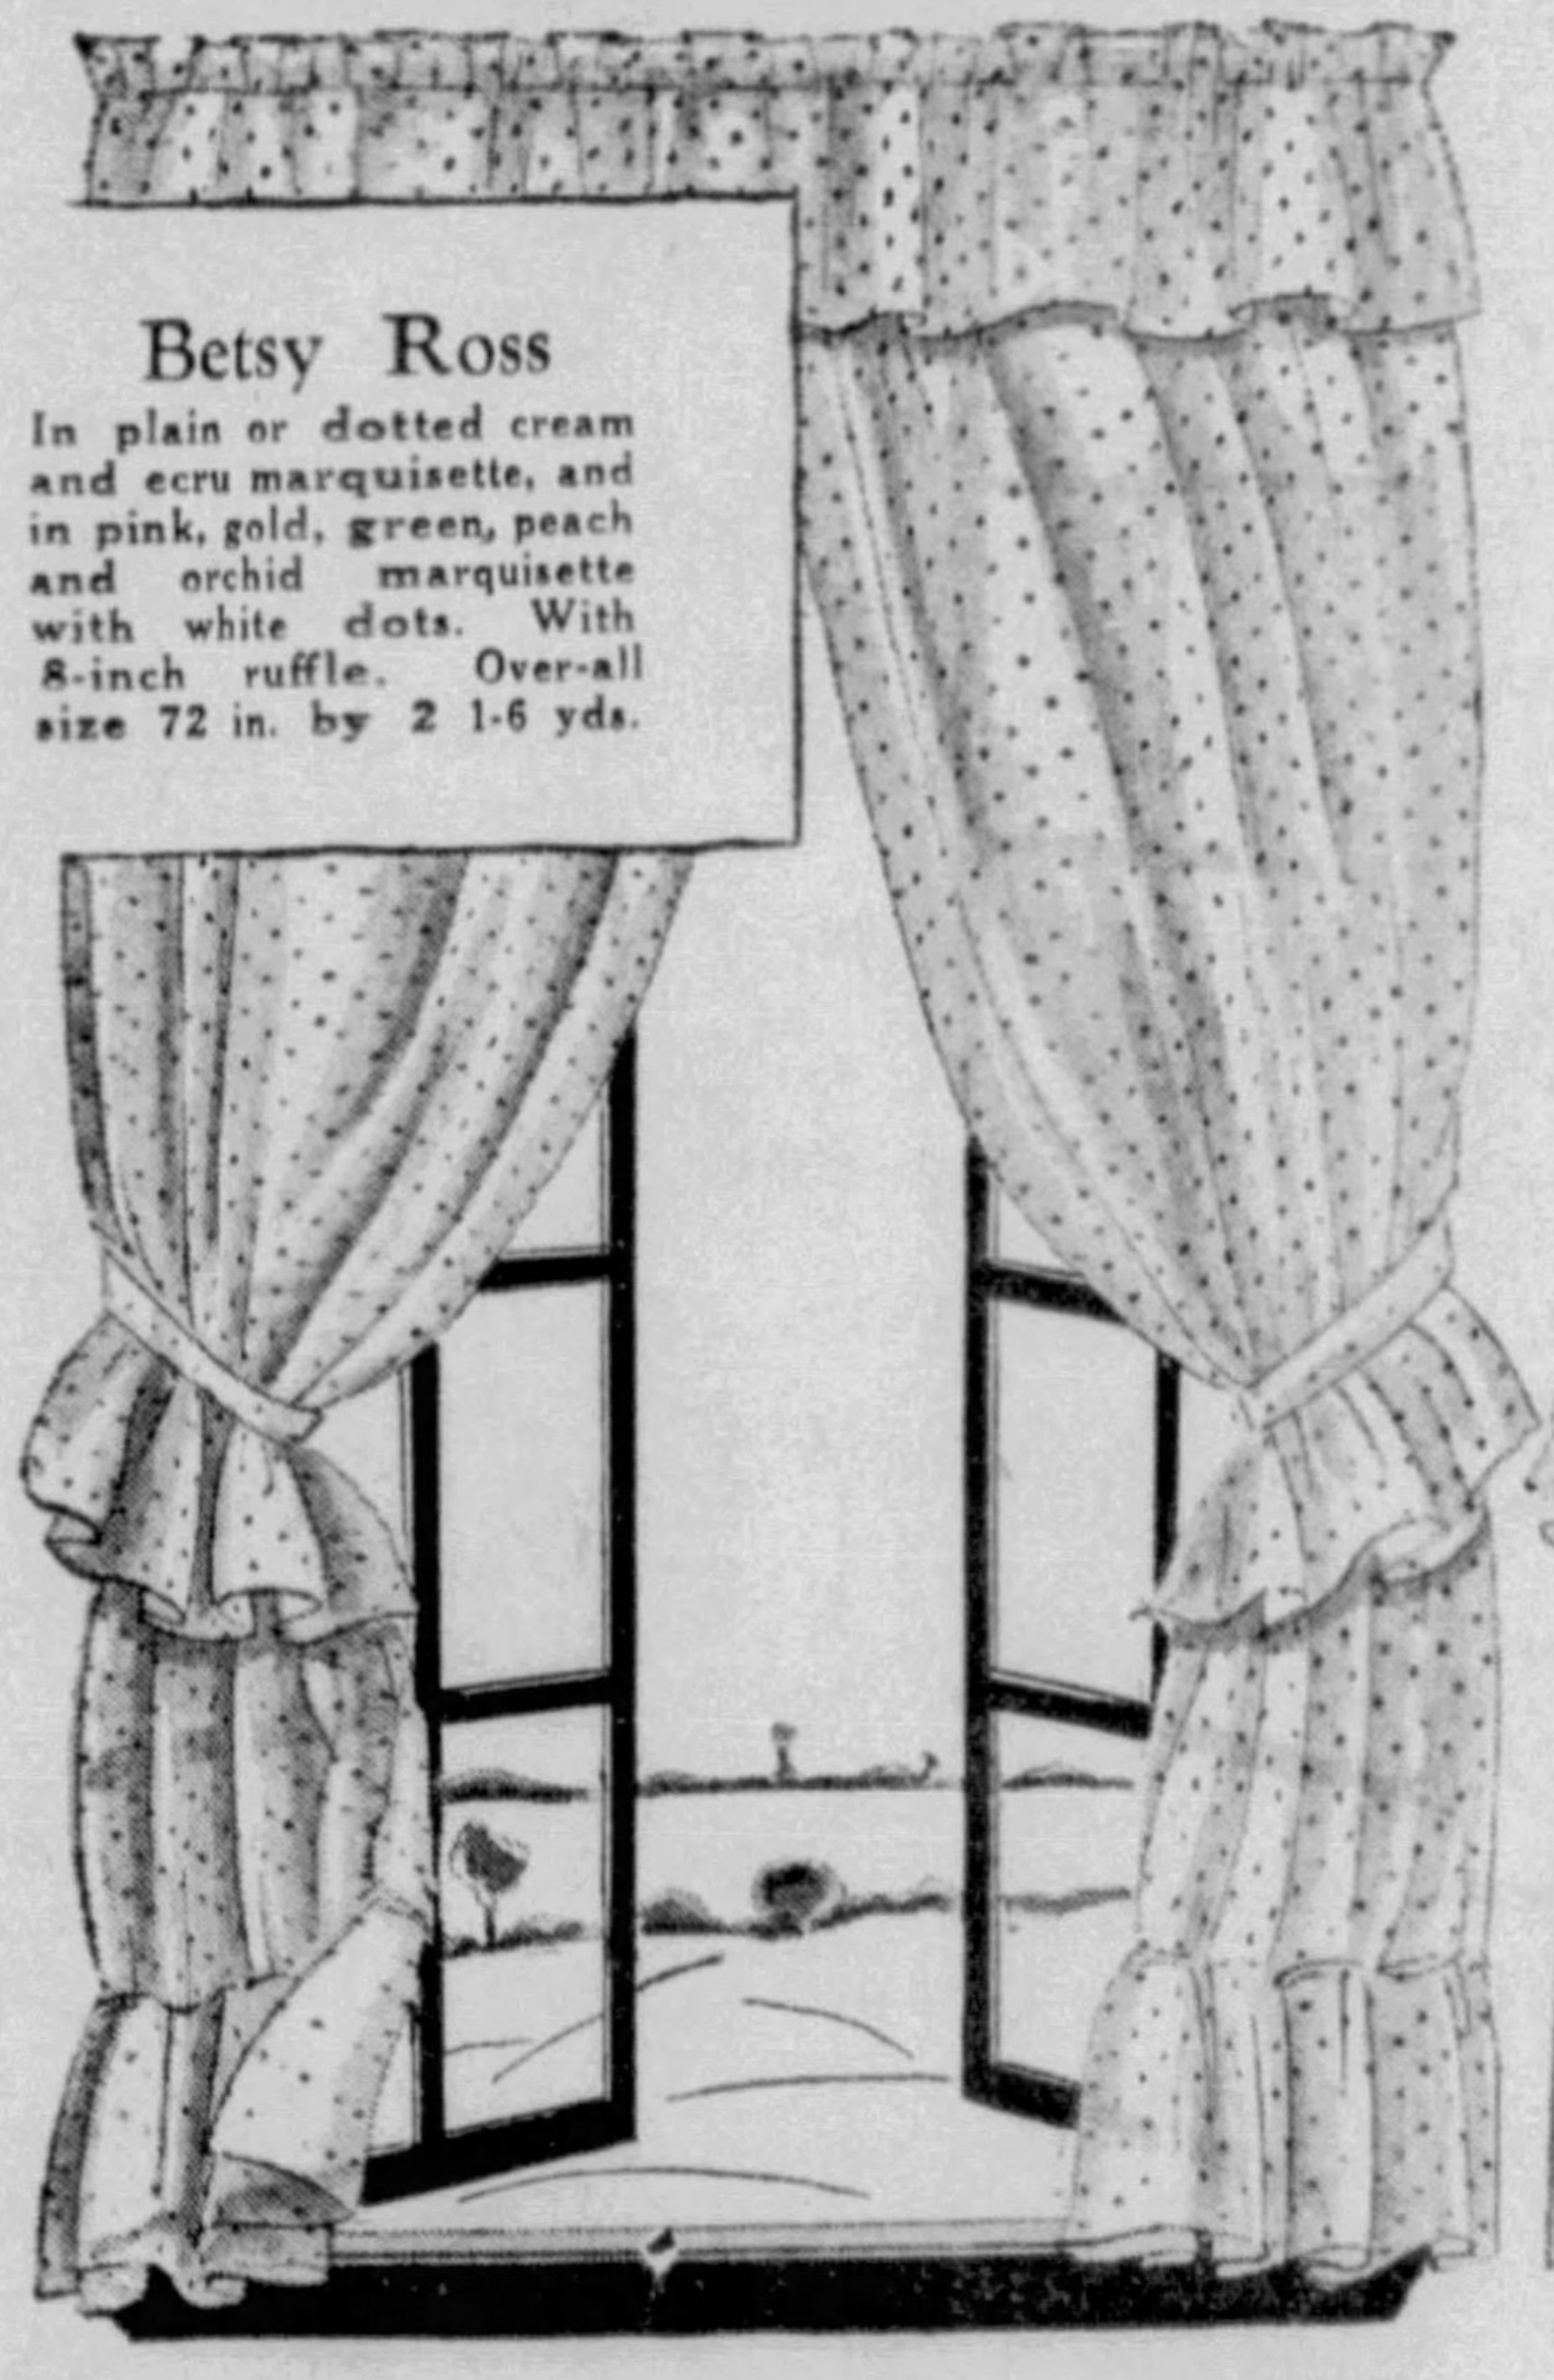
95c Pair



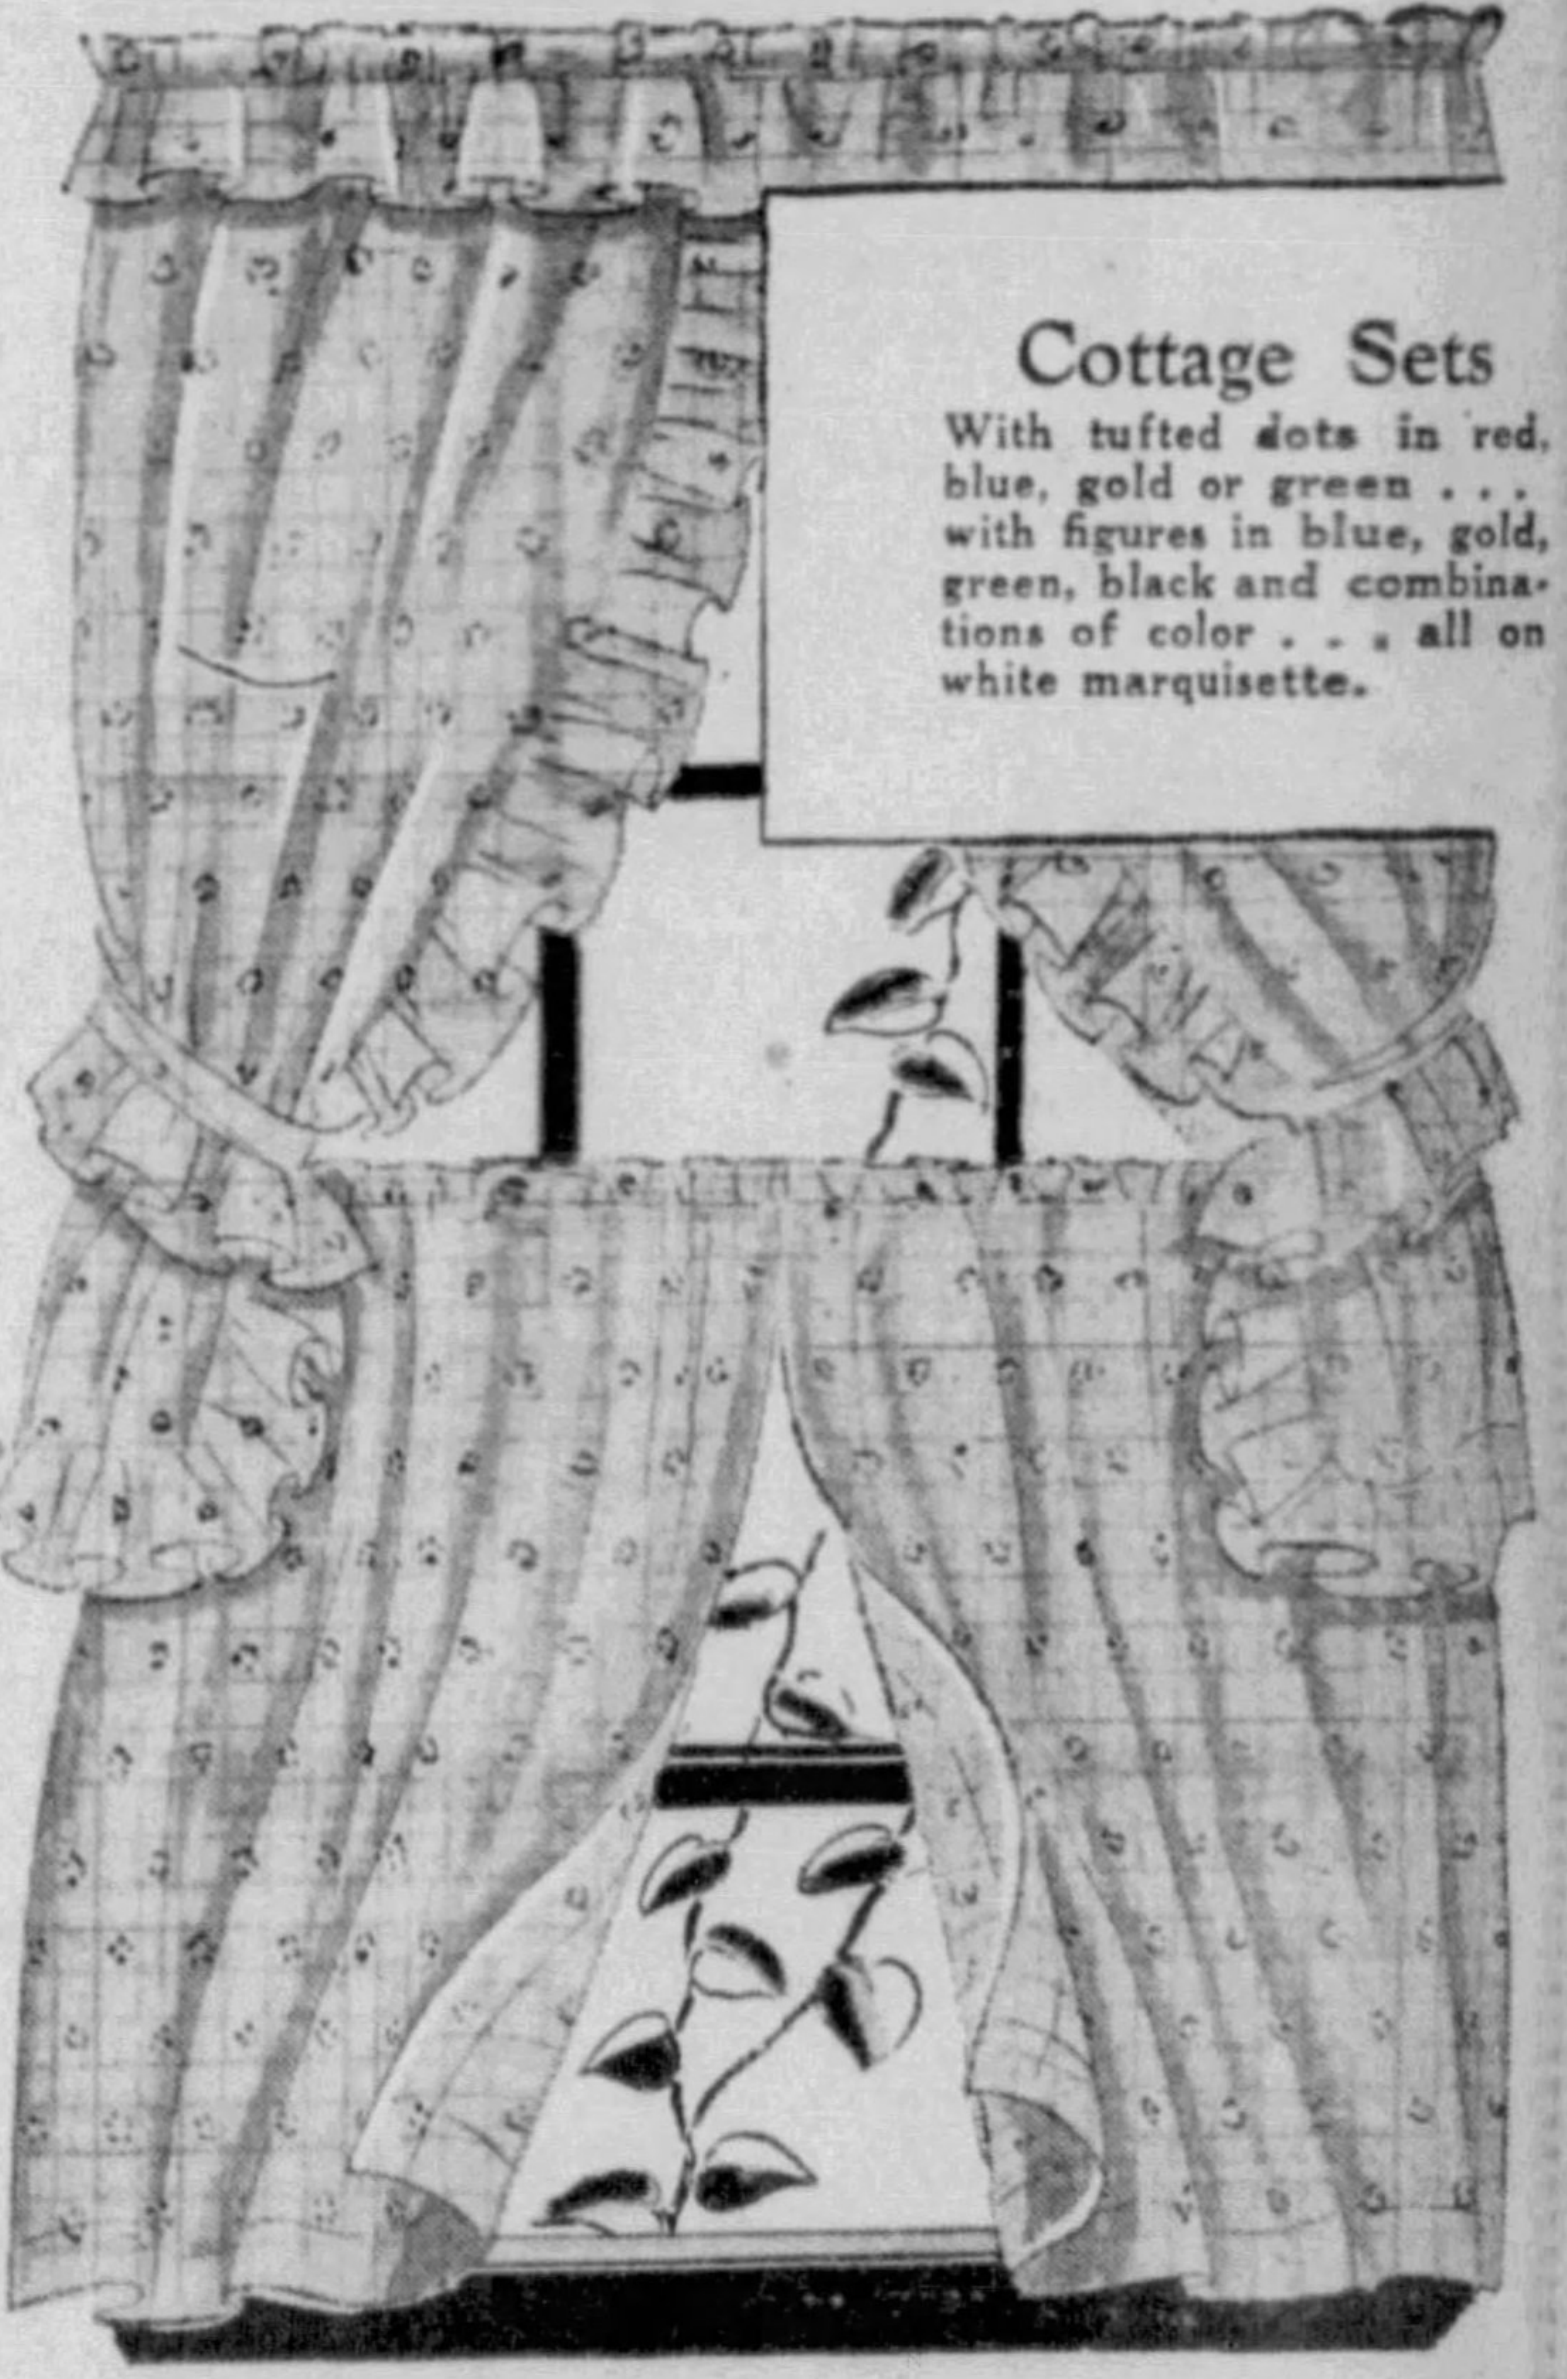
Priscilla
In plain and dotted cream or ecru marquisette, and in white with large dots in rose, blue, green, gold and orchid. With heading and casing. With 6-inch ruffles. Over-all size 72 in. by 2 1-6 yds.



Tailored
In Boston net—a large net mesh in ecru—and plain or dotted marquisette in cream or ecru. Dots may be had in three sizes. Over-all size 70 in. by 2¼ yds.



Betsy Ross
In plain or dotted cream and ecru marquisette, and in pink, gold, green, peach and orchid marquisette with white dots. With 8-inch ruffle. Over-all size 72 in. by 2 1-6 yds.



Cottage Sets
With tufted dots in red, blue, gold or green . . . with figures in blue, gold, green, black and combinations of color . . . all on white marquisette.

The four most wanted styles of curtains for spring and summer use—Betsy Ross and Priscilla ruffled, tailored marquisettes and nets, and cottage sets of dotted and figured marquisettes—all at this sale price, which is greatly below the regular cost of like qualities. We carefully timed this event to your needs and requirements.

The curtains are Horne quality in every respect—fabrics, style and workmanship. Cut full width and length, accurately sized, and carefully finished, many with headings and casings.

The importance of the savings offered is increased by the pending legislation that will send cotton prices higher, and curtain costs with them. Act on this opportunity to supply your curtain needs.

TEACHERS PLAN MARCH ON CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—Representatives of Chicago's 14,000 unpaid school teachers, determined to get action, played hope against hope today.

They planned a conference with Secretary Woodin, of the Treasury Department, and Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Corporation.

The seven representatives, headed by the small, sparse, white-haired, intense little Miss Margaret A. Haley, business representative of the Chicago Teachers' Federation, declared they hoped to obtain federal action before a group of the unpaid teachers staged a "desperation march" to Washington.

FAIL TO SEE PRESIDENT

Yesterday, under the guidance of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat of Illinois, they called at the White House in hopes of seeing President Roosevelt. They saw, instead, his secretary, Marvin McIntyre.

They were anxious to tell Mr. Roosevelt about a situation which, Miss Haley said, "Nobody in Washington understood." She explained:

"Chicago banks have vaults filled with money from Reconstruction Corporation loans. They refuse, however, to buy school board tax warrants. That means that they refuse to make it possible for Chicago's 14,000 teachers to be paid.

"The situation in Chicago is desperate. Teachers are starving. They haven't been paid for almost a year's work."

It was Robert C. Keenan, another one of the delegation, who declared that "immediate" steps must be taken to head off a "general trek" of teachers to Washington. He said:

"Unless we obtain some form of assurance from Mr. Woodin and Mr. Jones every teacher who still has an automobile and can raise the price of a tankful of gasoline will move on Washington. Something has to be done to head that off."

Asked whether he told this to Mr. McIntyre, Keenan said:

Pittsburgh Dancer Held for Checks

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—(AP.)—A man who identified himself as Lee Orr, 23-year-old marathon dancer of Pittsburgh, was held in $600 bail for court today on charges of passing worthless checks.

Mrs. Gladys Miller said she took three checks made out by Orr in payment for board, and that all were returned by her bank.

EGG-ROLLING ON THE WHITE HOUSE LAWN

WASHINGTON'S CHILDREN IN THEIR ANNUAL ROMP: ROLLING EGGS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

LOSES $10,000 ROLLING EGGS

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(INS.)—A Los Angeles visitor today reported to the White House police she had lost a $10,000 diamond brooch in the south grounds yesterday during the Easter egg rolling fete.

Miss Mary Langford described the missing gems as a large diamond surrounded by a score of smaller diamonds set in platinum and bearing the initials "M. L."

Half a dozen other losses of money as high as $50 and personal valuables also were reported as lost.

Police figures showed that 47,000 children and adults attended the White House grounds during the celebration. Forty-five lost children were returned to their parents and 50 persons were treated for minor illnesses.

Crittenton Home To Fete Birthday

A reception tomorrow in the Pittsburgh Florence Crittenton Home, 525 South Aiken avenue, will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first Crittenton home and the one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of the founder, Charles N. Crittenton.

Mrs. Ronald Quay Cleavenger, president of the women's auxiliary of the home, is chairman of the reception committee, aided by Mrs. Ernest N. Calhoun, Mrs. George W. Feltyberger and Mrs. Thomas Watters.

Brothers Reunited After 33 Years By 'Want Ad'

NEW YORK, April 18.—(Universal.)—Two brothers who had not seen each other in 33 years clasped hands yesterday in the office of the New York American, where they called to bear witness to the wide reader audience of its classified advertising pages.

They were Joseph Hart, milk truck driver, and John, his brother, coal miner of Avoca, Pa.

Joseph, not having seen John since he was a boy of 11 in 1900, inserted a public notice about him in the New York American on Wednesday, April 5.

'QUEEN' OF HILL GETS 3 MONTHS

Bertha Prisby, Negro, reputed Hill district resort "queen," was sentenced to serve from three months to a year in jail by Judge S. H. Gardner today. She had pleaded guilty to perjury and keeping a disorderly house.

She had testified before the grand jury that she had arranged to pay Tony Siano, political lieutenant, $25 a week for protecting a place at 1310 Colwell street. At Siano's trial she denied her story, resulting in a perjury charge.

Siano, convicted four months ago of accepting money from disorderly houses, has never been sentenced.

NATION URGED TO 'BUILD MEN'

Americans should build men instead of wealth, the Rev. Jeremiah Joseph Callahan, president of Duquesne University, declared last night, addressing members of the Retail Credit Men's Association in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Mayor John S. Herron, present as a guest of honor, lauded Pittsburgh's credit standing and its achievements.

Father Callahan touched on the promised new deal for Americans and said that benefits from it would come not from policies but from establishment of confidence. He said:

"We have been accumulating wealth but forcing men to decay. We have been killing their souls and making money our God."

President B. J. Lindberg presided, and Col. Franklin Blackstone introduced the speakers.

FOREST CAMPS FOR PA. 'ARMY'

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Plans went forward today to give employment to upwards of 1,000 Pennsylvania youths in five reforestation camps to be established in the state under the Roosevelt administration's emergency employment relief program.

Director Robert Fechner, of the emergency conservation work, announced the location of the Pennsylvania camps, all in the Allegheny National Forest, as follows:

1—Northeast of Marienville, Forest County.

2—Heart's Content, Warren County.

3—Dunkle Corner, McKean County.

4—Owls Nest, northwest of Ridgway, Elk County.

5—Southwest of Bradford on Sugar Run, McKean County.

The men will be taken from camps at Fort Hoyle, Carlisle barracks, Fort Meade or Fortress Monroe.

Each camp will be assigned approximately 200 men, who will be paid at the rate of $1 a day in addition to free housing, clothing, food and medical attention. Plans call for further camps in the state at an early date.

Ohio Farmer Owns Pig With Four Ears

TIFFIN, O., April 18.—(AP.)—Emmett Kelbey, farmer near here, has a baby pig with four ears.

REMEDY PROFIT GOES TO PITT

The gift to the University of Pittsburgh of all royalties from the sale of a remedy for pernicious anemia awaits confirmation of the deed of trust by the university trustees, according to John Weber, business manager of the university.

Dr. William Herron and Dr. W. S. McEllroy, co-discoverers of the formula, are members of the school of medicine. A contract has been signed with a drug company for manufacture and distribution of the medicine.

Pernicious anemia is often a fatal disease. The doctors expect this discovery will save many lives. For several years Dr. Herron and Dr. McEllroy have been collaborating in seeking cures for blood diseases. In experiments with the new formula at Pittsburgh hospitals amazing results were obtained, the doctors say.

Hotel Proprietor Ends Life in Lobby

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 18.—Coroner Cyrus W. Davis today announced no inquest would be held on the death of Andrew Schlossnagel, 60, proprietor of the Luray Hotel, who fatally shot himself in the reception room of the hotel late yesterday. Schlossnagel formerly had conducted the Arlington Hotel, Somerset, for many years.

ADOPTS HIS OWN CHILDREN

ALTOONA, Pa., April 18.—(AP.)—Audrey and Irene Hugar, 4 and 6 years old, are the legally-adopted daughters of their own father.

Four months ago the children were adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Latchford. Mr. Latchford died. A court ruled it was Hugar's duty to take back his children, and that the only way he could do so was to adopt them.

ALPHABET CLUE TO CIPHER

CIPHER NO. 85

By EDWARD C. FAAS

4-10, 15-11-17-10, 3-32-11, 2-17-10, 17-18-14-16-13, 13-16-10-25, 14-23, 2-16-10-28.

Did you complete it? It should be easy for you.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

How are you coming along with Cipher No. 85? It isn't so hard. With the tip today, you shouldn't fail. Here's what the contributor of this cipher writes:

"I have been following your cipher column for some time and must say it is very interesting, although I have had very little success in solving them. At first they were not very hard, but now, Oh boy! I think the following cipher may prove puzzling and hope you will put it in your column."

Now for the tip. Write out the alphabet alternately, starting with "Z," "A" and so on. That should make it easy for you.

200 TO ATTEND LABOR MEET

The Pittsburgh district is expected to send more than 200 labor and farm delegates to the "Continental Congress for Economic Reconstruction," in Washington, May 6 and 7. Upwards of 5,000 delegates from the nation are expected to attend.

The call has been sent out from local headquarters by David Rinne, secretary. It was sent to labor and fraternal organizations, granges and various unemployed labor groups. The movement, according to Rinne, is anti-Communistic. He says:

Lorenz Choir Gives Cantata in Carnegie

The choir of the Lorenz Avenue Baptist Church will present a cantata, "Christ Victorious," in the Carnegie Baptist Church, Sunday night. The choir will sing under the special direction of H. A. Thrun, with T. Kirk Heselbarth at the organ. The cantata was given on Easter at the Lorenz avenue church and Sunday's presentation is by invitation of the Carnegie congregation.

Things That Burn Me Up and Knock Me Cold

You probably observed an interesting complaint here recently. It concerned a dance director, charged by his 16 dancing girls with having failed them in the matter of wages. They agreed, their indictment stated, to accept $32.50 instead of $40, which they received in a show for which the same man assembled them—but when they appeared in vaudeville for him—he deducted another $2.50—without their permission.

The young director lost no time making a vigorous denial—and hoped that this pillar would contradict the charges. He blamed the girls for concocting "such a story because I canceled 'Buffalo,' etc."

The following day he forwarded two letters to this desk. One from a member of the booking department which assumes the blame—and another letter signed by some of the girls. The latter letter offers a clean slate for the director and the gals "exceedingly regret" having blamed him, etc.

The night before, when the director vowed he would submit such letters—he was cautioned that any letter from the girls must not be promoted via the intimidation route. That the girls must not be frightened into penning or signing such a retraction. He promised he wouldn't do such a thing. He wasn't that sort, he added.

When the letter from the kids arrived—we suspected that they had been scared into sending it. We phoned some of them to ask what pressure had been brought. They timidly confessed that they were led to understand that if "we didn't sign the letter he was submitting to you the circuit would never again engage us!"

"That $2.50," writes one of the kids, "would have bought my mother, brothers and myself food for three days. As it is I must try and try again to borrow from someone. Thanks for taking this up for us. We felt we could get from you some satisfaction—and that if we went to Equity about it nothing would happen. Equity is all for one and that ONE is the producer! Equity is so smug and satisfied with the steps onward it made years ago. The stars get the breaks—not we unimportant chorus girls."

Sixteen $2.50s—a sum of $40. Somebody—whether it is the dance director, the booking department or someone else, can blush a little with the shame of it. It's a form of petty larceny. And we want to remind anybody that whenever we hear of managers, producers, directors et al handing chorus girls or others such misdeals—that this corner will be in the corner of Master and Miss Nobody—who are tomorrow's Somebodies.

We wish the 16 girls would call at this office to get their respective $2.50s. It'll be a bargain for us—to shame the villains concerned all the more. Ask for Miss Cambridge, girls—and don't worry about being blacklisted either. Broadway has a number of worth-whiles—who might find a spot for your hoofing in their ensembles.

The reports persist and the editorial writers are groaning about it, too, that ex-Police Commissioner Mulrooney resigned that job—because he was "being made miserable" by higher-ups.

Some of us in the editorial rooms suspected as much. Why should a man quit a $13,000 job to accept one paying $12,000?

Mr. Mulrooney has enjoyed the rare distinction in his career—of never being "on the take." He isn't a grifter or a grafter.

You see—Mulrooney "was a Jimmy Walker man." Catch on?

Confession. We really go to the Ha-Ha Club for laughs instead of working late until the wee hours as we used to do. Where Jerry Berger keeps us in stitches with his pantomime. Work is for crazy people!

Although Mrs. Vallee may titter, her husband is convinced that the alienation of affections action brought against her by Mrs. Kathleen Leon is no joke—and that it is on the up-and-up. The legends about the affair include the chatter that while there may not be a Mrs. Kathleen Leon (as Garfield Leon himself has so stated publicly) that there is a woman named Kathleen, whom Leon admits knowing for at least two years.

What interests the editorial department is this: Is it probable that this two years' acquaintanceship is the woman's basis for the action? Which was brought in the usual legal way through Maxwell G. Cutler, a local attorney. Therefore the action must be o. k., for no respectable attorney (regardless of what Mrs. Vallee's admirers suspect) would be a party to a spurious lawsuit.

The report that Rudy made a settlement on his estranged bride, which "gave her $1,000 a month plus the Vallee mansion in California," are immensely exaggerated.

On the contrary—this spectator knows that Mrs. Vallee settled for $100 a week and relinquished her half ownership of the $110,000 house to Rudy.

Wonder why?

Il Duce Star In Variety

By WILLIAM J LEWIS

"Mussolini Speaks," picture—not photoplay—in the Variety, is a fine, inspiring film of courage and achievement and vision of the future. If that statement keeps the flappers out of the Variety, it ought to send thoughtful persons in, even if it is in the nature of propaganda. It is a study of a man whose motto is "work" and who has been largest in the eye of the world for a number of years, illustrating his marvelous capacity for organization and accomplishment by amazing views of the results.

For instance, a village is destroyed. In 40 days—count 'em—40—there is a better village than the old one.

The picture first shows scenes of the early life of the man, his birthplace as the son of a blacksmith, and incidents of his career as Socialist agitator and editor, etc., until the war came and turned him from a Socialist to an imperialist, and next as leader of the Facist host, the very numbers of which made Rome capitulate without the firing of a gun, and put Mussolini in the saddle.

From this point the story is told in the form of scenes illustrating the points brought out when "Mussolini Speaks" from the balcony of a building in Naples on the anniversary of the day the Black Shirts departed from that city for its march on Rome.

The speaker tells of the achievements of his nation in various fields, agriculture, industry, road building, construction, national defense, etc., and then come pictures of the results, which are indeed astounding. New railroads, the finest station in the world, in Milan, new modern apartment buildings, and schools, hydro-electric dams, tractors on farms, drainage and reclamation of swamplands of Southern Italy, and a thousand and one other things done in a big way. There also are views of beauty spots of Italy.

Member of London Stage Family Dies

LONDON, April 18.—(Universal.)—Fred Terry, actor and producer and youngest of the famous stage Terry family, died yesterday in his London home. He was 68.

He is survived by his widow, Julia Nielson Terry, also connected with the London stage; a son and a daughter. Mrs. Terry is noted for having played Rosalind in the production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which had the longest run on record in a London theater.

Triangle Turns Both Ways 'When Ladies Meet' In the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Your average Frenchman can take a triangle and make a tragedy out of it, or he can take that same triangle and make a ribald farce out of it, but our American Rachel Crothers has performed the dramatic miracle of converting this material into both. "When Ladies Meet," produced last night at the Nixon Theater, has some scenes that are as tense as Brieux or Lavedan could have made them, other scenes as frothy and delicious as the pastry of Noel Coward. Some of the most spontaneous and infectious laughter echoed through the Nixon, to be followed by some of the most breathless waiting for the well-known pin to drop. Which is to say, in other words, that Rachel Crothers has written a very good play, call it comedy or call it problem.

Mr. Seibel

It is not the flawless play that exists only in theory. She has selected her characters with great care to make her situation come out just right. Suppose the husband between the two women had not been the cowardly cad or caddish coward he is—or suppose the wife had not been the human being she is with a sense of humor and an appealing charm—or suppose the other woman had not been the clean and conscientious person portrayed by Frieda Inescort? The triangle would have been all out of joint—isosceles or obtuse or some other sort of triangle to Euclid but not to Ibsen.

Or suppose that storm had not come up so opportunely, or suppose the publisher had not rushed off back to town to meet the illustrator when the long-distance call came, or suppose Bridgie Drake had not had such a convenient week-end spot? Rachel Crothers is as good a fixer as Bridgie.

REALLY GREAT COMEDY

All these considerations have nothing to do with the indisputable and self-evident fact that the lady has written a really great comedy. Very few plays hold up to the very end, to the bitter dregs of the third act, as does "When Ladies Meet." Few of them dispense poetic justice so fairly without making concessions to romantic convention. Here is a comedy which in its situations, its characters, and its dialogue is a culinary masterpiece.

It seems real, even to the rain that runs down the window panes of the living room in the second act. Does the roof of the Nixon stage really leak? No, I saw the play on Broadway, and the roof of that Royale Theater positively did not leak.

Just as credible as that rainstorm is every character among the seven who carry the action. Even Pierre, played so pat by Auguste Aramini, does not seem to be an adjunct, but part of the establishment. And that other incidental figure, Mrs. Bridget Drake, is acted by Spring Byington in such an irresistible vein, that she becomec the Dea ex machina who seems to be the mainspring of the play. And how she voices the moral of it all when she has been tucked in bed by two men and has her morning coffee brought by a third!

PERFECTLY ACTED

Perhaps these characters would not appear so perfectly natural if they were not perfectly acted. The cast is without one crease. There isn't an actress on our stage that would meet the requirement of intelligent intellectuality more satisfyingly than Frieda Inescort as the lady novelist. Selena Royle has the gracious personality and quiet charm that the wife must have if the ethics of the drama are not to be split. Walter Abel as the clumsily clever Jimmie Lee could not be more dextrously inept. Herbert Rawlinson does the philandering husband in a key of polished sincerity with eloquent silences when there is nothing that can be said. And Robert Lowes makes even a gigolo appear quite human and not impossible.

So there you have it—a sparkling well-made drama, or comedy, take your choice—and a bevy of players who do such team work as to fuse seven stars into one bright blaze. The stage settings are designed and built just as deftly as the situations and planed as smoothly as the dialogue. For the last dramatic week of the season, the Nixon Theater has provided a glorious finish.

Carole, Gary To Co-Star

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 18.—These are the days of new star combinations. How's this one? Paramount will put Carole Lombard opposite Gary Cooper in "One Sunday Afternoon," the James Hagan play that drew favorable comments from Broadway's better informed.

The blonde, composed Carole and the tall, reserved Gary first will appear in the picture as a married couple in their middle years. The story then flashes back to their youth and courtship.

And as a matter of fact, the whole cast set-up depends upon a satisfactory arrangement of the Cooper contract difficulties with Paramount. But, as Gary told me the other day that he expects everything to turn out all right, the picture would seem to be on.

* * *

Diana Wynyard is being praised for her tact. Though English, and on her way back to London and Paris, the actress did her spring shopping in Hollywood. She's carrying back a number of gowns and hats designed for her by Adrian, M G M's famous style creator.

* * *

She's laughing at it now, but Mrs. Henry Garat was plenty burned over a misunderstanding over train accommodations. She had compartment two and Henry saw her to the train and safely installed. Unfortunately, he put her in drawing room two. When the rightful occupant showed up, Mrs. Garat already had gone to bed. It took a half dozen train officials to explain her husband's mistake to her.

* * *

Unusual, that clause, Henrietta Crosman had written into her new Fox contract. She has it down in black and white that she "will not have to do anything that might hurt the good name of her profession" . . . George O'Brien's friends are planning a great reception for him when he returns to Hollywood next week. . . Another home-comer is Clarence Muse, one of the country's best known Negro actors. He's been doing personal appearances . . . Frederick March has just selected the beauty contest winners for the college annual at the University of Wisconsin, his alma mater. Incidentally, it's the ninth contest of this sort he's judged this year.

Cinema Goes Polish With Crime Film

Only a Burmese or Persian picture is needed to make the Avenue Cinema perfectly polyglot, since a Polish film was shown yesterday. It is called "Unknown Heroes," and concerns the man-hunting adventures of two Warsaw Sherlock Holmeses who pursue a murderer and a gang of counterfeiters to the bitter end through blazing buildings and swirling sewers. There is a lovely heroine who is in the clutches of the chief villain, who sends her to go out walking in the park with the handsomest sleuth. It all ends happily with another Polish song—and Warsaw is all quiet along the Vistula.

Auto of Salesman Looted Twice In Half Hour

The automobile of E. E. Gott, brush salesman, of Lakewood, O., was looted twice within a half hour last night.

While the car was parked at Penn avenue and Tenth street, thieves forced open the door and stole two sample cases containing brushes and, in their haste, passed up a third.

The third case was stolen a half hour later when Gott stepped into an automobile agency at Baum boulevard and Euclid avenue, detectives reported.

Plays and Players -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Come Thursday and seats will be on sale in the Nixon box office for next week's attraction, "All to the Point," musical romance about the early days of Pittsburgh, presented as the annual production of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club, which long ago learned how to put on such things in an impressive way. Many persons get credit, even Chancellor Bowman, whose reference to the early days of Pitt's predecessor, Pittsburgh Academy, in his annual report last October, furnished G. N[illegible]nan Reis, author of the book, with the basic idea. Lyrics are by Louis M. Fushan and Stanley Goldman, and the music is by Gus A. Schnabel, Dr. Benjamin Levant, John St. Peter, Bernard Rosenson, Harold Levenson and Charles Textor. The orchestration is by Jerry Mayhall and it is being staged under the direction of William F. Marlatt, of New York. The story revolves around a Philadelphia girl, visiting her uncle, commandant at Fort Pitt, and a romantic wanderer who has arrived in these parts. In it are soldiers, Indians, 'n' everything. The leads will be played by Russell Connolly, James Holland, Carl Swartz, Joseph Samson and Joseph Tormey. Among the songs will be "On Such a Day," "Maybe It's Only a Dream," "Love Is An Elemental Thing," and "I've a Happy Faculty."

Just a pointer—it took about two weeks for the people of Boston to discover that "The Piccoli," marionette entertainment, was not just a "kid's show," after which they began to flock to it for the final weeks of its engagements there. Pittsburgh will not have two weeks in which to find out, for its booking here is for one week only, that of May 1 in the Nixon. We feel that we are doing you a service in passing this information along, as every New York critic virtually "raved" about the offering and the fact that this puppet show was one for grown-ups. It will be the last subscription bill of the American Theater Society.

Broadways Of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

GREAT EASTERN HOTEL, CALCUTTA, India—I had a very busy afternoon today. Having finished breakfast around noon, I decided to take in the various points of interest of which Calcutta boasts. Being a native New Yorker I have yet to place a foot inside the aquarium or Grant's Tomb. And there are thousands of other New Yorkers who could say the same thing, if they would, because they, like myself, are of the opinion that such spots are for the entertainment of visitors to the city.

Accordingly, while there may be thousands of Calcutta folk who never bother themselves with the many interesting places situated here, being a visitor, I thought it only natural to investigate such spots. After all, that's why I'm on this trip.

My first stop was the Maidan, or park just outside the city. It's a beautiful thing, really, being two square miles in area.

At every turn I was surrounded by statues. And in the park proper stands a pillar which is the king of all it surveys. This pillar stands 165 feet in height and was erected to the memory of Sir David Ochterlony—and I hope the spelling is correct—who won the Nepalese War quite some years ago.

Sir David's memorial impressed me quite some and as I stood gazing in fascination at its height, my guide tapped me on the shoulder. I turned to find him grinning at me.

"You think that big?" he muttered.

"Listen, mug," I replied, "get the foolish grin off your face and tell me something about this wonderful pillar. I've never seen anything quite like it in my life. I seldom go in for this stuff, but this memorial is the most beautiful piece of work I've ever seen.

"When I stand here and look to the top, its huge height makes me feel as small as an ant alongside an elephant. Exactly how tall is this pillar?"

He stopped grinning and shook his head.

"Him not so big," he grumbled. "Him only 165 feet big. That's all."

I was startled at the reply. Only 165 feet! Was I being kidded, or was the guy on the level?

"It certainly looks big enough to me," I retorted. "After all, that is quite a height. Do you mean to tell me that you have taller memorials in Calcutta?"

My question started him grinning once again. He pointed in a direction that I think was southeast of the Maidan. There stood a building with a dome that was at least twice the height of Sir David's memorial.

Now, despite the fact that I have yet to get a thrill from looking at the Woolworth and Empire State buildings back in New York, it was an unexpected pleasure to see such wonderfully constructed buildings in this part of the world. And when I gazed in the direction in which the guide had pointed, once more I was pleasurably surprised at the domed building.

"You were right, kid," I said to my guide. "This pillar is small compared with that over there. What is it?"

That confounded grin was still present.

"Him is what they call the Victoria Memorial. Him open 1921. Him has pictures of history."

I learned later that the building in question is the finest thing in Calcutta, the conception of which was due to Lord Curzon. As the guide informed me, it contains pictures and documents of all sorts illustrating Indian history. As I looked from where I stood, it was a sight to remember as the sun shone on the large marble dome.

"How high is it?" I asked my guide.

"Him much higher than cathedral on west," he returned. "But cathedral not very high."

"So the cathedral isn't very high, eh?" I murmured. "And that building with the dome is much higher than the cathedral. Well, maybe you can tell me the height of the cathedral?"

"Cathedral, him 210 feet long," was the reply. "And other building with history pictures—him lots bigger than cathedral."

Right then and there, I decided that I would refrain from looking and marveling at the height of memorials—at least for that day . . .

Facing the Maidan for about two miles in what is known as Chowringhee. Years ago this place was the swankiest residential section in all Calcutta. It was quite similar to Central Park West in New York. Lately, however, it has been given over almost entirely to hotels, clubs and shops. There is no beauty in the spot now, but at one time I don't think words could describe its splendor . . .

The longer I stay in Calcutta, the more I am convinced that the natives are the worst gyp artists in the entire world. I did not intend to bring up this subject again, as I've already mentioned it a sufficient number of times in the past few columns. But if you'll parden me this time, I promise to drop the matter from now on.

I thought I had covered the situation from every angle when I wrote about the pickpockets and confidence men who infest India. When I learned that even over here the money machine racket was being pulled, it surprised me no end, inasmuch as I had always thought such rackets originated in America. Today, I received another surprise.

While walking along the Maidan this afternoon a fairly well dressed Indian passed by. As he did so, I noticed a pocketbook drop from his pocket. I was about to pick it up, when my guide stopped me.

"Him leave there," he said. "You pick up, you lose money."

It finally dawned upon me what he was driving at. I questioned him at length and he explained that the guy who had dropped the pocketbook was working the old gag. This racket, too, I had thought was the personal property of the Broadway boys. From the guide, I learned differently.

Two Indians, fairly well dressed, are necessary to work the racket. The first one, passing the victim, takes a handkerchief from his pocket, and, in doing so, permits his pocketbook to fall to the ground. The victim always picks it up. He sometimes returns it immediately, but more often he looks inside for a moment, sees plenty of money and turns off in another direction.

The second Indian dashes after the victim and demands to know what he has just picked up from the ground. The victim nervously replies that he has found nothing, and what about it anyhow? By this time, the first racketeer has retraced his steps—and his accomplice calls him over. Has he lost something? Yes, a pocketbook. Well, then, the victim is the man that has it.

Result — blackmail. Two or three threats about calling the police and the victim finds himself in a hot spot. Not only does he return the pocketbook intact, but it generally costs him all the money he has with him to get himself out of the mess.

The two racketeers then depart, split the profits, pick another locality and start in all over again.

Who was it that once said something about the natives of India being dumb? . . .

START GARDENS IN 'COXTOWN'

"Coxtown," the community farm on Kittanning Pike, operated for the unemployed by Father Cox, is now a welcome sight. The trees, the grass and the bushes are green, the brooks in the ravines are bubbling and the new spring atmosphere has given the 50 families on this farm a feeling of contentment.

Earth has been turned for the vegetable gardens and in some instances planting has already begun. There are many other signs of activity. New and rough shacks are going up for the families to be added.

The first of the abandoned street cars to be converted into homes is being moved in today. There are 10 of these cars available for "Coxtown" but it costs $48 to move each car from Millvale. Up-to-date Father Cox has only been able to secure donations sufficient to take two of these cars from the Pittsburgh Railways Company, but he is still hoping that kind-hearted friends of the destitute will find a way to move in the remaining eight.

There is no lagging in the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive. Orders are still coming in gratifying numbers. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

CHICAGO MAYOR INAUGURATED

CHICAGO, April 18.—(INS.)—The two-year administration of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, inaugurated last night as Chicago's fifty-ninth Mayor, formally began today.

Public officials and spectators crowded the City Council chambers as Kelly was formally installed in office to complete the unexpired term of the late Anton J. Cermak, who died of an assassin's bullet in Miami, Fla. The City Council last Thursday elected Kelly to serve as the World's Fair Mayor.

Last night's inauguration ceremony had a counterpart in 1893, the year of the previous World's Fair here, when the late Mayor Carter H. Harrison had been murdered and a successor was installed to fill his unexpired term.

Penn State Honors Pittsburgh Girl

REDUCE NOW WITHOUT THYROID WITHOUT SALTS WITHOUT DIET

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 8 or 10 pounds a month.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $100 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If he doesn't have Vannay, insist that he orders it for you.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED

·NOW SHOWING·
HARDEEN
PACKING CASE ESCAPE

1
LAST NIGHT I SAW HARDEEN DO A WONDERFUL ESCAPE ACT.
2
SHACKLED, NAILED IN A PACKING CASE, AND ROPED, HARDEEN, FAMOUS BROTHER OF HOUDINI, ESCAPED FROM THE BOX!
3
YOU KNOW WHAT THAT TRICK IS DON'T YOU?
NO—WHAT IS THE CATCH?
4
HE HOLDS THE KEY TO THE HANDCUFFS BETWEEN HIS TEETH. THE ORIGINAL NAILS THAT HELD THE BOX TOGETHER HAVE BEEN REPLACED BY LITTLE SHORT NAILS SO THAT HARDEEN CAN PUSH A BOARD UP AND CRAWL OUT. THEN HE PUTS THE BOARD BACK TO MAKE THE BOX LOOK O-KAY.
5
I SEE THE TRICK NOW. HAVE A CIGARETTE?
NOT THAT KIND.
WHY NOT? THEY'RE MILDER AREN'T THEY?
6
7
"IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW." ISN'T IT?
CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES

Legion Meet, 3 Premieres On Air

Three program premieres, broadcast of addresses at the American Legion's Anti-Soviet meeting in Washington, and a rebroadcast from Hawaii, head tonight's radio entertainment bill.

"Lives at Stake," a series of dramatizations of the feats of national heroes, opens on WCAE at 10 p. m. with a re-enactment of the battlefield activities of Sergt. Alvin York, the Southerner termed by Marshmal Foch and Gen. Pershing the outstanding hero of the World War.

* * *

Mitzi Green, 12-year-old stage and screen star, makes her radio bow as the principal in a new dramatic program, "Happy Landings," inaugurated at 6:45 on WCAE. Supported by a large cast of adult and child actors, she will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday at the same hour.

* * *

Hupfield Program

Herman Hupfield, Tin Pan Alley ace who composed "Let's Put Out the Lights," "When Yuba Plays the Tuba Down in Cuba," "Sing Something Simple," and other hits of the Broadway Little Shows, sings and plays his own compositions in a new composer-to-listener series inaugurated on KDKA at 8:45 p. m. Muriel Pollock and Vee Lawnhurst, piano team, are assisting artists.

Current star of the Sunday CBS-WJAS series, "Lazy Dan, the Minstrel Man," Irving Kaufman adds three more broadcasts to his weekly schedule when he brings his gags and characteristic songs to Abe Lyman's "Hot from Hollywood" presentation at 8:45.

"Easy Aces" moves to the more appropriate card-table hour of 9 p. m., beginning tonight.

Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, and Father Edmund Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, are the principal speakers to be heard during the Anti-Soviet broadcast, scheduled on WJAS at 9:30 p. m. Others expected to go on the air are William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York; Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, and Senator W. H. King, of Utah. The meeting has been called for the purpose of opposing the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States.

* * *

Pitt Boys On Air

Songs and skits from the Pitt Cap and Gown Club musical production, "All to the Point," which will go into the Nixon for a week beginning April 24, comprise a special 30-minute program on KDKA at 9:30.

The broadcast from Hawaii brings a colorful account of the pageantry attending the maiden departure of the steamer Lurline, new Matson liner, from Honolulu harbor, over CBS-WJAS at 11 p. m. The broadcast is to be short-waved over the Pacific through the facilities of KGMB in Honolulu, and fed to the network from San Francisco.

* * *

In observance of "Kindness to Animals Week," Mme. Frances Alda, operatic soprano, gives a brief talk on "Our Pet" during her half-hour song recital on WCAE tonight at 6.

With Ed Sprague announcing, and Joe Sartory decoding, a play-by-play account of the Pirates-Cubs game at Chicago is scheduled on WWSW at 4 p. m.

Shady Side Music Clubs on Air

A special 30-minute broadcast by the Shadyside Academy music clubs under the direction of Robert V. Howard is scheduled on KDKA tomorrow at 3:15 p. m. The complete program follows:

Andantino .... Lemare
The Moon Is Low .... Brown
Orchestra.
Shuffle Off to Buffalo .... Warren
Forty-Second Street .... Warren
Accordion Trio.
Prelude .... Chopin
Alan Morrow, pianist.
Talk—Harold A. Nomer, headmaster.
The Bells of St. Mary's .... Adams
Glee Club.
Street of Dreams .... Lewis-Young
Night and Day .... Porter
John S. Caldwell, saxophonist.
Farewell to Arms .... Wruber-Silver
Orchestra.
Alma Mater .... Glover

Mrs. Roosevelt Broadcasts

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Women's Division of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be heard over extensive NBC and CBS networks, including WCAE and WJAS, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Roosevelt's topic is "Government Aid—Federal, State and City."

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

A couple of big shots just were made Globe Trotters and boy, are they big—Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling. Two of the cleanest cut young men you can ever hope to lay eyes on.

In spite of the hustle and excitement attendant to their numerous appearances scheduled in Pittsburgh there was nothing of the temperamental or "great stuff" about them.

You can easily understand why Jack is the hero of the younger set when you see him in action with them. Regardless of those of seeming greater importance anxious to shake his hand, and in spite of the strict time limit imposed upon him because of the many places he has to go and the few minutes he has to go there in he always took time out for a youngster staring open mouthed and wide eyed at his hero.

Several kiddies today would not trade their joy in meeting Jack and Max even if you offered them Santa Claus instead. Nor would I.

* * *

Another addition to the Globe Trotter was Franklin McQuaide, the new superintendent of police, who believes this is a great year for Franklins and Eleanors. His wife's name is Eleanor, and he has a daughter and a son, named Eleanor and Franklin.

* * *

Just heard from Maitland Bourdon of the Conservation Army at Fortress Monroe. This is his first time away from home and he is having the time of his life.

The barracks are about 50 feet away from the ocean (Chesapeake Bay) and all they do is eat. He says it's just like a little city down there with its own railroad, police, street cars and everything.

They weren't organized at the time of writing the letter so he explains they get up early, 5:45, and loaf and eat.

The movies are especially enjoyable, he writes.

Fannie Sings 'My Man' At Last

By AIRCASTER

At last!

Although it took her some little time to make up her mind, she finaly gave in and promises to warble it for you via NBC-WCAE tomorrow night.

Helen Hayes, offering a bit from Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," and Adele Rowland, musical comedy star, are to appear on Rudy Vallee's bill Thursday night.

Eddie Cantor says "Toodle-oo" for the time being Sunday, to be replaced on April 30 by Bert Lahr. Lee Sims and Ilomay Bailey are to be Lahr's co-stars.

Billy Weixel and his band are holding forth at the Villa Royale, featuring, incidentally, Charlie Reber's new hit, "My Life Will be Complete."

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Old Folks Deserve Romance As Much as Youngsters

Are old folks people—with hearts that can ache and burn at 56 just as they did at 16?

Or are they museum specimens, who make themselves "look ridiculous" if they reach for romance.

All of which is going to raise plenty of heated discussion in many a home which you and I know; and what wouldn't you give to be the fly on the wall, listening in! So lend your ear to Alice—then give us the results.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I am simply horrified at my mother and I hope you can tell me how I can make her see that she is contemplating something very foolish. She won't listen to me, and my brothers and sisters and I are simply at our wits' ends over it all.

You see she is a widow—dad has been dead about eight years—and now she wants to get married again. Really, it is all too perfectly ridiculous. I am married and have a nice home. So are two of my brothers. My sisters live in another city. They both have good positions, and a nice apartment.

Our mother is welcome in any of our homes. She could stay with any of us except my youngest brother, who is still in college. For the last three years she has visited around among us, and has had absolutely nothing to worry about.

It was while she was staying with my sisters at their apartment that she met this man, and they got interested in each other. My sisters were terribly upset when they found out that she was thinking of marrying him, so she came home. Now she tells us that she is planning to marry him in a few weeks, and we just simply don't know what to do.

WOULD STOP MARRIAGE

She just won't listen to us, and we all think the whole thing is simply terrible at her age. She is 56, and the man she is planning to marry is 60.

He is a decent enough man, so far as that goes, and is fairly well-fixed, but we just can't see why she should want to marry anybody, and we would be so thankful if you could tell us some way to make her realize how perfectly silly and outrageous it all is. How can we stop it?

ALICE.

It isn't Mama who's funny, Alice. It's you, and the rest of your Before-the-Flood notions about ladies of 56.

Just when—least of all in 1933—did a female of 56 become a Doddering Derelict? Personally, I've romped through 50 feverish years. But I warn you—anyone who tries to put me on the shelf, alongside Uncle Al's stuffed mackerel and the gilded pine cones, is picking out an ambulance trip for himself!

MOTHER DESERVING

No, sister; the joke's on you! Mother has just as much right to choose a mate for herself as any of her daughters, and probably a lot more sense to do it with. If you could but realize this simple fact, it would probably be good for what ails you.

For the truth is, Alice—and some day you'll discover it for yourself—children aren't usually half as much of a treat to their papas and mammas as they think they are. You and the other girls are convinced that mamma must be balmy because she isn't satisfied with your company. But the chances are, she's just so bored that she could bite holes in the kitchen range, and is simply perishing for a change.

So, instead of getting out a warrant restraining mamma from indulging in her Romantic Tendencies, I'd advise you to give yourself the once-over. And then go out and buy the grand "old" lady the swankiest thing you can find in orchid satin and real lace. She certainly has it coming to her. After all these dreary years of sitting around and putting up with her children!

Children the Only Real Elements of the Future, Thinks Fay King

By FAY KING

We were pleased to see pictures of Libby Holman Reynolds' tiny baby.

Our interest in the child is not because the little fellow will inherit a fortune, but because he has won a gallant fight of many weeks in an incubator. He shows what medical science can do for a wee bit of humanity prematurely born, who weighed only two pounds.

Little children are the ONLY future there is! Those who are responsible for their welfare do the noblest work there is to be done in this world.

In one hundred years from now, but a scattered few of the millions who walk this earth today will yet remain.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Carolyn Tells How Marion Was Taken Away

Every instinct of sympathy and pity within me urged delay, if only for a few seconds, in questioning Carolyn Brixton about Marion's disappearance.

But I knew as well as the rest that we had not a second to waste in anything but finding out what she knew about Marion, and though I felt an unreasoning resentment against Hugh Grantland's dictum, I did not betray it when he whispered to me:

"Make her stop crying and tell us sanely what she knows."

"If you want us to save Marion," I said sternly, "you must stop crying and tell us exactly what happened. Stop it, I tell you!" as she let another convulsive sob escape her. "Marion's very life may depend upon what you tell us."

I felt her stiffen in my grasp, and her head, with its fair disheveled curls, raised itself resolutely.

"All right. That's out," she said, huskily but firmly. "Where shall I begin?"

"With the moment when your plans began to go awry," I answered promptly. "We read and understood Marion's code letter, so we know that you were ready to barricade your doors when you heard an airplane fly low over the house after getting your signal from the window. Do you think the people in the house suspected there was a rescue planned?"

SAW EQUESTRIAN

"They didn't act that way," Carolyn said slowly, as if she were puzzling the matter out. "They never did bother us much; just gave us our meals and saw that our room was clean and that we had plenty of water. The women—there were two—waited on us as if they were our servants. If we wanted anything, all we had to do was to rap on the floor with a stick and somebody always came up at once.

"But we didn't ask for very much, and we had got the furniture fixed so we could move it around without their hearing it. We found a can of kerosene oil and oiled it all. So we were all ready when we heard the airplane go over today, and we got everything set so when we heard it low over the house we could barricade our door in a jiffy.

"And then—" Carolyn's voice faltered for an instant and she gulped back a sob—"and then, while we were watching out the window, holding the curtains so they couldn't see us, we saw a man on horseback come up from the direction of the lake. His horse was walking terribly queer, as if it had some trouble with its feet, and Marion said it had its feet muffled.

MARION TAKEN AWAY

"The man stopped a little way from the house and tied the horse to a tree, then he stooped and did something to the horse's feet; we couldn't see what, because there was so little light. We couldn't have seen anything at all except for a light in the kitchen. I think it must have been put there for him, because every other window was dark, and they made us draw our curtains close before we lighted a lamp.

"When he straightened up again," Carolyn went on, while I chafed at her long-windedness, but dared say nothing for fear of throwing her off the track, "he went around the house. Then we heard a cat meow, and then the door open. Marion said she was sure the man meowed, not the cat. It was only a few minutes after that when one of the women came to the door and said Marion was to come into the kitchen for a minute or two. I went with Marion to the door and started to go through it when the woman said 'Not you, Miss.'

"I told her to stop me if she could, and Marion told her we meant to stick together, whatever happened. The woman didn't answer us at all. She just called out of the side of her mouth 'Here, boys!' and the next minute two of the men came up. One took hold of Marion, who was trying to get back into the room, and the other one grabbed me and pushed me back into the room."

"Did they hurt either one of you? Did they handle you roughly?" my father demanded.

-:- -:- Correct Manners -:- -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Condolence

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and I have been debatingly seriously whether or not it is proper for a girl to telephone a gentleman friend whose sister has passed on, and express sympathy? I did not know the sister very well.

I believe this form of etiquet is a mystery to many others also. Won't you help us, please?

Our consideration for the convenience and privacy and thoughts of others would definitely suggest that this intrusion by telephone must not be considered. "When the shadow falls" it is usually extremely difficult for us to talk over the telephone, especially to someone who didn't know very well the one who has passed on.

The thing to do, under these circumstances, is to leave our card at the door of the home, not even asking if we may come in. On our visiting-card we may write the message of condolence: "With deepest sympathy. Please let me know if I can be of any help."

Or, if we wish, and if we know the person very well, we may leave a note of sympathy, again with the indication that we would like to be of help. This gives the person in mourning an opportunity of letting us know if he or she wishes us to come.

So you see that the thing to keep in mind is: not to intrude, and to give the person in mourning the opportunity to call on us, if we are needed.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Short-Suit Lead

For many years, Bridge players were wedded to the traditions of Whist, one of the most firmly implanted of which was the lead of the fourth-best card of a long suit against notrump. However, the development of the modern theory of cards has greatly modified this ancient tradition, and now short-suit leads are more common than fourth-best leads against game contracts in notrump.

An interesting example of the success of such a lead occurred in a recent game played in the experts' room at a New York club.

Mr. Walter Malowan

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
	1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding is unquestionably correct, as, if the hand is to be played at notrump, it is much better that East should play it, in view of the spade holding, instead of West, and East's hand is so strong that a game should probably be obtainable.

South, Mr. Walter Malowan, therefore became the leader and reasoned that with his heart stopper—the suit bid by West—East, in view of the bidding, had the diamond suit and no doubt a stopper in spades as well as the Ace or King of hearts, as he would not have jumped to three notrump without the certainty of being able to use West's heart suit. Clubs had not been mentioned, and if North could be put in to lead through East's spade stopper, that was the one suit that furnished the opportunity. South therefore led the top club, which proved to be the killing lead, as, after East had collected four diamond tricks, one club and three hearts, he was through, and the contract was defeated 1 trick.

It will be noticed that a spade lead would have given Mr. Fry his contract, as but a single trick in that suit was necessary for the game.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South opens with a call of one spade and West passes. Should North raise to two spades, holding the following hand?

♠9862 ♥— ♦98643 ♣8764

Answer: Yes. The hand contains 4½ playing tricks in support of spades, and there is no honor-trick requirement for a single Raise.

Household Hints

When cooking prunes, soak them overnight in cold tea. This will make them swell considerably and they will be more fleshy when served.

When making sandwiches with tinned salmon, mix one tablespoon of white bread crumbs with the salmon. This removes the oily taste, does not alter the flavor, and makes the salmon go much farther.

KOTEX
PATENTED* EQUALIZER

A RADICAL innovation! . . . Not a mere improvement in sanitary protection . . . but something new, different.

Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer, gives 20 to 30% greater protection. The center equalizer not only increases protection but makes it more adequate, more comfortable—because edges stay dry, removing all danger of irritation through chafing.

Ends must be "phantomized"

Mere rounded ends are not enough. They must be flattened, embossed. Kotex—and Kotex only—offers this special shaping. Remember, too, that it can be worn on either side with equal protection.

MOTHER SLAIN; FATHER, GIRL ARGUE GUILT

CHICAGO, April 18.—(AP.)—Otto Luetz, 45, telephoned the police he had shot and killed his wife, Myrtle, 42, in their home today, but their daughter, Doris, 16, said she had done the shooting.

Luetz, an embalmer, had returned to his home with some friends after 3 a. m. The police said he was too intoxicated to tell a coherent story. They arrested both, holding the daughter as a witness.

Doris told police:

"We struggled for the gun, and I accidentally discharged it."

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., April 18.—(INS.)—Anna Sichkar, 18, who shot her father, Philip, 42, when he threatened to wipe out his family, was held without bail today pending outcome of her parent's wounds.

Police were told that Sichkar, a Plumstead Township farmer, began to quarrel with his wife last night after the family returned home from an Easter Monday celebration at the house of a neighbor. Mrs. Sichkar said her husband had been drinking. He tore her clothes and threatened to kill her and Anna and Paul, 10, the children, the woman said.

2 ESCAPED MEN BACK IN JAIL

Two "slippery" legal guests of Allegheny County today were back in jail after more or less extended "vacations."

Willie Mitchell, 25, Negro, returned to the county jail, from which he jumped to freedom last October 12, by leaping out of Warden John McNeil's kitchen window.

Joseph Micucki, 35, who walked out of Criminal Court here last March 23, as he was about to be arraigned on a robbery charge, is under arrest at Oswego, N. Y.

Mitchell, a Federal prisoner at the time of his escape, was returned today from Philadelphia where he was captured on an escape warrant.

Illinois to Keep Many Banks Closed

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, of Illinois, was returning home today, he said, to suspend permanently 70 per cent of the 225 closed state banks for the purpose of stabilizing Illinois' finances.

This, he was quick to add, would affect but 9 per cent of all money which has been deposited with Illinois' 675 state banks.

Decorator's Wife Applies for Alimony

Mrs. Susan Wagner, Sewickley, who is suing Julius J. Wagner, decorator, of Sewickley, for divorce, appeared in court yesterday to seek alimony. Judge George V. Moore fixed April 25 for a hearing.

Mrs. Wagner said she was penniless and that her husband has an income of $10,000 a year. He denies this, saying his wife brought the action to annoy him.

HER DOUBLE CHIN IS VANISHING

Shape Growing Normal

"Why am I taking Kruschen Salts? Because I was getting so broad across the hips I was ashamed of myself. I've been taking Kruschen about 2 months and they certainly are bringing my shape down to a normal condition and what is nice about them (to my way of thinking) is they haven't taken flesh from my cheeks but to my surprise my double chin is vanishing for which anyone should be glad." Mrs. P. E. Gardner, Worcester, Mass. (Jan. 3, 1933).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drugstore in the world, but be sure and get Kruschen Salts, the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and a double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.

SECOND MOUNTAIN MOVING

DURANGO, Col., April 18.—(AP.)—Carbon Mountain has a rival.

A peaceful countryside, hardened to seeing one mountain go into convulsions spasmodically with earthquake proportions, was alarmed today as the second peak trembled violently, sending tons of rock crashing down its sides and then relapsed into sullen moodiness.

A railroad conductor, Dan Conway, who daily passes Carbon Mountain, was the first to bring news to Durango that a sister peak, Parker Mountain, was its lusty competitor for belching, rumbling and splitting honors.

Conway said a 400-foot-long crevice had appeared on the eastern slope of Parker's 7,600 feet of loftiness, explaining rumblings heard during the night.

Geologists said that if Parker Mountain's antics assume the proportions of old Carbon's there is a possibility the Animas River will be dammed and forced to find a new bed.

They explained that a fault, 126 miles long extending from Ute Dome, N. M., into Colorado and the Rockies causes the strange actions of the two mountains.

Robbers Use Van To Steal Furniture

CLEVELAND, April 18.—(AP.)—Thieves drove a moving van to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koreny and took one dining room suite, one living room suit, one bedroom suite and four floor lamps.

Neighbors told police they saw the van and felt sorry the Korenys were moving.

'TRIANGLE' SHOOTING FATAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18.—(AP.)—True to his own prophecy, Henry Downs, 24, Denver amateur basketball star, died late yesterday of bullet wounds suffered in an encounter with E. P. Merrick, who asserted he "shot in defense of my home."

Downs told officers when he was removed to a hospital here Saturday for treatment of two wounds:

"It sure seems funny to be shot. I thought I would play a little more basketball, but I guess I won't now."

A Denver grocery salesman, member of the Denver Pigs basketball team and former Drake University athlete, Downs insisted to the end the shooting was "all an accident." He had been a guest in the Merrick home.

Merrick, former state highway officer, was quoted by officers as saying he was awakened by his wife's screams Friday night and found Downs in her room. Next day, when he encountered Downs at a filling station, he fired, he said, when Downs laughed at him.

Dr. King Advised to Quit If Confirmed

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

HARRISBURG, April 18.—There is practically no chance that the Senate will confirm any of the four members of the Public Service Commission whose approval Gov. Pinchot asked last night in a belated message on the public utility question.

Nor is there much chance that the Senate will confirm Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the commission, formerly high in the Governor's confidence, but who has been repudiated by Mr. Pinchot following political differences which grew in magnitude from a disagreement which in its initial stages was small.

Indeed, if Dr. King should be confirmed he would be advised by his friends to resign as chairman of the commission. It is known he has been advised that this would be a wise course to follow.

Despite the Governor's castigation of Dr. King last night, and despite his demand that King's nomination be returned to him, the bulk of informed opinion is that the chairman is honest in his view of the utility question. His differences with Pinchot grew out of no severance on attitudes toward rates or regulations, but because Dr. King, by inference, invited the Senate Utilities Investigating Committee to cease its labors.

* * *

Confirmation Might Arouse Suspicion

When he perceived the interpretations placed upon his testimony at the time Oliver K. Eaton resigned as counsel for the committee—which was doing nothing anyhow—King with a traditional stubbornness refused to clear the confusion officially, though he did so in an interview in the Sun-Telegraph. He said he "had not intended to furnish the committee with an alibi." But he wouldn't tell the committee that upon demand by Pinchot.

Out of something as small as that grew the present difference between the Governor and his former close friend.

Yet should Dr. King be confirmed, and the other four Pinchot appointees be shunted aside—as they surely will be—there would be people in Pennsylvania to believe that the chairman had sold out. They would be unable to understand why otherwise the Republican organization controlled Senate should confirm him. They would remember past evidences of the manner in which the organization had stood by commissioners later compelled to resign under fire.

They would remember the way the organization had kicked around a real utility inquiry. And there would be natural, but I believe groundless, suspicions of Dr. King.

Wherefore the advice to Dr. King by his friends, that, in the unexpected event he should be confirmed, that he quit the next day.

* * *

Might Be Reluctant To Please Pinchot

Only one thing would prevent Dr. King taking this advice. His resignation would please the Governor, and in his present humor the commission chairman might chance public criticism rather than do anything pleasing to the Governor. He is built that way, and the Governor well knew it when he appointed King.

He had experience with this side of the King character in previous incidents, when the iron will of the chairman was exerted in sessions of the Pinchot cabinet, and more often than not prevailed against strong opposition.

Some organization Senators fully realize this situation. They would like to bedevil the Governor by confirming King, but they fear that course would throw another appointment to the Governor. They fear King would resign, despite his antipathy toward anything which would please Mr. Pinchot.

They realize that Dr. King is impervious to public criticism, that when he sets his course along the line he believes right he goes through in spite of all obstacles, but they realize also that his friends might prevail in their advice.

* * *

Belated Tribute Paid To Woodruff

One thing being discussed by observers today was the fulsome laudation the Governor last night accorded Commissioner George W. Woodruff, in view of the manner in which the Governor passed up this veteran friend when he had the opportunity to name a commission chairman.

Why, it is asked, did not Pinchot appoint Woodruff rather than King? He says no one in Pennsylvania is better fitted for a commission post than Woodruff.

And there are few to question either the ability or devotion to duty of Judge Woodruff. No one, of course, impugns his sterling integrity.

The best answer to be found is that back of the scenes there was the play of politics by some in the Pinchot camp who saw in the appointment of King as chairman of the commission the chance to remove him from the inner circle of Pinchot advisers. It was recognized not only that his new duties would remove him from close contact with the Governor, but that there was more than a possibility that such a strong-willed man as King would come to just such a break with the Governor as has occurred.

Crazed Gunman Fails; President's Mentality Returns to Normalcy

Gabriel Over the White House

(Continuation of Chapter XIII.)

Slowly "Goldie" returned to consciousness. She was assailed by violent sickness. Her mind was muddled and she couldn't think. Broken ribs caused her intolerable agony. She was sick again. Haltingly her mind began to work. "Wolf had done this to her . . . Why? . . . something about blame . . . she was to blame? . . . No, that wasn't it. . . . O God, her side hurt so! . . . What was it he said about the President?"

Suddenly it came back to her. She sat up abruptly and the pain in her side made her cry out. She must do something. She looked distractedly at the empty road and the deserted fields. "They'll send him to the chair. I must do something. I must. I must." Her voice rose to a wail of hysteria. Somehow she got to her feet. Her face twisted with agony. Two or three uncertain steps and she fell.

A countless time passed before she recovered from her faint. The side-road was still empty. Her failing faculties retained only one idea. She must do something to save "Wolf" from himself. Not the President—but her man—the man who had beaten and abused her—the man she loved.

"I must stop him. I must stop him." Her bloody lips made the words but there was no sound.

Alarm Sent Out

I was in my office when Cassidy's frantic telephone call came through. I listened to only the first few breathless sentences. Within ten seconds I had sent out the general alarm and ordered every Green Jacket at Headquarters to the British Embassy on Massachusetts avenue to put a cordon round the house and grounds.

Buckling on my automatic while running down the stairs I never ceased calling out instructions: "Phone the Embassy. Under no circumstances is the President to leave until I get there . . . Get Washington police headquarters. Give them Miller's description from our files. Blue Packard sedan. Dark clothes. Grey hat . . ."

As I jumped into my car fifty Green Jackets raced ahead in formation.

"The British Embassy, and drive like the devil."

* * *

Shortly before four the President had bidden the British Ambassador good-bye. As he came through the door-way and out upon the portico, a small army of press photographers awaited him. One of them asked respectfully if they might take pictures.

The President's rare visits outside the White House placed such opportunities at a premium. With an impatient gesture, the President told them to hurry. As he stood between two of the massive stone pillars, twenty or more cameras were aimed upon him. One man on the extreme left of the group seemed to have difficulty focusing his camera. Suddenly his hand darted under his coat, whipped out something.

Saved From Death

Green Jacket Corp. James, of C Company, one of the President's escort, was standing on the edge of the portico. With a shout he hurled himself headlong at Hammond, tackled him below the knees, threw him to the ground. There was a sharp crack of an automatic, a second and a third.

Corp. James did not even hear the first shot, which drilled him through the head. Neither did "Wolf" Miller hear the last, which came from Sergt. Glenson, the deadliest marksman in the Green Jackets.

The President lay in an inert heap. In falling his head had struck the base of one of the pillars. From a long jagged wound blood poured profusely.

As I jumped out of the car by the Embassy gates, I realized I was too late.

CHAPTER XIV

The President had not been killed or even hit by "Wolf Miller's bullet. But for days it looked as if Corp. James' sacrifice was to be in vain. His heart trouble, together with a severe head injury, at first made Hammond's case appear hopeless.

When he finally regained consciousness, his mind was confused, and even then there were spells of mild delirium. It nearly always took the same form. He imagined his injury was caused by the motor acci-

WOMAN AND SON IN TRUCK HURT

Mrs. Gussie Shore, 33, of 1805 El Paso street, and her son, Sherman, 3, suffered lacerations and bruises when a truck in which they were riding collided with an automobile at Harriet street and South Fairmount avenue last night. Mrs. Shore was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital and her son was treated at West Penn Hospital. The truck was driven by Max Shore, the husband.

Orlando Capilupi, 28, of 115 Oakland avenue, and Edward Rimmel, 19, of 266 Robinson street, suffered cuts and bruises when two automobiles collided at Wightman and Beacon streets. They were treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Downtown Grocery Theft Suspect Held

Arrested leaving the grocery of the George K. Stevenson Company, 630 Smithfield street, last night, Louis Hill, 47, a Negro, was lodged in the Central Police Station on a suspicious person charge, according to police report.

Hill was leaving the store with $25 worth of groceries in a sack when police arrested him, it was reported. The rear window was jimmied.

Speak and Sail Tactics Great Help to Shaw

—By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER—

Shaw's New York speech has 'em still fighting in the aisles.

Nobody knows what he said. And he is too smart to explain it.

But we learned his formula. And it's a good one. Consists of the three following important points:

First: Make your speech.

Second: Catch a boat.

Third: Don't miss the boat.

And he is the smartest showman on the stage today. He has no competition because he owns the only long white beard in the entertainment business.

SPILLED COFFEE BLAMED IN DIVORCE

Husband Nagged, Says Daughter of Bellevue Physician

Her husband insisted on having his coffee served in a glass pitcher, and when the hot beverage broke the pitcher, he blamed her for being careless, Mrs. Elizabeth Seville Stevens, of 7 North Sprague avenue, Bellevue, testified in her divorce suit today against Louis O. Stevens, of Overbrook.

The young wife, daughter of a Bellevue physician with whom she now makes her home, testified her husband nagged her, used profanity and caused her to become extremely nervous. Her father sent her to a specialist, she said.

The Stevens were married February 14, 1927, and went to housekeeping in Washington, later returning to Bellevue. After considerable marital trouble, the wife testified her husband told her:

"I'm through. Take your belongings and get out."

JUDGE EVADES POLITICS HERE

Superior Court Judge Arthur H. James has only one ambition now and that is "to be a good judge."

Thus the jurist, here for a session of Superior Court, was quoted as replying to questions concerning a movement reported under way in the East to boom him to succeed Gov. Pinchot next year. He added that he knew of no such movement.

But when pressed as to whether he would accept the nomination if it were tendered him, Judge James replied:

"I prefer not to answer that question. I would rather not come to the bridge before crossing it."

2 MEN JAILED AFTER FIRE

John Furiano and John Fusco were in the County Jail today, having been held over night on a District Attorney's detainer. They were questioned yesterday by county detectives concerning a fire and explosion at 217-219 West Eighth avenue, West Homestead, Sunday night.

The men were arrested by West Homestead authorities yesterday as suspicious persons, following a conflagration which destroyed a double brick building and caused injury to three persons.

Floors of the building were soaked with oil, according to County Detective Peter Connors.

TINNER AT WORK ON ROOF DIES

Seven deaths, four from heart attacks and the others from cerebral hemorrhages, were reported to the Coroner's office last night.

August Roth, 43, of 36 Overbeck street, a tinner, died while repairing a roof of a Termon avenue building.

Three other deaths from heart attacks were those of Robert Hunter, 46, of 1214 Irwin avenue, in Presbyterian Hospital; Mrs. Anna Nowakowski, 72, rear of 3023 Brereton avenue, and Howard Marshall, 56, of 814 South Tyson street.

Cerebral hemorrhage was given as the cause of the deaths of Mrs. Sarah E. Graham, 79, of Smithfield street, Boston, and Mrs. M. Seminore, 52, of Sandy Creek road, who died in their homes, and Mrs. Catherine Baker, 48, of 117 Crawford street, in Mercy Hospital.

St. Peter's Church Elects Vestrymen

Newly-elected vestrymen at St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Craft avenue and Forbes street, include Harvey H. Smith, Alexander H. Patterson, Harry W. Neely, S. H. Nicholson, Walter J. Hays, James Kensey, Jr., Robert Rodgers and Charles S. Roberts, it was announced today by the Rev. Waldo Amos, rector.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 18.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Every day just shows us what a lucky country we are. We got lots of fleas on us, and everybody is scratching to get 'em off, but there is one insect that bothers most of the world that we are at least free from, and that is a newspaper press that is not free. Everybody wants to know if the Englishmen in Russia are guilty or framed. Everybody would love to know the very facts of what is going on in Germany. But over here you can write whatever you want to. The only trouble is getting somebody that will read it.

Yours, WILL.

10 Men, 7 Women Arrested in Raid

In a raid at 517 Lockhart street early today, North Side police arrested Louis J. Kline, 42, and Hazel Morris, 34, on charges of keeping a disorderly house, and nine men and six women on charges of visiting a disorderly house.

AGE LIMIT HITS LUNCH HEADS

Future lunch room supervisors in Pittsburgh public schools must not be over 40, and must have completed not less than two years of education beyond a high school course, including one year of institutional management, or dietetics, according to new eligibility rules approved by the Board of Public Education's property and supplies committee last night. The supervisors also must be experienced.

During the session school supplies were purchased, including 5,000 gallons of sodium hypochlorite for purifying water in swimming pools. The award was made on a bid of 58½ cents a gallon. Seven lower bids were rejected on various grounds, including alleged inferior quality.

CO-OPERATION IN BATTLE ASSURED

District Represented At Rate Case in Washington

Pittsburgh Coal operators are preparing an organized battle to save the few markets not already taken from them through unfavorable freight rates.

Officials of 11 companies will meet Friday at 10 a. m. to organize a co-operative selling organization similar to Appalachian Coals, Inc., to market the coal of the Pittsburgh district.

At Washington, the entire Interstate Commerce Commission, smarting under criticism for alleged undue delay, is today listening to arguments in the Ohio coal rate case. This is the one brought about by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad's reduction in freight rates from Eastern Ohio to the lakes.

EARLY DECISION SEEN

The extension of the same lower rate to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad is also involved. Under the present setup, local coal producers are seriously crippled in the lake market.

An appeal to President Roosevelt by the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau is generally credited with cutting red tape to bring about an early hearing. Now there is talk of the commission rendering its findings in less than a month.

WILL DRAFT PLAN

The meeting Friday will be closed except to invited officials. C. B. Huntress, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, is to preside.

The companies back of the organization movement are Westmoreland Coal Company, Keystone Coal and Coke Company, Jamison Coal and Coke Company, Ocean Coal Company, W. J. Rainey Coal Company, Hillman Coal and Coke Company, Pittsburgh Coal Company, Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, Carnegie Coal Company and Union Collieries.

Appalachian Coals, a sales agency including 140 producers, will seek through co-operation to stabilize coal production in the Southern fields. Named defendant by the government in a suit charging violation of the anti-trust laws, it recently won a Supreme Court decision.

COMPETITION SPURRED

To meet the competition given by this agency, Pittsburgh dealers feel the necessity of organization here.

The Ohio rate case was brought about by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad which lowered rates from the Eastern Ohio fields to Lake Erie. The reduction widened the differential against Pennsylvania and West Virginia operators from 10 to 39 cents.

The Pittsburgh operators have asked that the other trunk line carriers meet the Wheeling's reduction. This they have refused to do, an attorney for the Pennsylvania Railroad declaring yesterday at the hearing that such a move would mean a loss of millions of dollars to the roads.

OLIVER PLANS TO ENTER RACE

Councilman George S. Oliver indicated he would be a candidate for Council in the September primaries, last night in an address before the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade.

The former publisher asked the support of what he termed "the loyal Fourteenth" Ward, "if, in September, I come out for election."

Asked after the meeting if his statement was an announcement of his candidacy, he replied:

"Oh, I'm coming out, all right."

MONKS AID IN WORK ON HILLSIDE SHRINE

Work Speeded For Dedication On Memorial Day

Speeded by the labor of the fathers themselves, the hillside Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes, being constructed in the garden of the Slovak Franciscan Fathers monastery, Bellevue, is expected to be completed in time for dedication on Memorial Day.

In the interior, the fathers are assisting workmen and mosaic setters to finish the altar designed by L. F. Plimpton. Varicolored marble beautifies the front. The altar will be dedicated to St. Anthony.

On the front a cascade of water will fall from beneath a statue of Our Lady of Lourdes set in a niche in the rough-hewn wall.

Mysterious Blast, Fire in Treveskyn

Treveskyn officials today were investigating a mysterious explosion and fire that shortly before last midnight destroyed a vacant two-story frame dwelling, owned by Tony Cacarelli, and an adjoining garage. Police said it was the second blast in the dwelling within the last six months. Loss was estimated at $3,500.

More Defects Charged In Airport Building

Additional defects have been found in the construction of the $125,000 administration building at the County Airport, Ray Sprigle, director of the Department of Property and Supplies, said today. In an inspection of the building, Sprigle said he found the hinges on the central doors do not work properly, the cement in the cellar permits water to seep into the basement and the paint is peeling from the walls.

The defects are in addition to those reported to the County Commissioners a week ago when it was said the asphalt roof leaks, the sheet metal on the front of the building was loose and could be removed by hand, and that the coping had been nailed to second-hand timbers.

Sprigle said the law department would be asked to map steps to compel the contractor to pay for the repairs. The J. P. Ramella Company, which erected the building, is in a receivership.

Sprigle said the county was still withholding about $2,500 from the bonding company, which would cover the repairs. However, he said, the money retained is due two sub-contractors who performed their work correctly, those responsible for the faulty work having been paid in full.

MINERS CHARGE COERCION IN BUYING

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 18.—Charging that miners are forced to deal at company stores and discriminated against when they fail to do so, quo warranto proceedings were instituted here today against the Valley Camp Coal Company, and its subsidiary, the Lilley Mining Company.

The proceedings were brought in behalf of Joseph Ashbaugh, William Grimm and Fred English, with the approval of Attorney General William A. Schnader. Judge Howard W. Hughes has set May 1 for a hearing.

The suit filed by Attorneys Anthony Cavalcante, of Uniontown, and Eugene C. Sloan, of Brownsville, charge that employes of the Lilley Mining Company, in East Pike Run Township, are compelled to trade at the store of the Valley Camp Stores Company, controlled by the two mining companies.

It is alleged Ashbaugh's application for work was "O. K'd." by the store manager when he agreed to deal there and that he was discharged when he stopped dealing in the store. Grimm, it is claimed, was told to increase his purchases. It is also claimed scrip was issued to miners, good only at the company store.

PETTY INCOME CUTS RULED

The mother and widow of David F. Petty, president of Petty's, Inc., who killed himself in 1930, must agree on reductions in their incomes from a trust fund he established, or the Allegheny County Orphans' Court may decide the amounts they receive, under a ruling yesterday by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Petty provided in his will for the residue of his estate to be added to the insurance money.

The insurance amounted to $257,000, but after the accounts were paid and a $100,000 trust established for his daughter, the residue was less than Petty had expected.

This made it impossible to pay Mrs. Minnesota Petty, his mother, $200 monthly and Mrs. Lola M. Petty, his widow, $600 a month. The Orphans' Court ruled the mother was entitled to a preference and the widow appealed.

POLITICS

Senate Utility Investigating Committee. That was to be expected, for the McClure bill leaves much to be desired. There is some criticism, however, because the Governor waited until the sixteenth week of the session to put in his bill a week after the date on which the Legislature last January told the state it would attempt to adjourn.

The Governor's comment on the investigating committee indicates he has little hope it will attempt to accomplish much. He has background for that suspicion. The committee as at present constituted has done nothing in four months, and there is no new development to indicate a sudden breath of energy.

Its new counsel, Franklin Spencer Edmonds, is reported to be planning a month's vacation after adjournment, after which he will get to work. There has been no perceptible expenditure of energy since Mr. Edmonds was appointed which would warrant the necessity of such a protracted rest.

And former Congressman Harry A. Estep, of Pittsburgh, appointed as associate counsel to Edmonds, unquestionably was picked by Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, who never has appeared to be tearing his shirt on behalf of a utility inquiry.

MAKE HAIR GROW like NEW YORK girls

NEW YORK girls are busy. The beauty methods they use must be simple. But they demand results. Danderine satisfies them on both counts!

Put a few dashes of this fragrant liquid on your brush each time you arrange your hair. See it work wonders!

Danderine removes oily film; brings out the full, natural color of your hair. It gives hair more sparkle and life than brilliantine. Makes it softer, fluffier, easier to arrange. Hold it in place for hours.

The worst crust of dandruff is promptly dissolved by Danderine. Scalp is cleansed, soothed. Hair stops falling; is quickly encouraged to grow longer, thicker and more abundant. One trial and you won't wonder at the overwhelming way the loveliest girls everywhere are showing their approval.

THE 3,000 DELEGATES OF THE DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MEETING IN CONSTITUTIONAL HALL

dent of four years before. He kept inquiring about Billy Winthrop, who had been killed in that smash. He thought he was still at the Fernley Mansion.

Again he insisted on being taken to his home on Sixteenth street rather than to the White House. He had apparently forgotten that he had leased it to Pendie and her husband.

A few days after his transfer, Pendie telephoned to ask me to dine. The President was in bed, of course, and visitors were forbidden, so that there would be only Peale and herself at dinner. When I arrived Pendie was alone, Peale having been detained by a campaign committee meeting. We had our cocktails in the library. There Pendie told me that she was glad we had an opportunity to chat before her husband arrived because she wanted my advice.

Another Great Change

I chaffed her on the softening effect marriage had on her and she astonished me by replying: "You are more right than you know, Beek. Marriage is bad for a woman. It destroys her individuality, her confidence in herself, her intellectual competence. She ceases to be a leader or a creator, and degenerates into a willing, loving but helpless creature, dependent for her happiness and even her ideas and thoughts upon the words and acts of her husband. . . But I'm afraid I like it."

Further talk was cut short by the arrival of Connelly to say that the President was awake, and was asking for Miss Malloy. Would she please go up for a moment?

A few minutes later she came down again. She had told the President I was in the house and he had said he would like to see me. As I accompanied her up the stairs, she halted me on the landing to say: "Instead of talking nonsense, I ought to have warned you to be prepared for a shock. You will find him greatly altered. There's no time now to tell you more, but act as if you did not notice any change and watch every word you speak."

Wonderingly I entered the bedroom. My first astonishment was the physical change in the President. He was propped up in bed with pillows. I had expected to find a very sick man, and at first glance his bandaged head, gray lined features and bluish lips suggested this. As I drew nearer, however, I saw that he appeared to be much better than at any time during the last year or two.

President Cheerful

His look of strain had gone. The grim lines about his mouth and the hard angularity of his lower jaw had softened. His eyes appeared more blue than ever, but their usual arctic bleakness was replaced by gentleness and humor. They actually twinkled as I shook hands with him.

I murmured some commonplace about his looking so much better. I had barely finished speaking, when as unexpectedly as thunder on a sunny day the President laughed—the great, hearty, booming laugh we had not heard for nearly four years. I stepped back and it took Pendie's silent finger signal to keep me from betraying my astonishment.

"Beek, my boy," the President said, the laughter still lingering in his voice, "you are the perfect secretary, the quintessence of tactfulness, and you're also the biggest liar, with the exception of Pendie, on my staff. Looking better, am I? I must have been a sight before, then." His laugh boomed out again. "However, at my time of life looks cease to matter. I can still give parties and have fun — with friends like you and Pendie to flatter me."

Still bewildered and uncertain, I smiled and said, "Yes, and I think you'll find Peale Lindsey an even bigger admirer than either Pendie or me."

His face screwed up in a puzzled frown. "Lindsey?" he repeated. "Who's he? Oh, yes, a friend of yours—the publicity man, isn't he? I must get to know him better."

Pendie Afraid

I was about to remind him that Peale was also Pendie's husband, when I caught a look of acute anxiety on her face, from which I gathered that I was to say no more about Peale. Pendie took up trivial conversation, and soon insisting that the President must not be excited too long by visitors, signaled me to go.

When Pendie joined me in the library she did what, for her was an unusual thing. She poured herself another cocktail and I noticed that her hand trembled as she raised it to her lips. She looked at me over the rim of the glass and there was a challenge in her voice.

"Well?" she asked defiantly.

"It's beyond me, Pendie. I don't understand a thing, but it's good to see the Major his old self again."

She came over and sat down by me. "Yes," she said thoughtfully, "it is good, if it isn't just a prelude to the greatest of tragedies."

"Tragedy?"

"Yes, tragedy, not only for poor old Jud, but for everybody." She paused for a long moment. Her voice had a slow intensity when she continued. "Beek, he doesn't listen any more."

"Listen? What on earth—oh, your old friend Gabriel."

She rested her hand on my arm. "Don't laugh at me, Beek," she said tremulously, "or I'll cry."

According to Pendie, the President had never recovered from the accident of four years ago. Some pressure or lesion had effected his brain, and had been removed only by his second injury.

Restored to Normalcy

During the last four fateful years he had not been normal. His changed character, temperament and habits all indicated this. The great acts of statesmanship for which he was responsible at home and abroad were the direct outcome of that madness so close to genius, not conscious acts of sane deliberation and judgement on his part. Now he was restored to his normal self so far as his mentality was concerned, and the last years were to him only a dim and confused nightmare.

His mind visualized a state of affairs both political and domestic as they had been when he was first elected President. He did not realize that Pendie was married, that Jim, his nephew, was now over seven years old, that a presidential election was at hand, or that he had become one of the great figures of all time.

The public was quick to sense that something was wrong. The Washington correspondents were restrained from sensation mongering only by tactful and sympathetic handling by Lindsey.

On the last day of the year, Peale, Van Rassaeler and I were waiting for Pendie to join us before going in to dinner. When she came down she brought good news. The President was returning to the White House in the morning and had given instructions for the Cabinet to be summoned for that afternoon. He was going to announce his resignation, or rather announce his withdrawal from the forthcoming election.

Village Holds Vote To Abolish Itself

DOWNS, Ill., April 18.—As a tax saving measure, the village of Downs is voting today on the question of abolishing itself.

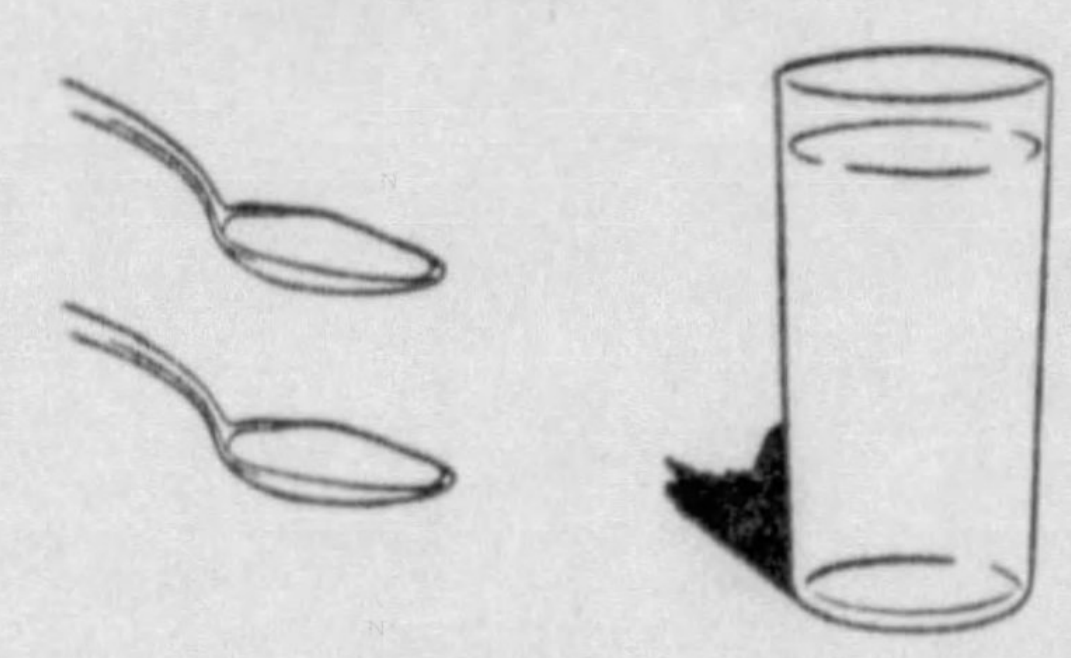
WHAT STOMACH ACIDITY IS AND WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT

A Few Simple Rules

THE SIGNS OF ACID STOMACH

Nervousness	Sour Stomach	Loss of Appetite
Neuralgia	Mouth Acidity	Frequent Headaches
Indigestion	Nausea	Feeling of Weakness
Auto-intoxication		Sleeplessness

WHAT TO DO FOR IT



TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

What This Does

That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

D.A.R. TO HONOR UNKNOWN HERO

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP.)—Patriotic pilgrimages, resolutions and reports made up a full day today for the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Tonight the forty-second annual patriotic congress will be given over to the reception for the president-general, Mrs. Russell William Magna.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, was to be chairman of the annual ceremony of commemoration at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery and at the graves of George and Martha Washington at Mount Vernon.

The organization gave an ovation last night to Ruth Bryan Owen, introduced as "Madame Minister" because of her recent diplomatic appointment to Denmark and Iceland.

Constables Assist Dry Agents in Raids

Constables and prohibition agents yesterday raided a house in Sproat way, North Side, confiscating a 75-gallon still and 10 gallons of moonshine and destroying 700 gallons of mash and four pounds of yeast.

In a Bedford avenue home the raiders reported seizing a 50-gallon still and destroying 550 gallons of mash.

DOCTOR'S 3 RULES BIG HELP TO BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that bad breath, and get rid of those bilious headaches. A little Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from all that waste matter that makes the whole system sluggish. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better.

You'll like the way Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin tastes. The way it works will delight you. Big bottles—all drugstores.

Memorial Day Group To Meet Saturday

Newly-elected officers of the joint Memorial Day committee of the North Side will preside at the second meeting of the year in Old City Hall, North Side, Saturday night. They are: Chairman, Frank Gangwisch; vice chairman, George Crawford; secretary, Charles H. Beuchler, and treasurer, John L. Salem.

BANKER DENIED SECOND TRIAL

George Clifford Frank, 56, former president of the Ligonier National Bank at Ligonier, convicted in Federal Court last month of embezzlement, was refused a new trial yesterday by Judge Nelson McVicar.

He was found guilty on nine counts of embezzlement, involving approximately $65,000, but was acquitted on nine other counts in the indictment. The maximum penalty on each count is five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine, or both.

No date has yet been set for sentence. In the prosecution the government was represented by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh.

TESTIFY FRAUD NOT REVEALED

Four workers for Michael J. Muldowney in his battle with Mrs. Ann E. Felix for the Congressional seat in the Thirty-second District have testified they were not informed of fraud when the ballot boxes of the district were examined.

All four represented Muldowney when the boxes were brought in at the request of Mrs. Felix to have condition noted in a report to Congress. The men were Andrew Wagner, a former city employe and member of the recount board; Edward Bauerhen, election clerk in the Third District of the Fourth Ward; George Schmid and John Wood.

They all said at a hearing yesterday that no irregularities or fraud in the ballot boxes were called to their attention by workers for Mrs. Felix, and said the examination was carried on by the Felix workers without consulting them.

Attorney Saul Rubin was to testify for Muldowney today. The testimony is being taken for Congress by William J. Graham, master.

JAP AIR RAID MADE NEAR PEIPING

International News Service.

TUNGCHOW, China, April 18.—Three Japanese bombing planes today carried out an aerial raid on the area around Tungchow, less than 20 miles from Peiping, which has a large American mission population.

It was the first time since Sino-Japanese hostilities had approached so close to the ancient former capital of China.

A school is maintained in Tungchow by the American mission board. Some 200 American boys and girls of high school age are students at the school.

The American legation at Peiping was watching the situation closely, preparing to take adequate measures to protect the children and their teachers in the event of further air raids.

Russia Protests Japanese Seizures

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., April 18.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia had protested today to Japan against seizures of property and other measures taken against Russia in Manchukuo on the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The railway, built by Russia as its connection with the Pacific Ocean, has been jointly operated by Russia and Manchukuo.

3 Killed in Wreck Of Limited Train

EMERSON, Ga., April 18.—(AP.)—The northbound Flamingo Louisville and Nashville passenger limited, was wrecked in a cut in the Altoona Mountains, three miles south of Cartersville last night, causing three deaths and injury to three other persons.

Engineer G. W. Evans, 52, of Atlanta, and Fireman D. A. Giles, 45, of Etowah, Tenn., were scalded to death in the cab of the overturned locomotive, while A. H. Perry, 28, of Atlanta, a wayfarer, was crushed fatally.

SELENA ROYLE .... SHE'S SERVED 100,000 MEALS TO ACTORS

145 SENTENCED ON PLEAS IN U. S. COURT

Defendants in 145 criminal cases pleaded guilty yesterday in Federal Court and were sentenced by Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker. In 46 other cases defendants pleaded not guilty and will be listed for trial at the May term of court.

Tracy Brandon, former assistant postmaster at Vandergrift, was sentenced to serve six months in jail when he pleaded guilty of embezzling $15 of postal money funds and concealing letters.

Anna Kolesar, 26, former postmistress at Terrace, pleaded guilty of embezzling $235 in postal funds. She was fined the amount of the embezzlement and placed upon probation for two years.

MANY DRY CASES

A large majority of the cases were actions brought under the prohibition law. Most of the defendants were first offenders and were fined and placed upon probations. Jail sentences were meted upon previous offenders. Fines aggregated $10,210 and jail sentences totaled three years, two months and six days.

The Carrick Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was fined $200 for violating the dry law, and the steward, Michael B. Pistorious, was fined $200 and given a one-month jail term.

OTHER PENALTIES

Others given jail sentences for liquor violations, and the places of the offenses, were as follows: Frank Vallariani, Duquesne, two months; John Korus, Pittsburgh, six months and $200 fine; Thomas Comarda, Pittsburgh, one month and $200 fine; Roy Sanders, New Kensington, two months and $200 fine; Rudolph Weber, Pittsburgh, six months and $500 fine; William H. Koon, Coraopolis, one month and $200 fine; Albert Sieg, Turtle Creek, one month and $200 fine; Clarence Williams, Pittsburgh, one month; Domenick Vilone, Donora, one month; Anthony Miller, Pittsburgh, one month and $200 fine; William R. Davis, Charleroi, one month and $200 fine; Paseo Pirincin, Pittsburgh, one month; Alex Bunovich, McKeesport, four months and $200 fine, and Stephan Kosanovich, McKeesport, two months.

A joint fine of $100 was imposed upon the German Beneficial Union, No. 56, of New Castle; John Bender and Edward Majesky for a liquor violation.

Shakespeare Scholar Collapses and Dies

Dr. Thorndike collapsed of a heart attack on Madison avenue last night, and died shortly afterward. His reputation as an author and authority on English literature was established at Columbia University, where he had been a professor since 1906.

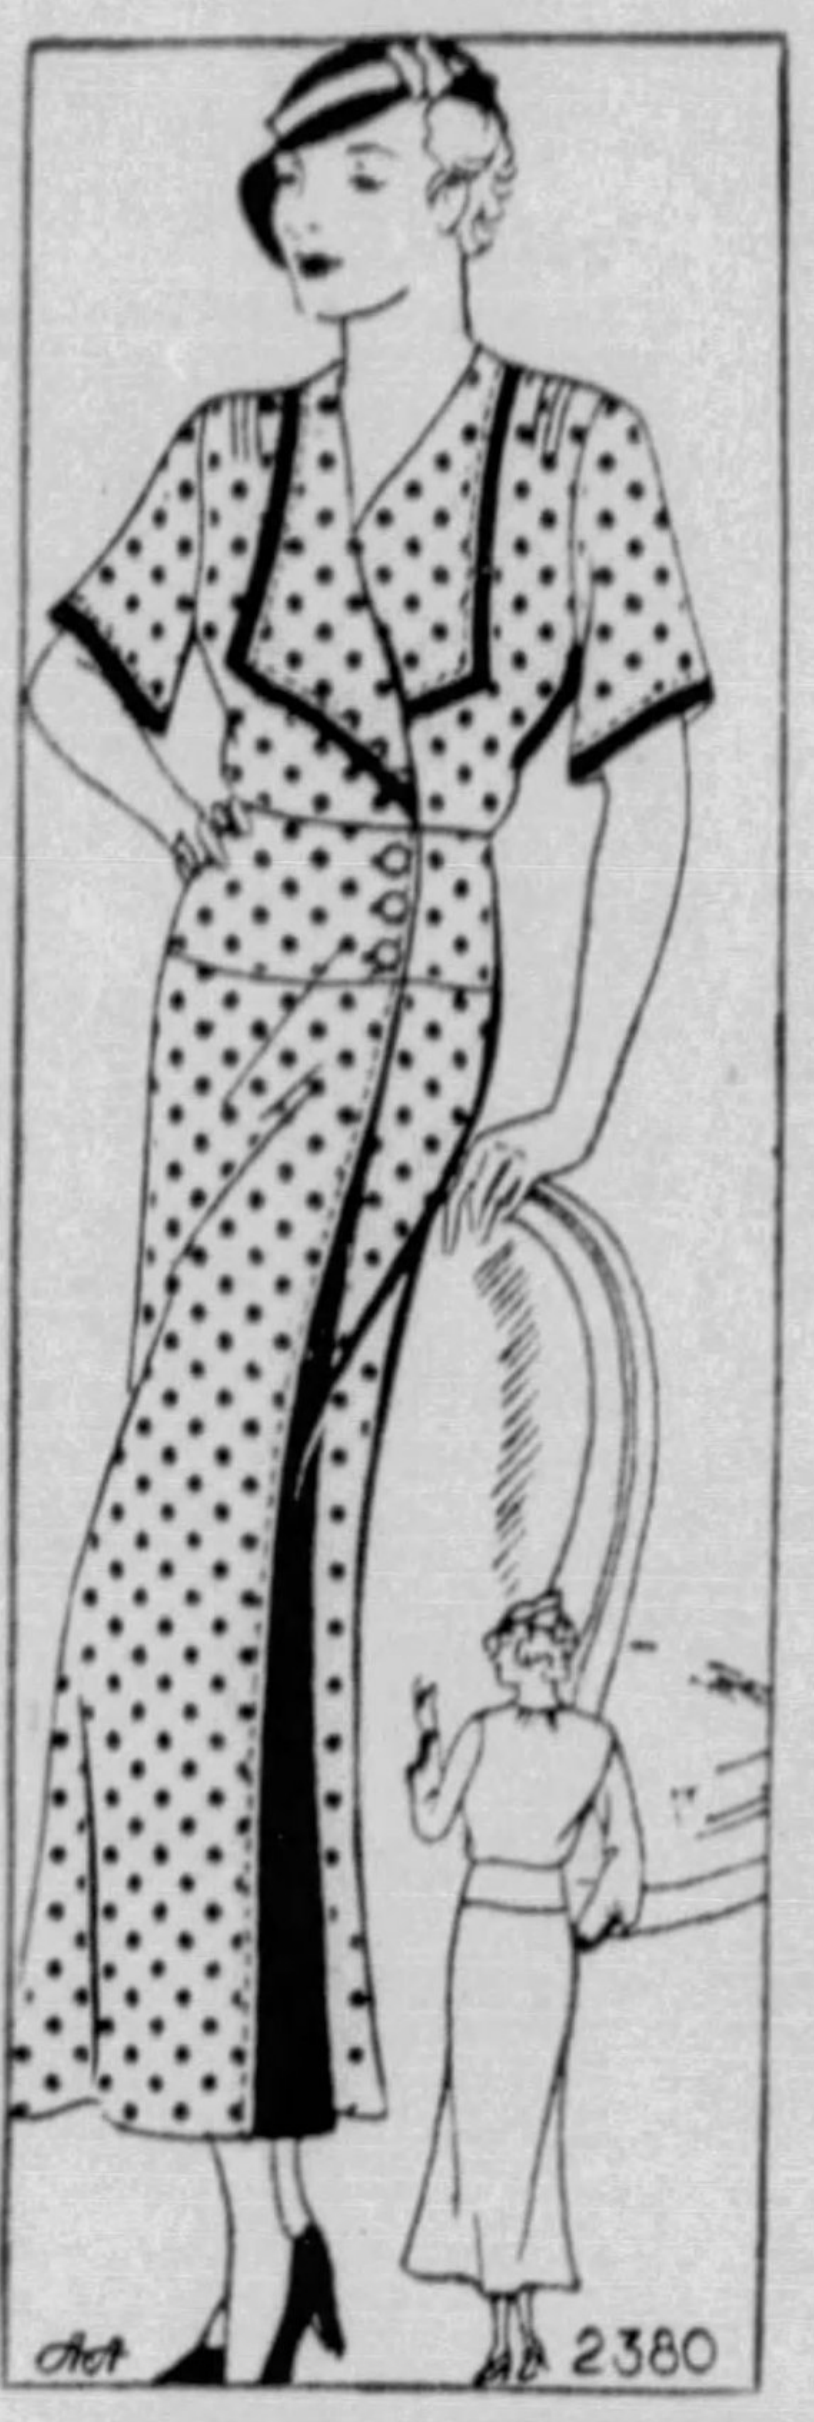
The Matron Can Easily Achieve Chic
Pattern 2380
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



The smart matron, with a not-too-slim figure, must choose her frocks wisely if she would vie with her slim sister. There's a distinct advantage if she fashions her own frocks . . . for then she can study her figure and use only those lines and details that best suit her. Mindful of this, we suggest this stunning model with very chic lines that achieve a taller and slimmer silhouette. It has becoming revers, bell sleeves, a snug hip yoke and cleverly applied bands of contrast. Buttons and top-stitching add a smart note. Ideal for printed silks.

Pattern 2380 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

CHARGE DOPE SOLD PUPILS

CHICAGO, April 18.—(US.)—Testimony of shocking conditions in the neighborhood of Lane Technical High School today led Municipal Judge Joseph McGarry to order a sweeping investigation of reports that the school is surrounded by narcotic and vice dens.

Harry Lapp, president of the Lincoln Park Chamber of Commerce, told Judge McGarry:

"Conditions are so bad that students from Lane Tech can get dope without difficulty.

"In one of my untenanted buildings I found that beds had been installed. The women who had moved in told me they paid rent to a man on the street."

How to Keep Well

Exercises to Correct Cross Eyes

From time to time I have outlined for you some of the numerous ailments which attack the eyes. Today I want to tell you something about "cross eyes." I believe too little attention is given to this matter.

Dr. Copeland

In New York City there are more than 45,000 school children who suffer from "cross eyes." Every child has a right to possess strong and normal eyes. Children suffering from cross eyes are decidedly handicapped throughout life. When the condition is neglected poor vision or even total blindness may occur in one eye. Children with the affliction are humiliated and made unhappy. They are shy, sensitive and in consequence have difficulty in making friends.

Bear in mind that movements of the eye-ball are controlled by groups of muscles. Like other muscles of the body, these will weaken if not given the proper care. If one muscle of the eye weakens, more work is thrown on the other muscles. In consequence, the eyeball may be turned out of its proper position.

By proper care early in life it is possible, in many a case, to overcome cross eye without an operation. Surgery alone was the old-time method of dealing with this unpopular defect. Of course, many parents, fearing the operation, permitted the child to grow up with this handicap.

Recently, clinics have successfully used corrective exercises for overcoming this defect. New instruments have been devised and by the use of these the defective muscles of the eye are strengthened and corrected.

In addition to the corrective exercises, it is advisable that proper glasses be prescribed. Glasses should be worn while the muscles are weak. They should always be worn if there is a real defect in vision.

Mothers should bear in mind that many children are born with eyeballs so small or so short that the vision is defective. If a child is so afflicted, unusual care must be given to nourish the youngster. Care in feeding, in out-of-door life, sunlight and general exercise, will promote the growth and development of the eye. In due time the eyeball will become larger and longer. When that happens the vision will improve and probably become normal. Then the glasses can be discarded.

Guard your eyes and those of your children. Early recognition of eye defects is important. In the beginning they are easy to cure. When neglected, and permanent damage has been done, cure is often impossible.

I am confident that many children will benefit by the recent advances made in the treatment of "cross eyes" and other eye disturbances. General health and happiness are improved by the removal of this affliction.

Dentist Alibi Frees Traffic Violator

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 18.—(AP.)—When a man spends two hours in a dentist's chair having his teeth yanked out he can hardly be expected to worry about whether his automobile is parked overtime.

SELENA LIKES F. R., NOT BEER

This may not sound important at first glance, but Miss Royle has served quite a few meals—or, at least, caused them to be served.

As a ringleader in the organization of a free restaurant for needy people of the stage, she has seen 100,000 meals served them in the last 15 months in New York.

She was in Pittsburgh today as the attractive young blonde who caused comment in "When Ladies Meet" at the Nixon last night.

And she doesn't think so much of the new beer:

"I had some in Washington and it seemed to me to be green, although I'm not an expert on beer. I got much more of a thrill in Washington out of the President coming to our play. In fact, he waved to us as the curtain fell. Now there's a thrill for you! How many young women can say that the greatest man in the country—my father excepted—has waved to them?"

Father of Nine Killed On Porch by Gunman

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—(INS.)—A gunman seated in the rumble seat of a passing automobile early today killed Anthony Schiavo, 48, father of nine children, as he fumbled with a key in the lock of the front door of his house.

Two motorcycle policemen, who heard the shots, arrived in time to see the killers' car slip around a corner. One of the policemen gave chase, but the car soon outdistanced him.

LENCHER TALKS ON CHILD CRIME

Declaring solution to the problem of crime prevention lies in the treatment of juvenile delinquents, County Judge Benjamin Lencher spoke last night before the Washington Heights Board of Trade in Diller Post Hall, 24 Prospect street, Mt. Washington. He said:

"In the Juvenile Court we attempt to do a social job humanely and sensibly. Each child is treated as a human being and considered as an individual personality. It is not a criminal court but a social conference. We are interested mainly in the future of these children and try to fit them in their proper channel."

J. D. Conway, president of the trade board, was chairman.

Hunt Gypsies After Gas Station Theft

Two gypsy couples were sought by North Side police today in connection with the looting of the cash register in the Atlantic Refining Company service station, Madison avenue and Lockhart street, last night. The women were believed to have rifled the register of $15 while the attendant was filling their automobile with gasoline.

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action — much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
-With-

Patricia Pitt

For the bridegroom is a Pittsburgh son, Lieut. B. Klem Boyd, of the Ninth United States Infantry, U. S. M. A., 1931. He's Mrs. Richard Hawkins' son, and Eliza Boyd's brother.

He is to marry Norma Katherine Pennell, daughter of Lieut. Col. Ralph Pennell and Mrs. Pennell, of Fort Sam Houston, in the post chapel at Fort Sam Houston.

Officiating will be Bishop Samuel Capers, of the Southwestern Texas diocese. The altar of the chapel will be decorated with white calla lilies and lighted by white candles.

Arch of Sabers

And of course the ushers will all be in military uniform, and the bride and bridegroom will walk beneath an arch formed by the ushers' sabers.

The bride will wear white satin, fashioned with a high waist-line, long shirred sleeves and a court train, over which will cascade a veil of tulle. She will carry white calla lilies.

Eliza Boyd, who will be maid of honor, will wear white lace having a leaf design outlined in gold thread with her Wateau-styled hat of the same material. She'll carry long stemmed white roses.

The bridesmaids, Lucy Renolds, Marjorie Ripley, Suzanne Swift, Jean Motter, Frances Shannon and Norma McNair, all of Texas, will wear gowns of heavy white crepe, also fashioned with high waist-lines, and will wear gold slippers. Their hats will be of white maline with a small gold ornament on the left side, and their flowers will be armfuls of yellow Pernet roses.

Lieut. Samuel Smellow will be best man, and Lieuts. John Read, Camden MacConnell, Orlando Trozel, George Lodaen, James Stroker and Scott Dixon, ushers.

Reception To Follow

A reception in the ballroom of the San Antonio County Club will follow with dancing until 12 for the younger people.

Mrs. Hawkins, mother of the bridegroom, will wear high-light blue chiffon with a cape jacket and a silver turban trimmed with small blue flowers, and the mother of the bride will wear coffee-colored lace with a matching jacket and a turban of chiffon in a deeper shade with a band of small velvet flowers for trimming.

Bridal Party

Isn't it exciting after the long Lenten drought, as far as society affairs are concerned, to have so many things going on? Today brings some news we've all been waiting for—Emily Frew's bridal party.

Emily will marry Henry Oliver, Jr., son of the Henry Olivers, May 1, in Calvary Episcopal Church. She's the daughter of the William Frews, of Devon road.

Margaretta Frew will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. H. Myron Wilson, Jr., of Cleveland, formerly Peggy Milligan, will be matron of honor. And the list of bridesmaids is made up of Virginia Frew Wright, Lydia Irish, Mary Franklin Robinson, Rebecca Doyle, Mrs. William C. Robinson, Jr., Mrs. William Hamil Trimble, Mrs. Wilson M. Book, of Westfield, N. Y., and Mrs. John Watts, of New York.

The best man will be R. Norman Semler, of New York, and the ushers, Joseph W. Oliver, W. D. George, Jr., William C. Robinson, Jr., William Lloyd Standish III, David Oliver Shoemaker, of New York; David Oliver Ross, of Norristown, N. Y.; Waldo W. Greene, Wendell B. Thompson and Dr. Carnes Weeks, all of New York, and Charles J. Heller, of Detroit.

The reception after the wedding is to be held in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William N. Frew, of Fifth avenue.

Smart Set Sees Play

More of the smart set met at the Nixon last night for "When Ladies Meet" than I've seen at the theater for many a day. In addition to the usual first nighters, there were ever so many of the younger set there.

There was exquisite, blonde Collie Jennings in a chartreuse green rough crepe dress with which she wore vivid, red slippers; Marie Louise Bickford in black crepe with cartridge pleating outlining the arms; Laura Oliver in turquoise blue velvet with a bodice of chiffon; Bertha Brooks in sapphire blue crepe; Althea Robinson, Madelaine Alexander and her fiance, William Gordon.

Others I noticed were the Alan Magee Scaifes, the James Verner Scaifes, Mrs. A. Rex Flinn, Mrs. Raymond Hilliard, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, in dark blue crepe; the Harvey Childses III, the Blair Childses, Mrs. John McKelvy, Mrs. George A. Kelly III, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, Margaret Holdship in orange crepe; Mrs. Earl Reed, Mrs. C. S. Wunder, in white silk pique; Mrs. C. L. Flaccus, Mrs. W. S. Moorhead.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

The William G. Sanders, like many other parents on Easter eve, spent much time dyeing eggs for their young son, William G., Jr., and hiding them all about the house.

But the Sanders' dog, a little Scottie, got up before his young master, rooted out all the eggs, and collected them in a pile for Junior. And in his excitement, the Scottie smashed nearly all the eggs!

Here's a bit of advice for parents for next Easter—one little boy assured me that his candy lions tasted better than candy bunnies!

One much favored style note I observed in Pittsburgh Easter parade to churches was the Ascot scarf, usually of the same material as the coat or the suit. Patsy Mellon's demure brief cape was tied with one of the same material pin striped grey.

Something smart for Easter showers—Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby is wearing a caped white rubber coat with hat to match for rainy days this spring.

Dr. H. A. Overstreet Tells 20th Century Club of New Day's Prophets

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Club members added their own choice to Dr. Harry Allen Overstreet's list of "Prophets of the New Day" at the conclusion of his adress before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning.

In his list Dr. Overstreet included Jane Addams, John Dewey, Einstein, Gandhi, Tagore, Margaret Sanger, Havelock Ellis, Mary Baker Eddy (because as a psychologist she set a new pace for life); Woodrow Wilson, a tragic figure, who pointed people in a new direction, and President Roosevelt, not because of what he has been doing but because of the clarity, graciousness and balance of his book—"the indication of a new kind of Senator."

Dr. Overstreet commented on the unusual fact that the passage into this "new day" is being realized, that changes in any order of civilization in the past were probably not recognized until those changes had been made. The "promised land," however, will not be reached in a day and not until habits have been broken and disciplined and minds and attitudes reshaped.

Four great intolerances—the intolerance of religion, of nationhood, of economics and of race—have darkened the age now passing, and pointing in the new direction is the spirit of unity. He looks for the new spirit to come, not through any great institutions but from an unexpected direction.

It is already appearing, he said, where people are getting together seeking the good life; where the spirit of helping is manifested; where truth is being sought selflessly; where beauty is being created; where man is learning to play, learning the fellowship of sportsmanship, and where life is being intelligently organized. These are ways of life in which every person may become a participant, he concluded.

PRIZE WINNER'S WORKS SHOWN

By PENELOPE REDD

Miss Redd

The figure subjects shown have been made of the artist's free choice rather than as commissioned portraits. Thereby, they gain as character studies which the artist has elected to depict. They show a young girl in a bright red gown, a serious young sculptor, a romantic elderly artist, and an alert "Antiquary" holding a beautifully painted oriental brass coffee pot.

The "Portrait of Mr. B." interested this reviewer most, probably because of the detached but engaging personality portrayed. The exhibition will close April 29.

BAER TO BE FEARED, DEMPSEY WARNS

ONE POINT ON which Jack Dempsey and Max Schmeling do not agree, judging from their remarks here yesterday, is the fistic rating of Max Baer. Schmeling said he expected to have no trouble defeating Baer in their fight on June 8; that "Baer likes the girls too much, plays to the crowd, and does not realize that fighting is a serious business." When Dempsey's attention was called to Schmeling's statement, he said it would be wise for the German to get rid of that idea at once. Jack declares that Baer no longer is playing the part of "The Great Lover," is taking fighting very seriously now and must be recognized as a real title threat.

Jack Dempsey

"I'm not speaking merely as a promoter trying to boost his show when I say that Baer is to be feared," Dempsey said. "I think he is one of the best heavyweights we have had in a long time. He is big, strong, plenty fast enough, can take a punch besides having a dandy of his own, one of the hardest hitters I ever saw. He has everything a good heavyweight needs, and Schmeling will have to be an outstanding fighter to beat him.

"ALL THAT BAER needed was to take fighting more seriously, and he is doing that now. I think I made him see the light by showing him what a great spot he was in—only two fights away from the heavyweight championship at the age of 23. Nobody except Jeffries ever got the same chance at that age.

"I was 24 before I got my shot; Corbett was 26; Fitzsimmons almost 35; Johnson 30; Willard 32; Schmeling nearly 25; Sharkey 32. Since I pointed out to Baer that he was getting a chance that comes to very few fighters at his age he realizes what a big opportunity he has, and it has made a different fighter of him. He is much more serious about reaching the top than he ever was before. Mark my words, he will be dangerous to Schmeling or anybody else."

DEMPSEY SAYS THERE are orders already for the Schmeling-Baer show totaling $100,000. He figures a similar additional sum as assured, and thinks that with favorable breaks the gate may go so far beyond $200,000 as to be a sell-out. He hopes the Sharkey-Carnera show on June 29 will be a success, as he thinks he can get a subsequent title match between the two winners.

"But I have my doubts," the former champion added. "In fact, I'll not be surprised if the Sharkey-Carnera fight never takes place. If Carnera goes into England to sail for this country he may be held in that heart balm verdict against him and probably he has not got the money to settle. Delay in coming here will cool interest in the show, and Sharkey is too well-heeled to fight for small money. If he sees only a lean gate promised, he may ask the Garden people to call off the show."

IN SPITE OF Washington boosters, most of the Yankees think their real opposition will come from the A's, who still have Grove and Earnshaw working for them. "What's all this talk about the Washington pitching?" Babe Ruth asked John Kieran. "Sure, Crowder is good, and Weaver is okay, for a young fellow. And I guess Thomas may be better this year, from what they say. But Whitehill never gives us much trouble, and that guy Stewart will beat himself out of a lot of games. He starts crabbing with the umpire over a called ball, and it's all off. They might as well take him out of there right then. And that outfield of Goslin, Manush and Schulte isn't going to be so much, in spite of all you hear about it. The Senators gave away a dozen ball games when they traded Sammy West to the Browns. I can remember four or five myself that he saved for them last year." Another Yankee chimed in with the remark that the only notable thing Schulte had done since he came up five years ago was to break a leg, and that was accidental.

Floyd Vaughan

THAT THE PIRATES have one of the main pennant essentials, a smooth combination at shortstop and second base, is admitted by the veteran Rabbit Maranville. He is a strong booster for Floyd Vaughan and Tony Piet, says they make a great pair around the midway, and joins other baseball men in predicting that Vaughan will become the best shortstop in the game.

Yet Maranville does not favor the Buccaneers for the pennant. He offers the same reason that has been heard from numerous other sources—that they haven't got the pitching. That's what many of them said about the Forbes Field outfit last season, too, but you can't win 86 ball games with eight men.

HARD AND FAST rules for the Yankees while off the field never are laid down by Joe McCarthy. He believes in the honor system, and says experience has taught him that a ball club hemmed in with tight rules and regulations becomes a surly, resentful group.

So McCarthy leaves the off-field activities of his players largely to their own judgment and sense of duty. In two years with the Yankees only one man abused his confidence, and that player is now out of the game.

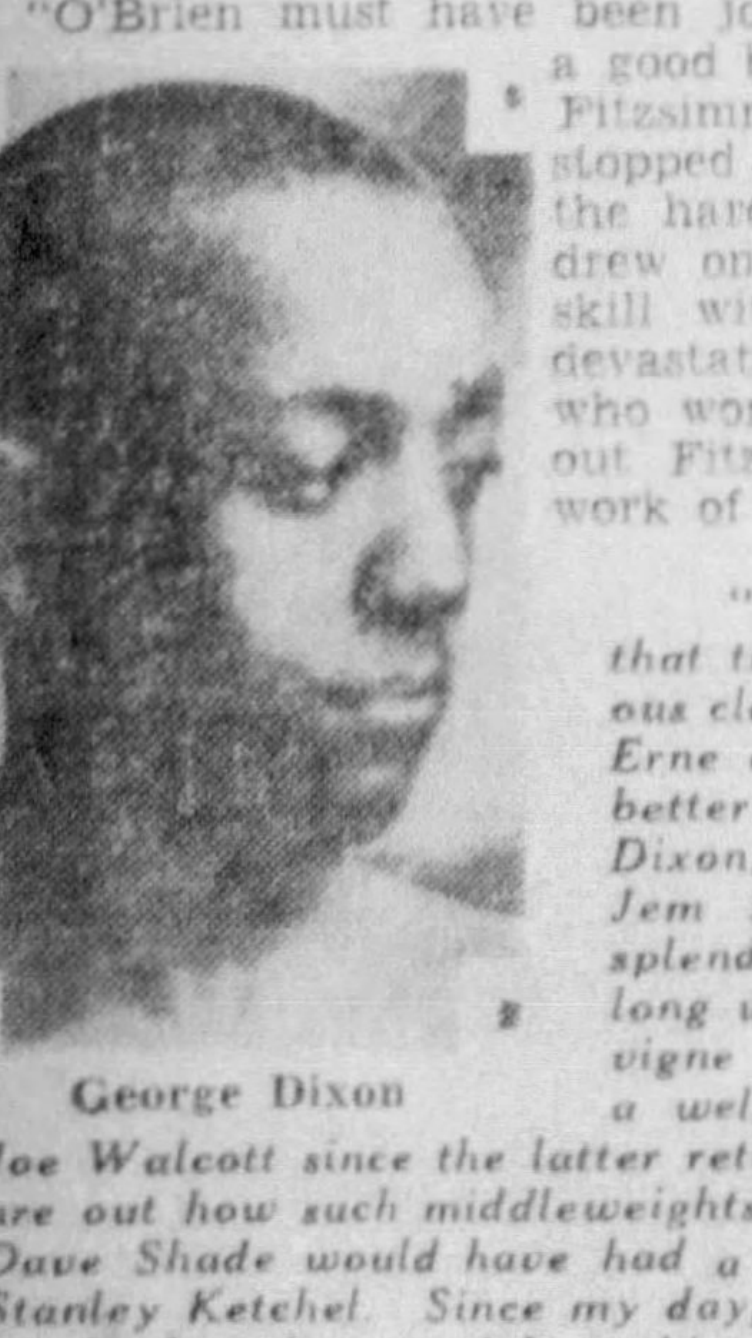
THAT THE INSTALLATION of the Notre Dame football system at Holy Cross is to be thorough is shown by the appointment of Joe Sheeketski and Joe Locke as assistants to Dr. Edward Anderson, the new head coach at the Worcester college. For, like Anderson, the two aides are former Notre Dame players and graduates in the Irish system, and their appointment means the dropping of Gus Cervini, a Holy Cross alumnus, and Bunny Corcoran, the end coach, who has been associated with Crusader football for years. Football fans in New England are looking forward to a chance to see how the Notre Dame attack operates against the Warner system. Harvard, Brown and Boston College use various interpretations of the Warner style, and Holy Cross will face all three of those teams next fall.

THOUGH OF THE 43 horses at present eligible not more than 12 will go to the post, the Belmont Stakes this year will continue to be the richest event for 3-year-olds in the country. It will be worth $65,000, of which $50,000 will go to the winner, $7,500 to the second horse, $3,000 to the third and $1,000 to the fourth, with $3,500 more to be divided among the nominators of the first three.

The Belmont is also the oldest 3-year-old stake in the United States, six years older than the Preakness and eight older than the Kentucky Derby. Some of the greatest horses the American turf has known have won the Belmont.

THE RECENT ASSERTION by Philadelphia Jack O'Brien that Maxie Rosenbloom never had an equal in the light-heavyweight class, got a rise out of another old-timer in the person of Frank Erne, lightweight champion from 1899 to 1902.

"O'Brien must have been joking," Erne said. "Rosenbloom is a good boxer, but he can't hit. Either Bob Fitzsimmons or Kid McCoy would have stopped him, in my belief. Fitzsimmons was the hardest hitter of his weight that ever drew on a glove. McCoy combined boxing skill with a method of attack that was devastating. I feel sure that O'Brien himself, who won the light-heavy title by knocking out Fitzsimmons, would have made short work of Rosenbloom.



George Dixon

"NOBODY CAN MAKE me believe that the modern champions in the various classes are better than the old ones," Erne continued. "We never have seen better featherweights than George Dixon, Terry McGovern, Abe Attell and Jem Driscoll. Tony Canzoneri is a splendid lightweight champion, but how long would he have lasted with Kid Lavigne or Joe Gans? There hasn't been a welterweight champion the equal of Joe Walcott since the latter retired from the ring, and I can't figure out how such middleweights as Mickey Walker, Ben Jeby and Dave Shade would have had a chance to beat such a wonder as Stanley Ketchel. Since my day, Jack Dempsey showed himself to be the best heavyweight, taking into consideration aggressiveness, hitting power and stamina. Max Schmeling would have given Dempsey a hard fight, and some day will be the undisputed champion again. Wouldn't it be a treat to see Sam Langford come back at his best for a scrap with Primo Carnera?"

GIBBY ORDERS LONG DRILL FOR SQUAD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The trail that leads to home, sweet home, was calling the Pirates today.

The Pirates are scheduled to reach their home port early tomorrow morning. Manager Gibson has ordered all hands to be on deck early for a lengthy workout at Forbes Field.

The Pirates are not scheduled for league action tomorrow, the date being an open one.

Few clubs in Pirate history have given off the radiant glow the Buccos have reflected since the bell rang last Wednesday. And the swift pace of the Pirates may recall to you some statements made by Manager Gibson through the medium of these columns a few short weeks ago, and at a time when the Pittsburgh flag favorites were being knocked for a daily loop by a flock of underpaid bush leaguers.

BEGIN TO CLICK

Citing the 1909 Pirates as a club that couldn't lay away a nickel in its barnstorming tour, Gibby intimated that perhaps his latest models would make history repeat itself, after a fashion. Be that as it may, the somewhat carefree Buckaroos were solidified into a serious-minded ball nine as they started on the Eastern trek across the U. S. A. The Pirates, in other words, began to click about one week before the season opened, and to date they have copped eight games in succession, five exhibition tilts and three others that Mr. Heydler's accountants have officially tabulated.

HURLERS SHOW CLASS

The right-about-face shindig on the part of the Pirates started as soon as the sharpshooters began to "bear down" and after the team had cleared the zone of rabbit balls.

Bill Swift walked to the mound in Cincy on jumpoff day and proceeded to throw some fancy fast balls to the Reds, who were lucky to score a run. The next day Larry French stood by with a four-hit performance. Heinie Meine challenged the Bruins in their own lair Saturday and, through five innings, Heine allowed but two hits.

The inside story of Meine's collapse was told by Heinie:

"I guess I lost most of my stuff. The day was cold and I began to weaken a bit in the sixth. Anyhow, my curve ball was hanging instead of snapping. I suppose I should have asked to be taken out, but you know the natural inclination in one is to finish when he has the advantage."

The Cubs started to shellack Heinie when the hook refused to break, but Bill Harris, the best relief pitcher on the Pittsburgh Club, was on the job to carry on. There's a gent who is tough when he enters a game in the late rounds. Bill ended the fight with a perfect hook that broke around Zach Taylor's knees for a perfect third strike. Zach was slightly mortified as he stood with his bat on his shoulders.

Chilly Sauce

The Pirate log calls for a hasty departure from Chicago tonight. Special taxicabs will rush the players to the station immediately after the game is over. The EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE MAJESTIC HANDKERCHIEF—The history of the pocket handkerchief dates back some 3,000 years. The ancient Egyptians, the Persians, the Romans and the Greeks used handkerchiefs as part of their finery, although they refused to consider it in connection with the functions of the nose. For many thousands of years the handkerchief was an exclusive privilege of the rich and one ruler even forbade commoners to carry handkerchiefs under pain of death in the Germany of the Sixteenth century. Until Queen Marie Antionette, of France, made the square handkerchief de rigueur in France, its shape was either round or rectangular. The Queen is said to have been influenced by the square napkins used by the church.

TOMORROW: UPSIDE DOWN BIRDS.

FANS GET KICK OUT OF GARDEN EXHIBITION

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Mark down Pittsburgh's most successful boxing exhibition show, put across by the showmanship of the one and only Jack Demsey and the appealing Max Schmeling, two former heavyweight champions, before the largest crowd of the year at Motor Square Garden last night. At $1 and $2 prices, the gate just missed the $4,000 mark.

The fans got the kick of their lives as they saw Dempsey in the flesh cutting didoes and throwing himself into the spirit of the evening and refereeing three two-minute rounds of boxing by Schmeling and two spar mates and then handling the scheduled eight-round main bout which followed and which he stopped in the fourth round to save Carl Montebano, of Braddock, from further punishment at the fists of the Alabama Kid, Negro southpaw middleweight, of Dover, O.

JACK PULLS BYPLAY

Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, who boxes Max Baer under the promotion of Dempsey in New York, on June 8, and showed plenty of class last night, acted as master of ceremonies at the loud speaker, and Dempsey and Schmeling also talked into the microphone. In addition, Dempsey spotted One-Eye Connelly, the famous gate crasher, in the crowd and called him into the ring following the exhibition. As One-Eye tried to get inside, Dempsey playfully manipulated the ropes in such a manner that he couldn't break through and had to go around on another side. Once inside, Dempsey gave him a big handshake and then began to spar off and chased him out of the ring, a bit of byplay that brought a roar from the fans.

The semi-final was out of the way at 9:54 p. m., and Schmeling came down the aisle from his dressing room immediately, hailed by an outburst of welcome from the crowd. Dempsey and Manager Jacobs and Trainer Max Machon followed, and the roar became deafening as Dempsey hove into view.

STILL 'THE CHAMPION'

The man who still is "the champion" in the popular imagination of many of the fans, although it is almost seven years since he lost the title to Gene Tunney, wore the regulation gray shirt and trousers of the licensed referees and over his shirt a light blue, sleeveless sweater. As soon as he entered the ring, he was directed over to one side, where he stepped out upon the platform and shook hands with Mayor John Herron, who had just come from a banquet and was in evening attire. Councilman Harry Little was next, and then followed a liberal shaking of other hands with ringsiders.

Schmeling wore a low-cut jersey and the regulation boxing shorts, black with a red belt and red stripes down the sides. He did not don his headgear until after he was in the ring and the fans had had a good look at him.

Sergt. Bill Higgins was the first sparring partner. Schmeling showed his boxing form and let go many rights to the jaw and danced away. Finally Bill went down for a count of one and again for five, although he did not appear to be hurt. The bell rang as he got up after the second knockdown. The crowd got a big kick out of waiting for the official announcement to be made, following the collection of the slips from the judges and Referee Dempsey, that Schmeling had won the two-minute bout.

AH—KNOCKDOWNS!

Came then big, blonde, curly-haired Gus Rodenberg, wearing flashy full-length green trunks and purple tights over them. Gus did a lot of weaving and bobbing

National Backstroke Champ Here Tonight

Don Zehr, national backstroke champion and a member of the United States Olympic swimming team last summer, will compete in the dual meet between the Downtown Y. M. C. A. swimmers and the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Y squad in the Downtown Y pool here tonight. Zehr is a member of the Fort Wayne team.

Charley Boyer, of Carnegie Tech and the Downtown Y, who recently set an unofficial backstroke record for 150 yards, will oppose Zehr tonight.

Penn State Nine Defeats Virginia

UNIVERSITY, Va., April 18.—(AP.)—Penn State defeated the University of Virginia baseball team, 5 to 2, here yesterday.

Four Cavalier errors donated the visitors five runs in the first two innings. After that, Orlin Rogers pitched shutout ball and was given excellent support. The score by innings:

AMATEUR RING TEAM NAMED

The eight boxers who won senior A. M. A. crowns during the recent senior championship tournament at the Keystone A. C. will represent the district in the national championship at Boston, which will get under way next Monday night. This announcement was made by the local A. M. A. officials yesterday.

The local punchers will depart probably Saturday night for Boston. The team follows:

Flyweight class—Snooker Brill, General Electric A. A., Erie.
Featherweight class—Leo Sweeney, Pittsburgh Boys' Club.
Welterweight class—Richard Ambrose, Thomas Club.
Light-heavy class—George Bittner, Pleasant Valley A. C., New Salem.
Heavyweight class—Nick Maloy, Billie A. C., Duquesne.

N. Y. Giants Re-elect Officers, Directors

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Stockholders of the New York Giants, at their annual meeting in Jersey City, re-elected for another year their officers and board of directors, headed by President Charles A. Stoneham.

The other officers are John J. McGraw, vice president; Leo J. Bondy, treasurer, and James J. Tierney, secretary.

The directors include Stoneham, McGraw, Bondy, Horace A. Stoneham, William G. Kendall, of Maplewood, N. J.; Ross F. Robertson, of Huntington, L. I., and Henry A. Ferguson, of New York.

LONG BEACH, Cal.—(AP.)—Announcement today that Yale's Board of Athletic Control had given permission for the Eli crew to race here July 8, raises to seven the list of prospective entrants for a proposed national rowing regatta. Others who have signified their intentions to compete are the University of Washington, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts Tech, Wisconsin and U. C. L. A.

CHICAGO.—(AP.)—A revision in the schedule of the National indoor polo championship tournament, will bring together the North Shore Riding Club, of Chicago, and the Sixth Corps Area team, in the feature attraction at the 124th Field Artillery Armory tonight.

BIRMINGHAM, England.—(AP.)—Mrs. C. Glorney's Yeoman Hussar, at odds of 2 to 1, today won the Norton selling plate over the mile distance by four lengths from Sir B. Sheffield's Gilcowan. Thirteen horses ran. The purse was £200.

BOSTON.—(AP.)—With four former winners and 18 of last year's first 20 finishers entered, the Boston A. A. marathon will have one of the best fields in its 37 years' history starting in tomorrow's marathon race from Hopkington to Boston. As usual, Clarence DeMar, 44-year-old Keene (N. H.) school teacher and seven-time winner, is the outstanding entry.

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa.—Westminster College has dropped plans for a night football game this spring.

NEW YORK.—A picked team of Metropolitan amateurs will oppose members of the U. S. Ryder Cup golf team at White Plains, N. Y., June 13. The proceeds, including a $500 donation from the club, will go to the unemployment fund of the P. G. A.

MONTREAL — Poll Parrott and Lew Rush held a two-lap lead over the field in Montreal's six-day bicycle race early today.

SAN BRUNO, Cal.—Because Huddersfield, a confirmed rail runner, repeatedly bumped Grattan in the stretch, the former was disqualified from further racing here and the former declared the winner of the San Pablo purse, feature race at Tanforan yesterday.

MARGANTOWN, W. VA.—The Dayton (O.) club of the Middle Atlantic League has signed Pitcher John Pervola, ace of local American Legion junior teams.

Maronne-Thomas Lead in Pin Event

Maronne and Thomas were leading in the doubles with 1,217 and S. Myer was out in front in the singles competition with 655 as rolling was continued today in the Votel Brothers' ninth annual tenpin tournament at the Votel Alleys, in East Pittsburgh. The leading scores:

Doubles—Maronne-Thamos, 1,217; Buck-Lawlor, 1,195; Seethaler-Blaha, 1,191; Kellar-Terry, 1,167; Hamilton-Beck, 1,159; Thompson-Secrist, 1,141; Beers-Campbell, 1,121; Shoener-Smyers, 1,120.

Singles—S. Myer, 655; D. Emery, 641; A. Buck, 634; L. Hamilton, 619; J. Barton, 611; D. McCoy, 604; J. Vic, 604; J. Lawler, 602; R. Holtz, 600.

Lipchick Wins In Caddie Tourney

Frank Lipchick won the first senior caddie tournament of the season at the Guyasuta Golf Club yesterday afternoon, his 61 for the 18 holes being one shot better than the 62 of Louis Schmitt.

Henry Kodak won the junior event with a 76, while Ray Pruski took second prize with a 77. C. H. McDonald will hold weekly tourneys at Guyasuta throughout the season.

GOVERNOR GETS RING BILL

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 18.—Gov. Pinchot's approval is all that is required to permit 15-round prize fights in Pennsylvania. The state's boxing law now limits bouts to a maximum of 10 rounds.

The bill of Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, to make 15-round matches legal, passed the Senate last night. It previously had passed the House.

Two years ago, for technical reasons, the Governor vetoed a bill which would have allowed championship fights to go 15 rounds. The Steedle bill applies to all bouts, regardless of whether a title is at stake.

By vote of 26 to 24, the Senate adopted the Salus bill to levy a tax of 10 per cent on admission fees to Sunday sports and amusements. It not only applies to Sunday baseball and football, which the Schwartz bill now before the Governor would legalize, but also to Sunday concerts, motion pictures and theatrical performances, which continued to be outlawed by the 1794 Sunday observance law.

The Hoopes bill, to permit Sunday fishing with one rod and two hooks, was amended to apply only to the Delaware River. Last week the bill had been changed to apply to "boundary waters," which would have included Lake Erie as well as the Delaware River. Senator Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks County, last night changed the bill to apply to "boundary streams," which excludes Lake Erie.

Bob Carey Funeral Set For Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP.)—Funeral rites will be held for Bob Carey, national automobile racing champion, here tomorrow afternoon and his body will be sent to his home at Anderson, Ind., for burial.

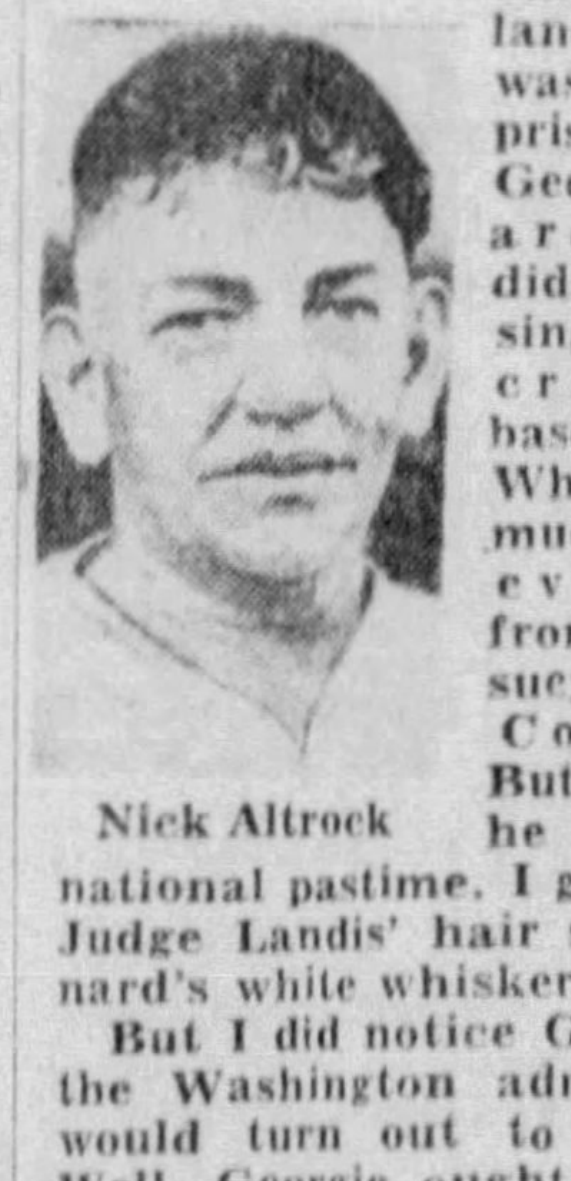
Carey was killed yesterday in time trials at the Ascot Speedway here, when the foot throttle stuck on his expensive machine and it crashed into a rail of the track.

Track officials estimated the car was traveling 90 miles an hour at the time of the crash. Carey, who was 28 years old, had been racing 10 years. He is survived by a widow and an 8-year-old son.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, April 18.—I figured I better keep my trap shut till he was well on his way back to England, but gosh, wasn't I surprised that George Bernard Shaw didn't make a single adverse crack about baseball. Old Whiskers threw mud pies at everything from our chop suey to the Constitution. But, by golly, he laid off our national pastime. I guess maybe Judge Landis' hair scared Bernard's white whiskers stiff.



Nick Altrock

But I did notice G. B. S. said the Washington administration would turn out to be a flop. Well, Georgie ought to know a flop when he sees it. "The Apple Cart" was one of his recent plays.

Remember how the old boy got sarcastic and insulting to the movie stars and reporters? Well, my fondest hope was he'd pull that stuff on an umpire. He'd have got sentenced to enough shower baths to last him the rest of his life.

TECH GRIDDERS OPEN SPRING DRILLS TODAY

HARPSTER GETS FIRST GLIMPSE OF SKIBOS

By JESS CARVER

Confronted by a situation calculated to cause him plenty of sleepless nights and to put his coaching powers to a test as severe as ever they figure to experience, no matter if he continues on the job until he has a beard reaching to his shoe-tops, Howard Harpster this afternoon formally assumes the football reins at his alma mater, Carnegie Tech, as he and his assistant, Don Lovewell, call the Tartan gridders together for their first spring workout in three years.

Not only must Harpster and Lovewell construct practically an entire new machine, but must then send it through as rugged a schedule as any Tech eleven ever was called upon to face.

12 STARS LOST

No fewer than 12 members of last year's varsity squad will be missing from the active picture at this afternoon's first workout. Co-Captains Hooks Sample and George Kavel, Red James and Jerry Seigal, Tony Kebe and Jack Croissant, Bill Plumer and Tony Ostrosky and Ray Tesser and Stu Dueger and Harry McCurdy and Coulter are through. All but Plummer and Tesser have completed their varsity careers, the latter pair being A. W. O. L. because of too many lost decisions in the classrooms.

Among other things, Harp must develop a capable center, and it looks like he'll have to fall back on Jerry O'Toole, who has been shifted in and out of that position half a dozen times during the past two years.

One thing, Lib Lewis, the star end, who suffered a broken leg in the Notre Dame game in 1931, is back again. Lib will bid for his old position on the right side of the line. With Lewis and Capt. Red Stewart set to guard the terminals, Coach Harpster will have that much less over which to worry.

O'DELL LOOKS GOOD

Over on the hill at Pitt, young Howdy O'Dell, the Iowa Favorite Son, is out in front in the race for Warren Heller's left halfback position on the Panther varsity. O'Dell isn't very big, but he is fast and smart and works plenty hard. He's developing into a good blocker, and blocking is something the Pitt left halfback is going to have to know how to do next fall, what with Mike Sebastian running at right half.

The Pitt track and tennis teams are hoping for all the best of it as far as the weather is concerned this week, for both squads have opening engagements on for Saturday. The trackers meet Temple in Philadelphia, and the netters put the claw on Grove City here.

Fight Results

Fritz Moeller vs. Roy Wallace, 10 rounds, Indianapolis.

Charley Baxter, local lightweight boxer, has got himself a "break" in the form of a return match with Chino Alvarez in Savannah, Ga., Thursday night of next week, and it may be some time before he shows here again.

Baxter, it will be remembered, took Alvarez like nobody's business when the latter came here recently to box at Motor Square Garden, after having knocked out Battling Gizzy in Savannah. They think a lot of Chino down there, and didn't believe the outcome, so the return bout is a natural. Baxter has accepted a good-sized guarantee and percentage, and, if he repeats the victory, will get other bouts in the South which will keep him there for weeks.

Charley was to box Louie Severo, of Meadville, in one of the 10-round bouts at the Arena, on the North Side, Friday night, but Severo was injured, and, before Matchmaker Lew Raymond could dig up a suitable substitute, the Alvarez offer came along and Manager Charley Jones accepted it. As a result, Raymond will put in Phil Rafferty, of New York, stablemate of Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, and Billy Holt, Homewood Negro welterweight, in the semi-final to his Wolfe-Tiger Joe Randall windup.

Between Rounds

The food show will occupy Motor Square Garden next week, which means there will be no boxing show there on Monday night.

Walter Marm, of the Lyceum, will box Jimmy Campbell, of the Y. M. H. A., in the windup of the monthly amateur show in the Pittsburgh Lyceum gymnasium tonight. In other bouts Ed Nagel meets Young Judas, Mac Verge tangles with Al Gold, Billy Saville meets Steve Kovach, Young Snyder boxes Whitey Schramm, Joe Kladdick encounters Steve Koboda and Steve Levendowski boxes Walt Scislowski.

An amateur boxing show for the members of the Pittsburgh Railways Employes' Association will be held in the Duquesne Building, Thursday night.

Jack Pallat boxes Phil Cohen in an eight-round preliminary to the Ben Jeby-Gorilla Jones and Patsy Perroni-Eddie Simms bouts in Cleveland tomorrow night.

Local amateur boxers will meet a team of New Kensington stars in an amateur boxing show under the auspices of the Burns A. C., of New Kensington, in the New Kensington Moose Hall next Tuesday night.

Joe Marcus, and not Tug Phillips, boxes Paul Oger in the main bout at Fairmont, W. Va., Thursday night. Mickey O'Brien meets Jimmy Reilly in an eight-rounder, and Mike Barto boxes Marty McHale in the four-round opener.

Shore Is Named Most Valuable Hockey Star

MONTREAL, Quebec, April 18.—(AP.)—Eddie Shore, crack defense man of the Boston Bruins, has been chosen as the player most valuable to his team during the 1932-33 National Hockey League season.

The choice, decided on the basis of votes by hockey writers throughout league territory, carries with it the Dr. David A. Hart trophy.

For the fifth time in his career, Frank Boucher, clever center of the New York Rangers, was adjudged the player who exhibited the best type of sportsmanship combined with a high standard of playing ability, and to him was awarded the Lady Bynng trophy.

Tiny Thompson, of the Bruins, won the Georges Vezina memorial trophy for the best goalie record of the season.

WALKER BEATS GALENTO

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—(AP.)—With a barrage of punches that cut his opponent's face on mouth, nose and eyes, Obie Walker, Atlanta heavyweight, last night gained the verdict over Tony Galento, Orange, N. J., battler, in 10 rounds. Both battlers scaled at 214.

OLYMPIC GAMES SITE IN DOUBT

International News Service.

Reports from various world capitals on the move to transfer the 1936 Olympic Games from Berlin because of Adolf Hitler's reputed anti-Jewish campaign, indicate that the events will be held in Germany as scheduled.

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, whose alleged statement that he favored such a move, brought forth world-wide discussion, today denied making such a statement.

Paris foresees changes in the situation before 1936. Rome feels the games are a sporting affair, unaffected by politics. Tokio would like to have the Olympics, and Berlin, denying racial discrimination, says all races are welcome there.

Three courses are open to all nations: To withdraw completely from the games, change the scene of the Olympics or refuse to send athletes to them.

The whole question will be settled by the International Olympic Committee at its meeting in Vienna this summer.

Marino Hurts Arm, Loses to King Tut

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—(AP.)—Climaxing one of the wildest glove-tossing sessions seen here in a long time, King Tut, 148, Minneapolis, won by a technical knockout over Babe Marino, 151, San Francisco, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round match last night as the latter injured his left arm and was unable to continue.

1,818 Walks Given Babe During Career

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—The demon baseball statisticians are in again.

When Babe Ruth was walked three times in the New York Yankee - Philadelphia Athletic game Sunday, alert figure-hounds announced the home-run slugger had been given a total of 1,818 passes in regular season games during his long career.

They went even further and figured that those passes represented almost 31 miles of walking for the Babe.

I. K. S. VICTOR

The I. K. S. volleyball team opened its season by defeating the Catholic Community Center, of Steubenville, by scores of 15-1, 15-1, 15-7. The team is open for matches at home or abroad. Call Ziggy Kahn at Grant 0850.

LOTT, VAN RYN DEVOTE PLAY TO DOUBLES

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 18.—(AP.)—The Seeded list in the annual Mason and Dixon tennis championships was intact today but Sidney Wood, blonde Davis Cup team aspirant, just did manage to make the grade.

Playing the first match outdoors since last September, Wood was given a strenuous tussle by Thomas J. Mangan, of Washington, in a first round match yesterday but finally won, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6. Mangan, much the steadier of the two, led Wood at 5-4 and 6-5 in the last set but the New Yorker pulled up even at 6-5 and then ran off the last two games at love.

Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, winner of the North and South title at Pinehurst last week, was idle. He drew a first round bye and was to face Walter Lipman in the second round today.

Frank Shields, Lester Stoefen, Gregory S. Mangin, J. Gilbert Hall, Berkeley Bell and Marcel Rainville all came through their initial tests in straight sets.

On orders of Bernon S. Prentice, chairman of the Davis Cup selection committee, George Lott and John Van Ryn both withdrew from singles in order to devote their entire attention to doubles. They already have been selected to play the doubles in the forthcoming Davis Cup contests with Mexico.

ZORILLA STOPPED

STOCKS RENEW FORWARD MOVE

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—The stock market quietly resumed its advance toward midday today, after the setback of the previous session.

Metal issues led the rather sluggish upturn, with steels particularly firm. Silver issues were favorably affected by the large vote polled in the Senate yesterday in favor of remonetization, although the measure was defeated.

Inflation was on almost every tongue in the financial community, as a result of the controversy in the Senate, and many quarters were convinced that either currency or credit expansion on a substantial scale was in the making. Speculators, however, were disinclined to jump at conclusions as to how successful such steps would be in stimulating business. More cautious traders pointed out that the stock market rarely discounts the future more than two or three months ahead.

Announcement of moderate gold exports, licensed by the Treasury, were interpreted as indicating that the dollar would be defended in the foreign exchange market, although some inflationists have been strongly urging that the dollar be permitted to decline.

Steel quarters were impressed by further firmness in scrap prices. The railroads are still being watched hopefully for new business for the steel makers. Steel rails produced in 1932 were announced by the American Iron and Steel Institute at 402,566 gross tons, less than half the output of 1931, and the smallest of the current century.

Freight car loadings, as indicated by individual reports thus far at hand, held up fairly well last week. At this season, however, a sag in freight movement into the summer is to be expected. Great Western Sugar's annual report reflected the price improvement in the last half of the year. It earned about 85 cents a share in 1932 compared with a moderate deficit in the previous year.

DUQUESNE NET SHOWS DROP

The annual report of Duquesne Light Company for the year ended December 31, 1932, shows gross earnings totaling $25,223,690, a decrease of $2,581,844, or 9.28 per cent, compared with 1931. Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes amounted to $8,942,876, a reduction of $282,244, or 3.05 per cent, despite the fact that taxes increased from $1,095,100 to $1,224,679, a difference of $129,579, or 11.83 per cent. Net earnings before appropriation for retirement reserve, amounted to $16,280,814, a decrease of $2,299,600, or 12.37 per cent.

At the end of the year the company served a total of 298,433 electric customers, a loss of 11,265, or 3.63 per cent, compared with 1931. Electric energy output amounted to 1,176,868,998 kilowatt-hours, a decrease of 13.73 per cent. Connected load, or business served, amounted to 892,562 kilowatts at the end of the year, a decrease of only 0.56 per cent.

This almost negligible loss is of interest because it shows that service contracts lost were practically offset by new contracts, and the decrease in earnings resulted from reduced use by individual customers rather than loss in customers and connected load, Frank R. Phillips president of the company, stated in the report.

WHEAT VALUES TURN DOWN

CHICAGO, April 18.—Grain values went downward early today, influenced by the fact that the Liverpool wheat market had totally disregarded Easter holiday price upturns here. Indications of possible moisture in drought areas of domestic winter wheat territory southwest tended also to pull prices down. Opening ¼-⅞ off, wheat afterward declined further. Corn also started at ¼-⅞ setback, and later held near the initial range.

Rallies in the wheat market carried prices later to well above yesterday's finish. Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Provisions reflected weakness of hog values.

Stabilized Pound May Follow Washington Conferences

Wall street is inclined to anticipate some real and far-reaching developments once the informal international conferences get under way in Washington. As might be expected no little thought is being given the possibility of a move by Great Britain looking toward the return of its currency to a gold basis. The bank of England's gold holdings are now well above the £180,000,000 mark as contrasted with approximately £135,000,000 when the country went off gold in September 1931. Stabilization o sterling would of course have tremendous effect on some fifty odd world currencies which are more or less bound to the British pound.

A large part of the financial community is disposed to look for the flotation of a big bond issue by the government to finance a public works program and the projected mortgage refinancing. This expectation has grown since the end of last week when the administration decided to forego its right to call the $6,000,000,000 Liberty fourth 4¼s for payment on October 15 next. Current reasoning may be well based but at the same time the fact should be kept in mind that the Treasury has a huge floating debt outstanding and that it may contemplate the funding of a substantial portion of such short-term debt in advance of the marketing of a public works issue.

Operating results of General Railway Signal are expected to be made available early next week. Preliminary forecasts, unofficial, but nevertheless reliable, indicate that the company succeeded in covering its dividend requirements for the March quarter by a satisfactory margin, if current estimates are well based, it is indicated the report will show about 35 cents a share earned for the common stock. This would compare with an indicated balance of 44 cents a share reported for the preceding quarter and with a deficit of $16,808, reported for the first quarter of 1932.

With demand from automobile makers leading the way, midwest steel makers last week recorded the third consecutive weekly increase in sales and specifications, and have stepped their operations to the peak for this year and in most cases the best levels since last summer. Ingot production for the current week on the basis of present schedules will run in the neighborhood of 22 per cent of theoretical capacity. Inland Steel's operations averaged around 25 per cent at the beginning of the week. Illinois Steel's average operating rate is about 22 per cent. Republic averages about 33 per cent.

Plans for the extension of the refinery capacity of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company are expected to be made known in a few days, it was reported in official quarters today. The company has taken options on a large tract of land adjoining the Houston ship canal, but has made no definite decision as yet, it is said authoritatively, for locating the proposed refiner of Pan American Refining Company, a subsidiary, upon this site. Land at Texas City, near Galveston, which the company already owns, is said still to be under consideration as a refinery site.

Speaker Rainey in Washington today said that President Roosevelt is studying plans for currency inflation. "The administration is studying inflation," the Speaker said. "That's all I know about it." Mr. Rainey declared that this session of the Congress would pass some type of expansion legislation, but he did not specify whether it would be currency expansion or credit inflation. In spite of the Speaker's statement, the avowed purpose of changing the House rules so that a majority of the House instead of a mere 145 can force a vote on a question is to prevent inflat'on ef the currency advocates from bringing such a bill out on the floor of the House.

ENGLERT JOINS RENNER

Milton S. Englert, one of the best-known brewery executives in Western Pennsylvania, and for the past four years a director as well as secretary and sales manager of the Fort Pitt Brewing Company, Sharpsburg, has resigned to become affiliated with the Renner Brewing Company, of Youngstown, O. Englert has been elected a director and vice president and treasurer of the Renner company, effective immediately. This concern will operate the only brewery in Youngstown.

The management of the Renner company includes George J. Renner, chairman of the board, and Emil A. Renner, president, who have always been connected with the brewing industry.

Englert has been associated with the brewing business for more than 20 years. From 1909 to 1914 he was president and general manager of the Kanawha Brewing Company, of Charleston, W. Va., and from 1914 to 1919 was general manager of the Warren Brewing Company, Warren, Pa.

Price Rise Follows Silver Bill Defeat

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Silver quotations advanced in the New York market today following the 44 to 33 defeat given to the remonetization proposal in the Senate yesterday.

Chicago Suspends Deep Rock Shares

CHICAGO, April 18.—Trading in Deep Rock Oil Corporation convertible preferred stock has been suspended by the Chicago Stock Exchange.

News and Views

STANDARD LINE DELIVERIES

Crude oil deliveries by nine pipe line companies representing the old Standard group totaled 20,955,350 barrels in the first quarter. This compares with 23,170,985 barrels during the same period of 1932. March deliveries totaled 7,011,083, against 6,153,979 in February and 8,019,935 in March, 1932.

SWEDISH LIFE WRITINGS

Swedish life insurance companies in 1932 wrote almost $100,000,000 in new policies, a decrease of only 4 per cent from 1931.

LOCAL MARKET CONTINUES QUIET

Trading continued quiet and prices remained in a narrow range on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Scattered dealings, mostly of a professional nature, provided most of the day's business. The so-called "public," or outide interest, was entirely absent.

Small fractional movements were noted in the usually active stocks, but the turnover in the individual issues was too small to give any idea of a definite market trend. The irregularity and uncertainty reflected by the trading on the New York exchange accentuated the dullness here.

Lone Star Gas, leader of the fuel division, was handled in small volume at prices varying only slightly from the level prevailing on the close last night. Brewings were dull. The heavy industrial group showed no changes of importance.

OIL PRODUCTION TAKES DROP

TULSA, Okla., April 18.—(AP.)—The unusual drop of 708,308 barrels in the daily average crude oil production of the United States over a two-week period was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal and attributed to the partial closing of the Oklahoma City and East Texas flush fields.

Production dropped last week from 2,230,902 to 1,891,348 barrels daily, a decrease of 339,554 barrels in the daily average. The preceding week's drop was 368,764 barrels.

Texas production declined from 975,667 to 682,833 barrels a day, due chiefly to a decrease in East Texas from 434,410 to 139,750 barrels a day reported fom Journal private sources.

Production in California climbed from 463,000 to 468,500 barrels.

KILGORE, Tex., April 18.—(AP.)—Potential production of the vast East Texas petroleum field was estimated by oil men at 123,750,000 barrels daily with completion of key well tests by the Texas Railroad Commission today.

Kansas Commission Bans Rate Extension

TOPEKA, Kan., April 18.—(AP.)—The State Corporation Commission announced today it had denied the application of the railroads to continue beyond May 1 the so-called emergency increases on intrastate freight rates in Kansas.

The increases, granted originally by the Interstate Commerce Commission on interstate rates, became effective on January 4, 1932, and have been extended by the federal regulatory body on interstate shipments until next September 20.

Floating Supply Of 'Steel' Larger

NEW YORK, April 18.—The floating supply of United States Steel Corporation common stock on March 31 was 1,398,856 shares or 16.07 per cent of the total issue, and an increase of 74,878 shares since last December 31. A year ago the floating supply was 1,041,810 shares or 11.97 per cent of the total. Floating supply is stock held in brokers names as distinguished from that held by investors in their own names.

RELIEF, TRADE STIMULATION CONTRASTED

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The great need of the hour is clear thinking, and especially as to purposes and means of attaining the ends in view. We are getting all mixed up in our objects, and proposing methods which are inconsistent because they aim at different goals.

For example, there are the two ideas of "relief" and "stimulation." It is one thing to give relief, and another thing to stimulate" business, but we are all mixing the two things badly.

To relieve the needy it is often necessary to take wealth away from those who have it. We give relief specifically to those who need relief. We get the means specifically from those who have it to give. The amount of the relief is limited to what is needed for the specific purpose.

DISTINCTION CITED

But stimulation is different. You can't stimulate general business merely by taking things away from some and giving them to others. You can't stimulate the whole by helping one-half and hurting the other.

And if you want to "stimulate" some specific business or section of the country, there is a question of the special benefit to be given, which should be paid for by the special interests to be benefitted.

When it comes to "stimulating," the big questions are: Who? How?

We are too prone to talk about stimulating "business" in a vague general way. Business is based on individual initiative, and exists for profits. You can't stimulate business by substituting the government for business. To the extent that the government goes into business, there is no business.

Government projects may give work to the needy, but if they drive business men out, raise taxes, increase debt and disturb money and credit, they cannot stimulate general business.

HARM TO TRADE SEEN

Take the matter of debtors, for example. We can "relieve" debtors by moratoriums, reduce interest charges, etc. But to the extent that we hurt creditors, we are not stimulating business.

It is even conceivable, though not certain, that we could "relieve" some debtors by debasing the currency. But what about the effects on those who are not debtors? We are not all debtors. Not all dollars are debtors' dollars.

If we could merely cut the debtor's dollar in two, it might be considered as a relief to debtors. But unfortunately all of us use dollars. Business is run for and by the aid of dollars. So if we debase our money and make it an uncertain and unsafe thing, we hurt all business.

MIGHT RAISE ALL PRICES

In the same way, we talk about raising prices. Now if we want to help the farmer, what we really want is to raise farm prices—not all prices. But if inflation could work at all, it would tend to raise all prices. It could easily raise the prices of things the farmer has to buy (feed, fertilizer, machinery and living necessities) more than his grain or cotton.

In the whole discussion of inflation we get "relief" for farmers mixed up with "stimulation" for business, and by juggling the two ideas, we fail to see the thing clearly.

Back of all this, lies the pernicious notion that we must "do something." The trouble is that this has come to mean "do anything"—regardless of reason and economic law.

TRADE BUYING AIDS COTTON

NEW YORK, April 18.—Cotton futures opened steady, 6 to 9 cents higher on renewed commission house and trade buying. May, 6.64c; July, 6.82c; October, 7.02c; December, 7.20c; January, 7.26c; March, 7.40c.

There was considerable May liquidation but it was largely switching into later months with trade interests taking the near position. The advance extended to 6.75 for May and 7.12 for October, or about 15 to 18 points net higher later in the morning. Prices at midday were steady and within a point or two of the best, although trading was slightly less active than earlier in the morning.

LIVERPOOL, April 18.—Cotton, 5,000 bales including 4,900 American. Spot quiet; prices 1 point lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.11; good middling, 5.81; strict middling, 5.51; biddling, 5.36; strict low middling, 5.16; low middling, 5.01; strict good ordinary, 4.81; good ordinary, 4.51. Futures closed barely steady. May, 5.05; July, 5.06; October, 5.08; December, 5.11; January, 5.12; March, 5.16.

Youngstown Sheet Operations Expand

YOUNGSTOWN, April 18.—Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company said today steel buying in the first half of April was considerably heavier than in same period in March. Specifications are coming in at a greater rate he said. The company's Chicago plants are operating above 20 per cent while its tin plate mills in that district are above 50 per cent of capacity.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Raw sugar held steady at 3.10 cents for spots today. Futures opened 1 to 3 points lower under profit taking following Monday's sharp advance. At midday prices were about 1 to 2 points net lower.

Refined remained at 4.20c for fine granulated with moderate resale offerings at 4.15c.

New Brewery to Appear On List of Local Stock Market

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

PLANS FOR THE listing of an additional brewery stock on the Pittsburgh Exchange were made known today with the announcement of the public offering of 150,000 shares of the common stock of the Union Brewing Company, of New Castle, Pa., at $1.50 a share by Norman Ward & Co.

After the completion of the present financing the organization will have a total authorized and outstanding capitalization of 250,000 shares. The company has no bonds or preferred stock outstanding. Application will be made to list the stock on the Pittsburgh Exchange.

The Union Brewing Company was organized in November, 1932, and has acquired the land and buildings of the former Standard Brewing Company which was operated profitably from 1899 until the advent of prohibition in 1919.

The company has been granted a cereal beverage permit by the United States Government and an alcohol permit by the Alcohol Permit Board of Pennsylvania.

Former Brewmaster Will Be Retained

EXPERIENCE IS a major factor in the brewing industry. Albert Grotefund, a graduate brewmaster in 1911 of the Siebel Institute, Chicago, with 14 years experience in this plant, will have personal supervision of the operations.

Louis Genkinger, president of the Union Brewing Company and also president of the Chamber of Commerce of New Castle, and a member of the City Council, has declared in a letter to the bankers that the plant is being thoroughly reconditioned. This has necessitated the installation of a large amount of entirely new equipment.

The use of modern equipment is expected to make exceptionally low production costs possible.

Competitive Status Greatly Improved

PRIOR TO PROHIBITION the predecessor company at New Castle sold about 40,000 barrels of beer a year. This was in competition with five other breweries in the territory comprising Beaver, Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties in addition to the competition of nationally advertising brands. Since the advent of prohibition the competing breweries in the district have been dismantled so that the Union Brewing Company has the only brewery in this trade area with a population of 500,000. On an output of 60,000 barrels of beer a year, an estimated profit of $3 a barrel is conservative.

The plant is advantageously located from the standpoints of low taxes, good water supply and proximity to markets. New Castle is on four trunk line railroads and three through state highways. Its proximity to Beaver Valley and the Sharon, Farrell and Youngstown industrial districts assure active markets.

The land, buildings and proposed equipment of the Union Brewing Company as an operating property have been appraised by the Fidelity Appraisal Company, of Milwaukee, as of April 15, 1933, at a sound replacement value, less depreciation, of $371,687. This is approximately $93,000 in excess of the balance sheet figures.

Of the proceeds of the present offering of 150,000 shares, the company will receive in cash $183,000, or $1.22 per share. The balance sheet of March 17, 1933, after giving effect to the proposed financing, as certified by Francis E. Sowersby, S. P. A., shows current assets, consisting of cash of $97,500, with no current liabilities. The book value is equivalent to $1.50 a share presently to be outstanding.

WOMEN WOULD AID BUSINESS AS DIRECTORS

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Big business would be improved if women were added to boards of directors and to key executive posts.

If the proposal that directors should be made more directly representative of stock ownership is carried out, women, who are among the principal stockholders of leading American corporations, will inevitably be added to the board.

Mr. Rukeyser

This issue was precipitated recently when it was suggested that a woman be added to the board of directors of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. It is to be hoped that Walter S. Gifford, the president, who has pioneered in many directions, will recognize the wisdom of the proposal.

President Roosevelt has paved the way by appointing a woman—Miss Frances Perkins—to his cabinet as secretary of labor and another, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen as minister to Denmark.

BIG STOCK OWNERS

A survey just completed indicates that about 41 per cent of the stockholders of America's most representative corporations are women. One of the leading railroads reveals that 57 per cent of its shareholders are women. The Wm. Wrigley Jr. Company and the Parke, Davis Company records show that 55 per cent of those on the stockholders' lists are women. Feminine investment taste appears to favor public utility and food stocks.

As an industry, the utilities find that 43.7 per cent of their owners are females. As the leader, American Telephone has more women than men stockholders — slightly more than 50 per cent. North American and United Gas Improvement each had more than 46 per cent. Another large utility reported 42 per cent and Associated Gas and Electric, 40 per cent.

Among the food and associated companies, Wrigley was in the lead with 55 per cent, followed by National Biscuit with 49 per cent and General Foods, under whose auspices the survey was made, with 47 per cent. Procter & Gamble reported 45 per cent, Swift, 42 per cent, and Corn Products, 40 per cent.

Forty per cent of the stockholders of General Motors are women, and 50 per cent of the stockholders in the National Lead Company.

Numerous companies reported that the ratio of women stockholders has been persistently increasing in recent years. In November, 1928, the percentage of women stockholders of the General Foods Corporation was 33 per cent; in 1929, 35.4 per cent; in 1930, 42.3 per cent; in 1933, 47 per cent.

DEMAND UPHELD

Women appear to like preferred shares as well as common. Fifty-five per cent of the preferred stockholders and 45 per cent of the common stockholders of North American Company are women. Women stockholders of General Motors constitute 43.7 per cent of the preferred, and 39.8 per cent of the common.

In the Reading Company, 49 per cent of the first preferred, 42 per cent of the holders of the second preferred, and 41.5 per cent of the common stockholders are women. Women own about 41 per cent of both classes of stock in the New Haven, and about 38 per cent of both in the Chicago & Northwestern.

As dominant stockholders in the representative industries of the country, women have absorbed a correspondingly large share of the shrinkage in values since October, 1929. In the circumstances, the demand that they have something to say in the direction of the companies which they own does not seen unreasonable.

TRADE BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(INS.)—Both exports and imports of the United States showed increases in March as compared to February, but were well below levels a year ago, the Commerce Department announced today.

March exports were valued at $108,000,000, as compared with $101,530,000 in February and $154,876,000 in March, 1932.

Imports in March were valued at $95,000,000 compared with $83,750,000 in February and $131,189,000 in March a year ago.

During the first three months of 1933 exports were valued at $330,123,000, a decrease of $128,747,00 from the same period last year, while imports were valued at $397,703,000, a drop of $122,952,000.

The net export of gold in March was $13,181,000, while for the first three months of the year there was a net import of $124,161,000.

Silver imports exceeded exports by $1,430,000 in March, and $2,287,000 in the first three months.

The department also announced cotton exports during March were $17,957,000, against $20,415,000 in February.

Forbes

Public Rebels Against Big Speculators

—By B. C. FORBES—

EUROPEAN countries led. Drastic rules and legislation have been directed against, not merely sepculators in securities, but speculators in necessaries of life, speculators in gold, speculators in foreign exchange.

Mr. Forbes

WHAT IS happening here?

Public and politicians alike have manifested unmistakable hostility to unbridled speculation, to professional speculators.

Ways and means have been sought to curb speculation in wheat and other cereals; also cotton. A little has been placed upon the extent to which these commodities may rise or fall in any one way.

Not only so, but there has been exhibited eagerness to prohibit dealings in future deliveries; only the most emphatic warnings as to the consequences have caused lawmakers to refrain from issuing a complete ban.

EVEN BEFORE the 1929 collapse, there was growing agitation against allowing the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges freedom to govern themselves.

Has it not been brought out most vividly at Washington that law-makers, sensing public sentiment, are bent upon bringing all stock exchanges under federal regulation?

Incidentally, the governors of the New York Stock Exchange have bee striving for some time to ward off federal regulatory action. They have taken step after step toward mollifying public dissatisfaction with the conduct of the institution, its rules, its practices, its publicity requirements, its stipulations regarding independent certification of the financial statements issued by corporations whose shares are dealt in.

IT IS this same spreading antipathy to allowing speculators unfettered license which has prompted the bill now before Congress to reform the heretofore haphazard, lax, go-as-you-please issuance of new securities.

The feeling is that underwriters, promoters, brokers, etc., have been in a position to play against the public, against investors, with loaded dice. The insiders have had information which they did not always reveal in full to others. This, of course, gave them an enormous advantage, an advantage which too often was used unfairly.

The new securities bill is a natural outcome of the public's determination to restrict opportunity for hoodwinking the public. Admittedly, the bill, as drawn, needs amendment to make it workable, to make necessary new financing feasible.

UNDERLYING the much-discussed new banking legislation is a similar sentiment, a desire to check wholesale speculation by bankers, a desire to restrict banks to a strictly banking business.

No matter what explanations were proffered, the motive underlying the creation of security affiliates of commercial banks was license to conduct operations not permissible under the statutes governing banks. Bluntly, many bankers became infected by the speculative germ, and set up machinery to enable them to get over or under or around the bank law.

IF ONE could plumb the genesis of the current overwhelming insistence that private bankers be subjected to official supervision, it doubtless would be found that it is directly connected with the public's aversion to permitting any firm or institution sponsoring securities to operate in the dark, to hide anything from those who yield them their living, the public.

PROVIDED WISDOM be exercised, the whole nation will be benefited by this universal urge to keep speculation within bounds and to abolish (or penalize) playing with loaded dice by insiders.

March Plate Glass Output Tops 1932

Total production of polished plate glass for the month of March was 4,881,322 square feet, as compared to 4,955,293 square feet in February and 4,414,464 square feet produced in March, 1932, the plate glass manufacturers of America reports.

Total production for the first quarter of 1933 was 16,024,878 square feet against 12,714,185 square feet in the last quarter of 1932, and 16,340,980 square feet produced in the first quarter of 1932.

RAPS RESERVE GOLD EXPORT POLICIES

Universal Service.

WASINGTON, April 18.—Business recovery in the United States has been dealt a heavy blow by the action of the Federal Reserve Board in licensing gold exports, in the opinion of Representative Somers (Dem.), of New York.

Somers, who is chairman of the House Coinage Committee, announced he would lodge a protest with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin against the recent release of gold for export to bolster the dollar in foreign exchange.

He added:

"The action of the Treasury Department in permitting gold shipments over the weekend, in view of its effect, is the most amazing development in the war on the depression.

"Depression means low values in terms of the American dollar. As the dollar falls in value, commodities necessarily must rise. It is quite apparent that any time we show any hope of struggling out of the depression by again bringing the dollar within reach of American labor, some mysterious force intervenes to send it back up.

"The Federal Reserve Board did this twice with gold shipments on foreign exchange transactions. If these exchange transactions had not been satisfied in gold, the dollar would drop and commodities would rise.

"With higher commodity prices the need for farm relief and appropriations for unemployment relief would vanish.

"When the dollar weakened in foreign markets the Federal Reserve Board permitted shipments of gold to individuals in foreign countries, who had sold their currencies to purchase ours.

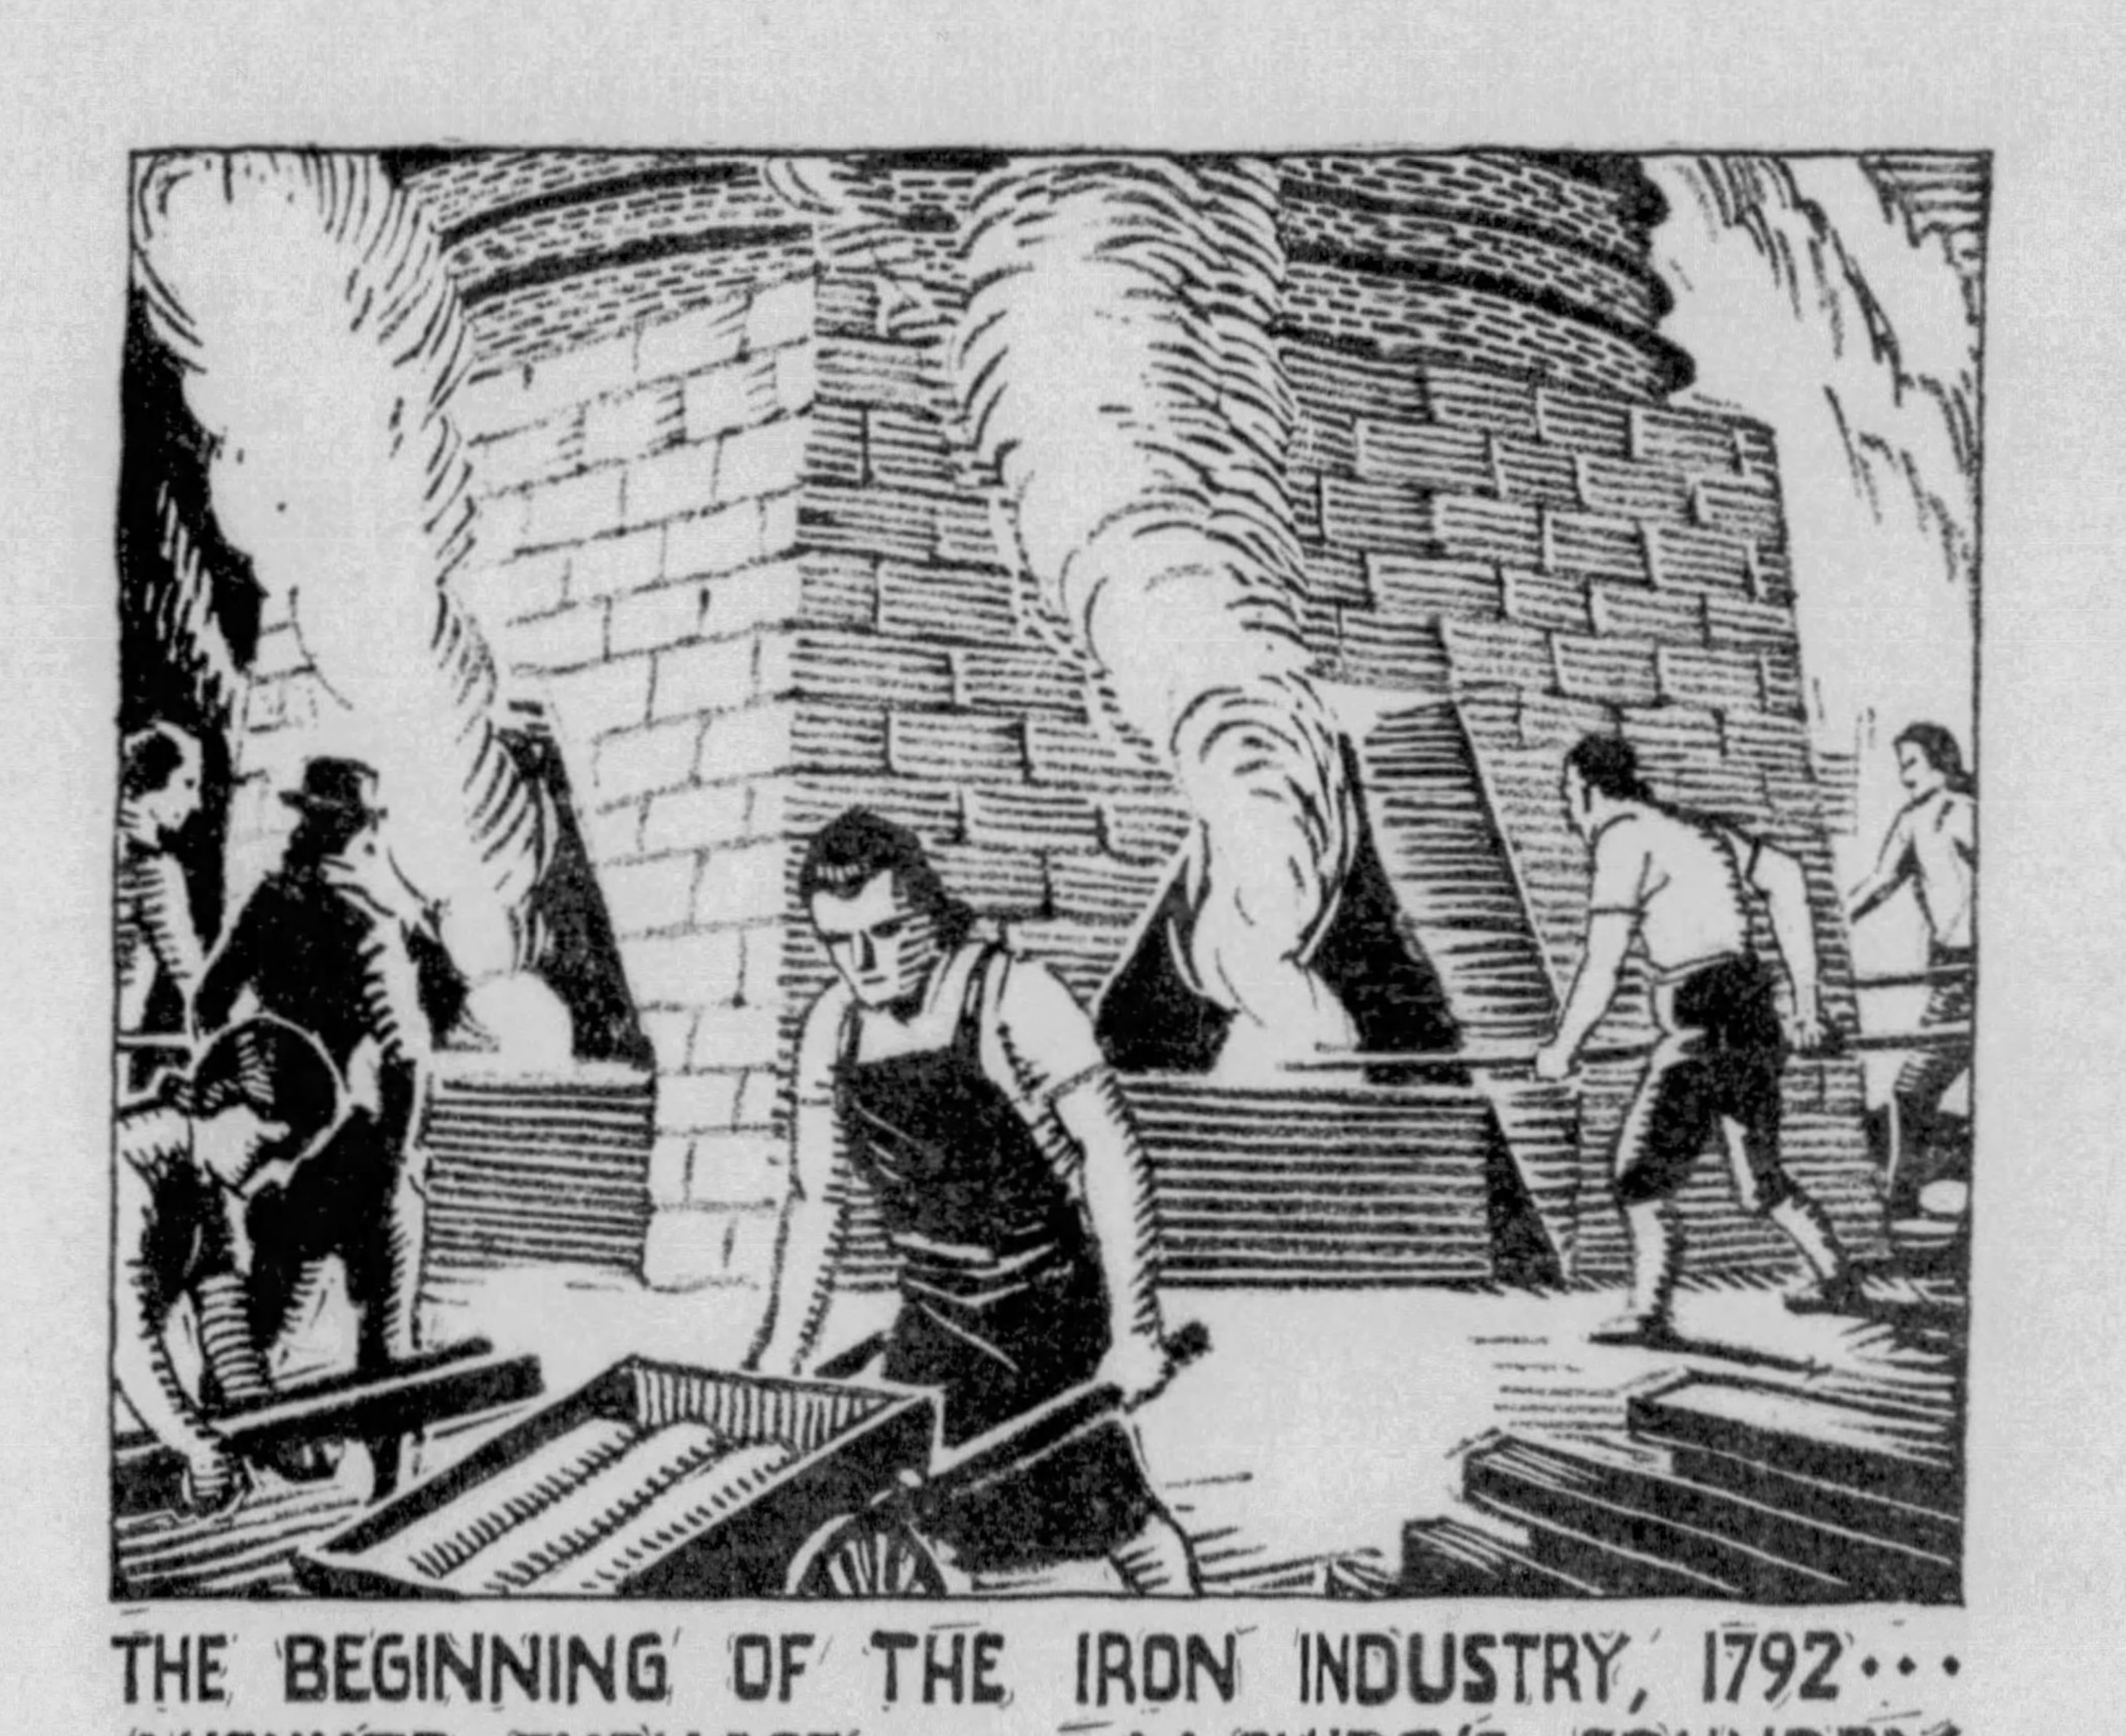
"This is in violation of the spirit of the President's embargo proclamation."

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Guaranty Trust Company, today announced the shipment of $3,000,000 in gold to France.

The bank announced on saturday that the U. S. Treasury has licensed it to make an export of gold.

The Chase National Bank is shipping $3,000,000 gold to France friday.

LONDON, April 18.—(AP.)—The Bank of England announced today the purchase of bar gold amounting to £4,468,121 (about $21,670,000). The source of the gold was not revealed.



THE BEGINNING OF THE IRON INDUSTRY, 1792··· ANSHUTZ FURNACE ···· McCLURG'S FOUNDRY

Early in the year 1792, a group of settlers from Pittsburgh, hunting game a few miles from the town, discovered a deposit of reddish earth which they took to be iron ore. With the expectation of a convenient supply of ore, George Anshutz, a short time later, built a small furnace in the vicinity, near the present site of Shadyside station. But the "deposit of iron ore" turned out to be only a vein of red shale, and after a brief effort to operate with ores transported from a distance, the furnace was abandoned.

Short as was its existence, the Anshutz furnace, the first to be built in the immediate vicinity of Pittsburgh, is considered the beginning of the iron industry in this city.

About 1805, Joseph McClurg established an iron foundry on a piece of land across Smithfield Street from the ground now occupied by the Mellon National Bank. The McClurg enterprise, blessed with good fortune, flourished and grew with the city. It exists today, after one hundred and thirty years and many changes of name and location, as the Mackintosh-Hemphill Company, of Pittsburgh.

RED SOX STRONG

TOUGH BREAKS COST BOSTON FOUR GAMES

Associated Press.

Nothing so far this major league season has been quite so startling as the magnificent showing of the Boston Red Sox, for years the doormat of the American League.

The standings, coldly mathematical, show the Sox have won only one game in four but with a little luck it might just as well have been four victories and no defeats.

Maybe it won't last but Manager Marty McManus has been getting just about the best pitching in either league. His moundsmen, called upon to face the clubs picked to finish one-two, the New York Yankees and Washington Senators, have allowed precisely 23 hits in four games, less than six a game.

BREAKS COSTLY

The "breaks" cost the Sox their first two games with the Yankees. Paul Andrews, Bob Kline and John Welch held the champions to nine hits while Boston was clouting Vernon Gomez for 12 in the opener, but Lou Gehrig's homer with two on enabled the Yankees to win, 4-3. Bob Weiland granted only five safeties in the second battle, but Charley Ruffing clouted a homer with the bases filled in the ninth and the champions won again, 6-2. Dusty Rhodes and Kline collaborated on another five-hit masterpiece against Washington Saturday, but once more the Sox found Lady Luck frowning on them and they went down, 2-1.

Such ill fortune couldn't continue indefinitely, and Tom Yawkey's club finally broke into the winning column yesterday, spilling the Senators, 4-2, as Henry Johnson, aided and abetted by Kline and Welch, held Washington to four hits. And in the process, the Red Sox cracked Alvin Crowder's two-year winning streak of 16 games in succession.

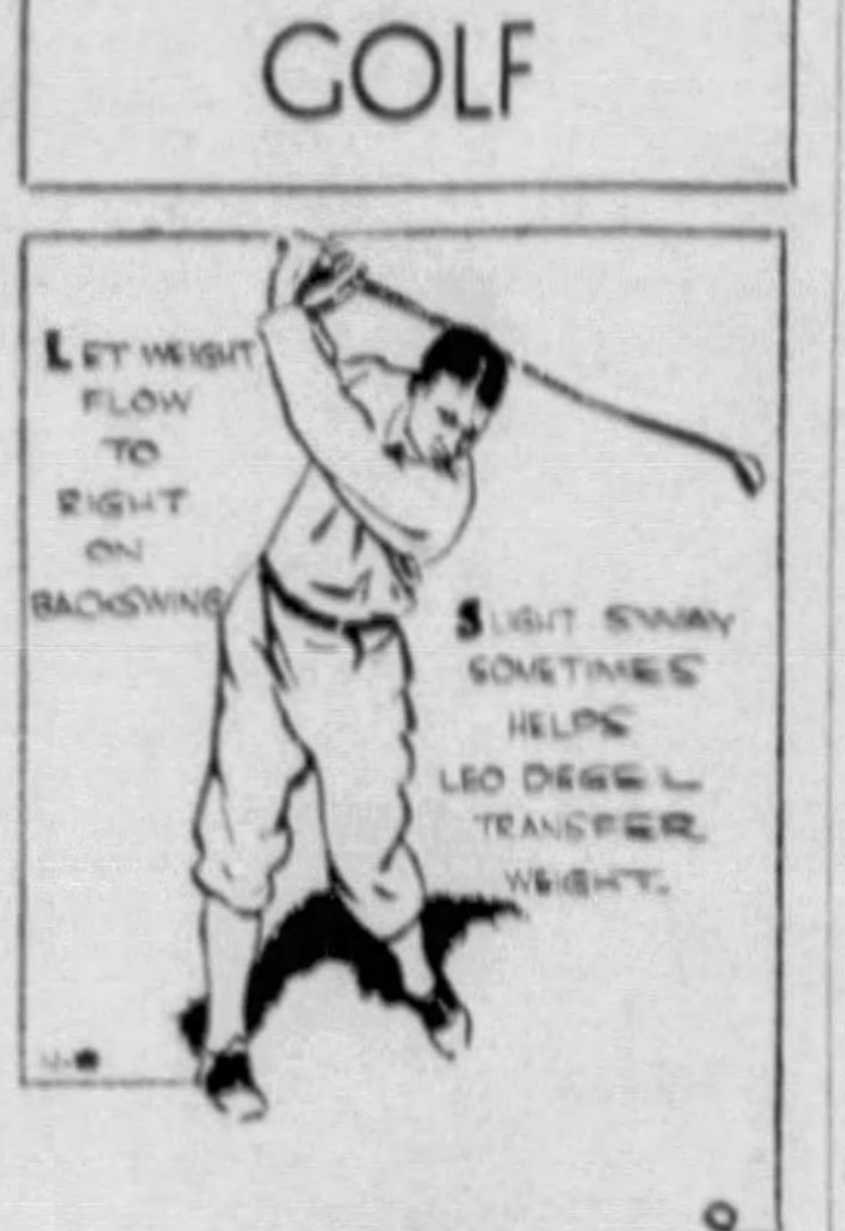
Johnson blanked the Senators with two hits in the first seven innings, but weakened in the eighth and was relieved by Kline after one run had scored.

WHITE SOX LOSE

The weather man permitted playing of only two other games, both in the American League. The Chicago White Sox assaulted Vic Sorrell and Art Herring for five runs in the first inning, but Detroit's Tigers came back to tie the count in the eighth and win in the tenth, 8-5, when the young rookie outfielder, Ervin Fox, cracked a home run with two on.

The St. Louis Browns won their first victory of the season, bunching five hits off Willis Hudlin and Oral Hildebrand for four runs in the sixth and a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. It was Cleveland's first defeat. Irvine Hadley went the route for the Browns and gave up only six hits.

GRAPHIC GOLF



Let weight flow to right on backswing

WEIGHT TRANSFERENCE ON THE BACKSWING

Instead of letting the weight move to the right in the backswing, as it should in the natural course of events, many golfers visibly given to stiffness in their play let the left bear an equal portion of the burden. This may not be due entirely to the player's lack of knowledge concerning the fundamentals of the swing, but may be caused by too much tension.

In the latter case, there seems to be a desire for allowing the weight to be evenly distributed on both feet, and, as a consequence, the lower part of the body is fairly still. Of course, this gives one balance, but it is not the balance of motion so necessary in swinging properly at a golf ball. There is nothing to indicate that the downswing is to be started with any degree of rhythm or that the swing will be anything but an arm and shoulder motion.

This tendency is not only found among the duffers, but occasionally among the good players. When tired there is a tendency to neglect this fundamental of letting the weight flow with the swing. In such cases, a shift of the hips around, which in many cases may be interpreted as slightly on the swaying side, will help. This transfers the weight to the right side in the upswing nevertheless.

The difficulty is in restraining the sway to a minimum. It easily can be too much.

JACK AND MAX STAGE HIT

in the first round and had more than a little trouble keeping his too-large headgear from slipping down over his eyes. In the second round, he fell down twice and took nine and had his nose bloodied. He did his best to make the knockdowns look realistic, but, then, this was an exhibition, and Gus wouldn't win any prizes as an Annette Kellerman.

With Maxie panting from his three rounds of maneuvering, Manager Jacobs called him to the microphone to say a few words, which he did in the most elegant English at his command, to-wit:

"I want to thank you very much for the wonderful reception you have given this exhibition. I would like to box a real bout for you. My English is not so good, so please excuse me. Auf wiedersehn."

JACK MAKES SPEECH

Dempsey followed in this manner:

"Thank you. I no speak so good English, too. I'd like to box for you, but I'm afraid the old man is getting along too far, so we'll have to let these young champions fight it out for us. I hope some day to be able to come back here and promote a real fight for you."

The fans went for both Jack and Maxie in a big way, and both won many new well-wishers. Jack climbed out of the ring after Schmeling, but came back to referee the main bout, and it was then that he put on his act with One-Eye Connelly, who got in on a pass.

ALABAMA REPEATS KAYO

The technical knockout victory for the Alabama Kid over Montebano was his second within a few weeks at the Garden. The first resulted with five seconds to go in the seventh round. Last night, Dempsey mercifully called a halt and raised the Negro's hand aloft in token of victory after only two minutes five seconds of the fourth round.

Montebano was down for four and got up groggy in the first round, but came back to stab and cross and keep the Kid off balance and win both the second and third rounds. Then, in the fourth, he ran into trouble on the ropes, being dazed. The Alabama pressed in for the kill and leveled off a series of blows before Monty went down for no count. The operation was repeated and he went down for nine. When he got up this time he was in a bad way and pitched forward and almost fell. Dempsey wanted to give him every chance to pull through, but, when he saw him helpless against his opponent's continued bid for a knockout, he stepped in, and that was that.

Jack proved a good referee mechanically and in his judgment. If he ever needs a job, he won't have any trouble catching on here as a third man in the ring.

BARTH BEATS RISKE

Carmen Barth, Olympic Games middleweight, of Cleveland, a clever, but unspectacular boxer, was too good for Johnny Riske, of the South Hills, and handily outscored him in a tame bout, Riske winning only the first round and holding his own in the fifth.

Red Bruce, Hill district Negro middleweight, conceded Tony Di-Piero nine and one-half pounds and outpunched him in every round but the fourth of the second six-rounder, and Referee Joe Zivic stopped the opener, between Curley Klaas, North Side lightheavyweight, and Walter Ketchel, of the East End, in the second round after a right to the jaw had spilled Ketchel for a count of nine and ripped open his left eye.

Ray Eberle, in his usual soup and fish, lent a splash of color to the unusual evening as the announcer. Red Robinson was the other referee, Frank Brown and Jock Simco were the judges, and Tommy Grant and Norman Borland acted as timers.

PIRATES HOME TOMORROW

Brother, Paul, who reached his thirtieth milestone Sunday, is heavier than he has been and the extra poundage on the little fellow is an asset, as he gets more power in his punches. If he could hold his present weight he would stand to lead the league in batting again.

Lindstrom has an ambition to be among the first five hitters of the league when the curtain drops next October.

The new Pirate center fielder attributes his good start partly to the fact that he is using an "Al Simmons" bat. The Simmons model is two inches longer than the conventional stick, but it is very light and very thin. Lindy swishes it like a broom stick.

Manager Gibson has not decided on his pitcher for the home opener, but Bill Swift seems to have the inside track. Bill's four-hit performance in the Cincy inaugural has made him the favorite.

Legal Notices 107

No. 40606, Superior Court, State of Connecticut, County of New Haven, the seventh day of April, 1933. Anna C. Kinsella vs. Edward Joseph Kinsella.

Second order of notice.

Upon complaint in said cause brought to said Court, at New Haven, in said County, on the first Tuesday of March, 1933, and now pending, claiming a divorce, and custody of minor children, and it not appearing to this Court that the defendant has received notice of said complaint and it appearing to this Court that the whereabouts of the defendant, Edward Joseph Kinsella, is unknown to the plaintiff.

Ordered, that notice of the institution and pendency of said complaint shall be given the defendant by publishing this order in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, a newspaper published in Pittsburgh, Pa., once a week, for two successive weeks, commencing on or before April 18, 1933.

By the Court,
HENRY W. STOWELL,
Assistant Clerk of said Court.

BENJAMIN E. FRIEDMAN, Attorney, 801 Law & Finance Bldg. Notice that letters testamentary on the estate of Amelia Schneider, deceased, late of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, having been granted, all persons indebted to said estate will make payment and those having claims will present them to Emma Christopher, 214 Sunnyland ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Matilda Schneider, 151 Wynoka st., Pittsburgh, Pa., Executrices.

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

He shoved her back in to the chair beside the telephone, and he did it roughly.

Sharlie sprang to her feet instantly. "What's the matter with you, Jim Barnum?" Her voice was shrill with amazement. "Who do you think you are—shoving people around? You let me out of this flat this minute!"

Synopsis

Sharlie Dunn marries Eddie Wallis. The same day, Eddie is killed. Sharlie's mother, Dodie, has Sharlie do the housework, while she and her friend, Maud Hanaberry, have a gay time. Discovering that his wife entertained another man during his absence, Mr. Dunn leaves home. Dodie revels in her freedom and continues her flirtation with "Norman," whom she hopes to marry. Sharlie visits the apartment of Marjorie Milliken with Caddy Dean, whom she met at a dance. Dodie's friend, Norman, calls. Sharlie drives home with Norman. She reveals her identity as Dodie's daughter.

Now Go On

"How can you pick up people like this fellow you were just talking to?" he was asking her, and as he spoke, he shook her by her shoulders. "You know they're the wrong kind of people—if you didn't you wouldn't try to keep your name from them—"

"What I do is none of your business!" Sharlie answered him between her teeth.

"You take your hands off me this minute," she said. "What right have you to touch me? . . . You let me go, Jim Barnum! Don't you try to tell me what to do and what not to do!"

"I'm sorry, Sharlie," he said, "I guess it isn't any of my affair what you do—but I'm in love with you."

He spoke rapidly in a dry matter-of-fact voice as if the very word "love" made him shy. But, spoken even in that matter-of-fact way, the little word frightened Sharlie and chilled her. It made her think of Eddie and all the things about him that she was trying to forget. For Eddie and she had been in love with each other after a fashion. A very light-hearted and youthful fashion, bringing with it no shadow of the ill fortune that was to follow it.

EXPLAINS ABOUT FRIENDS

Jim was speaking again. "A man doesn't like to think that the girl he wants to marry is the kind of girl who goes alone to dance halls," he was saying, "and picks her friends from the people she meets there—"

"But even if I were the kind of girl for you I wouldn't think of marrying you—or anybody else, Jim," she said. "I'm not even going to think of getting married for years and years. And until that time I'm going to have all the fun and all the excitement that I can have. I think that life owes me a good time after the ghastly things that have happened to me lately."

She was halfway across the dimly-lighted kitchen before she finished. Jim followed her and opened the screen door for her.

"Why don't you let me take you out some night?" he asked. "Wouldn't I do as well as some of these other people?"

"I like you a lot better than I like any of them, Jim." She backed slowly away from him on her way across the porch. "This man who called me up just now—he's not my idea of a perfect companion. The only reason I ever went anywhere with him is because he offered me a good time. He took me to a roadhouse that you wouldn't have stepped into, Jim, and introduced me to a lot of people that you wouldn't have had anything to do with. I knew myself that they were the wrong kind of people—but I did have a good time for a change!—Jim, don't you ever get just plain hungry for dance music and a lot of lights and noise and people?"

"Why, yes, I guess I do," he said. "But I like to sit in a corner somewhere and watch the crowd and the lights and all the rest of it. I never have any desire to drink a lot and raise whoopla, myself."

DODIE HEARS FROM MAN

Sharlie shook her head. He was hopeless, she thought. Loyal and sober and good but—well, he was too good. That was the trouble with him. He was the salt of the earth, and what she wanted at that time was red pepper. The spice and the tingle of life. The thrill and the speed and the color of existence.

"Goodnight, Jim," she said. "And I promise you I won't borrow your name again."

She went into the kitchen and shut the screen door behind her. Her mother was talking to someone on the telephone. She could hear the rise and fall of her pretty voice as she picked up the dishes from the drainboard and went on wiping them.

After three or four minutes the swinging door that led to the dining room was pushed open and Dodie stood in the opening, looking at her. Her face was scarlet and there were tears in her blue eyes.

Her voice shook. "Sharlie," she said, "what did you do a thing like that for?"

"Like what?"

Her mother made an impatient movement with her head. "You know what I mean. You hunted up Norman MacKinnon and told him that I was your mother."

SHARLIE UNAFRAID

Sharlie shook her head and looked down at her red and soapy hands. "I didn't hunt him up," she said lamely.

For a minute she felt small and helpless and guilty, just as she had always felt when she was a little girl and Dodie scolded her for some wrong-doing or other. Then all at once that feeling of guilt and helplessness passed, and she stood up straight and tall. After all she had done nothing wrong, she told herself, squaring her shoulders.

"I happened to meet him last night, Dodie—"

"Don't try to tell me any such cock-and-bull story as that," her mother broke in. "Don't try to tell me that in a town as big as this you happened to meet Norman MacKinnon!"

"I did, though. I met him at Marjorie Milliken's, and I found out all about him. He's crazy about her, and he's married to someone else—"

"He's going to get a divorce," her mother interrupted her again. "Sharlie, what made you tell him you're my daughter? What made you do it?—I told you that I was going to let him know about you, myself, after a while—and I would have told him. Now that you've done it, everything's spoiled. He probably thinks I'm about 45 years old, and he says he knows that I'll go back to my husband—" She began to cry.

"He says he's not coming to see me any more," she added in a muffled voice, pressing her handkerchief to her flushed wet face.

"He must have told you that before," Sharlie said flatly. "Last night he was talking about you to that Milliken girl, and he told her he'd been running around with a married woman, but that he was all through with her . . . I knew that he meant you and I was so ashamed. Dodie, I was so ashamed!"

DOESN'T BELIEVE STORY

She clenched her hands at her sides. "And you ought to be ashamed," she went on. "Having that man here in this flat that my father pays for—sitting in his armchair—smoking his cigars and cigarets . . . I hope you do have sense enough to get Dad back here, Dodie. He cares for you and that's more than this other man does."

"Oh, what do you know about it?" Dodie was like a spoiled and angry child.

"I saw him last night with that Milliken girl. That was enough to convince me. And, Dodie, she's the loveliest looking thing! She's perfectly beautiful, and she's more fun! Any man would be crazy about her."

She stopped for an instant, caught her breath and then went on:

"She's not as pretty as you, but she's young and full of pep and—"

Up went the pink palm of her mother's hand. "All right, I'll take your word for it!" she said sharply and shrilly. "But don't expect me to believe this lie of yours—that you just happened to meet Norman MacKinnon! I wasn't born yesterday, Sharlie, as you have just pointed out to me. And I know that you tracked him down to tell him all about me."

"I didn't. I give you my word of honor that I didn't—" began Sharlie. But the older woman did not wait to hear any more. She walked into her bedroom, and closed and locked the door.

In the morning when Sharlie got up it was still closed and locked. She tried the handle, and then set her mother's tray of morning coffee on the floor outside the room.

"Dodie, here's your coffee," she called. There was no answer, but as Sharlie was leaving the flat a few minutes later she heard the squeak of the bedroom door as it was pushed open and the chink of china as Dodie picked up the little tray.

THE DREDGE SINALOA

Top: This ship has a 30-inch inlet diameter pump sucking up sand and gravel from the lake bottom, perhaps 100 feet down. The water pours overboard and the solid material is loaded into the ship's hoppers. Then she steams ashore and unloads by a 140-foot belt conveyor shown on her forward deck.

THE FIRST TRIAL BY JURY IN ENGLAND

The jury system can be traced back to the early Greek and Roman times, but it was lost in the Middle Ages, giving place to trial by ordeal or battle. Henry II, King of England (1154 to 1189) fostered the jury system. Usually 12 selected citizens were called upon to hear the case and to agree upon a verdict. (World's History).

THE "OCTET" THEORY OR THE CUBICAL ATOM AFTER LEWIS AND LANGMUIR

The electrons in each atom describe concentric shells. The inner, contains two electrons, the outer tend to hold eight (maximum possible in one shell), these being placed at the corner of a cube or in pairs at the corners of a regular tetrahedron. The positive valence of an element is determined by the number of electrons in the outer shell (it can give up so many); the negative valence is the number of missing electrons in the outer shell to complete it to eight (it can take up so many). (1) The lithium atom (Li) has atomic number 3, and one electron in the outer shell, it has the positive valence of 1 and the negative of 7. (2) The fluor atom (F) has at. no. 9, and seven electrons in the outer shell; it has the positive valence of 7 and the negative of 1. (3) Neon (Ne) has at. no. 10 and eight electrons in the outer shell, its negative valence is 0. (4) Sodium (Na) at. no. 11; a third shell is required for the 11th electron; its neg. val. is 1. (5, 6) The formation of Na F, the sodium giving up an electron to the fluor to complete its outside shell (from A to AA'). (Foster: Elements of Chemistry).

(M) Mirror with index (I) is pivoted on center of 60° arc (A) graduated 120° (double) and readable by a vernier to 10" accuracy. (H) horizon glass half mirror); (B) handle; (K) adjustable shadeglass (against sun glare); (T) telescope. Holding (T) horizontal and turning index (I) with mirror (M) until the picture of the sun appears in the center of (T), the angle indicated on the arc (A) will be the sun's altitude above the horizon, from which latitude and longitude of observation point can be determined. Bugs Baer

Can You Answer This One?

An indignant reader turns into an even more agitated writer and inquires into the whys and wherefores of what.

In a swirling series of curves and angles he wants to know why such things can be and other things cannot.

He points out that the man who steals a loaf of bread is haled into court, sentenced and incarcerated in the glorious and abbreviated sum of 24 hours.

On the other semaphore, the man who cops himself a sweet total of billions can stall along until the cows come home or decide to stay out all night.

The law may touch him. But it is only playing tag.

When informed of the true bill against him the first thing he does is to get sick. He goes to bed surrounded by 60 doctors and no process server can break through that medical Macedonian phalanx.

Every hour on the hour the doctors publish a bulletin of his condition. He is so sick the court must grant him testimonial postponements. The law is not cruel and justice must be tempered to the doctor's fee.

WONDER HOW SICK I AM TODAY ?

An ocean trip follows for his health and six months later he invades the home district playing the old game of run, sheep, run, with 15 lawyers.

They obtain a change of venue on the claim of discrimination, undue influence and public opinion harmful to their client's peace of intellect and physical well being.

The malefactor of great amounts eventually is haled into the halls of the mills that grind slowly. That's about two years later and they give him another armistice to get his affairs in order. By the time they finally nail him with the finger of the law everybody has forgotten what it is all about.

They either exonerate him with a soft-boiled reprimand or stake him to 30 days. Which ain't bad when you figure that promissory notes run to 60 and 90.

That's all that generally happens. And our infuriated correspondent wants to know why. We trust that some reader can enlighten him. But we warn you that to explain with too much elucidation will sound suspicious and incriminating.

On Trial

The People Await Proof That the New Police Administration Is Honest and Independent

Peter P. Walsh says he was dismissed as Superintendent of Police by Mayor John S. Herron at the behest of Senator James J. Coyne because he refused to grant a permit for the reopening of the notorious Monaca Club as a cabaret.

But for many months Walsh let the Monaca Club operate as a gambling house and speakeasy across the street from the Oakland police station. Not Walsh but the state police finally closed it.

Herron denies Walsh's story and says he dismissed him because of his ''shameless toleration of vice and racketeering.''

But the first act of the Department of Public Safety after Walsh's dismissal was to grant to a man with a police record a permit to reopen the Monaca Club, even though padlock proceedings against it are pending in the United States District Court.

For the same reason James M. Clark should be fired as Director of Public Safety.

However, the people will not believe this reform is ''on the level'' until the successors to Clark and Walsh prove their honesty and independence.

Such skepticism is justified because Herron, as president of Council, never lifted a finger to stop police protection of rackets during the past few years.

The administration is on trial. Judgment will be suspended until conclusive evidence has been presented.

Recognizing Russia

We Recognized Czarism, So Why Not the Soviet If It Minds Its Own Business?

A number of well-meaning women, active in public affairs, appear to be greatly exercised with anxiety over the possibility of the recognition of the Russian Soviet government by the government of the United States.

While it is their privilege to protest against as it would be to approve of such recognition it is pertinent to remind them that:

We do not desire to meddle in Russia's internal affairs, and if Russia shows no inclination to meddle in our internal affairs, there is no reason why the Russian government should not be recognized by the United States WITHOUT OUR APPROVAL OF THE FORM OF GOVERNMENT ENTERING INTO THE QUESTION AT ALL.

The United States recognized the Russian government under Czarism, and that was probably the worst government in the world and the most diametrically opposed to our own form of government.

And if we did not think the character of the Russian Government under the cruel autocracy of the Czars sufficient to prevent us from recognizing it, there would not seem to be any form of government which we cannot recognize so long as that government minds its own business, which is none of our business.

Children Enslaved

Exposure of Conditions in Pennsylvania Sweatshops Should Further Their Emancipation.

Three hundred and fifty girls and boys employed in sweatshops in the Lehigh Valley are on strike. The strike has directed attention to the conditions under which children labor in the clothing factories of Allentown and the vicinity. An ugly situation has been found.

It is reported that of 3,200 boys and girls employed in 40 shops one-fourth are under 16 years of age. Ruth Scandrett, of the National Child Labor Committee, cites the cases of a number who work at least 41 hours a week for a weekly wage of $1 to $2.

Miss Scandrett was for many years chief child labor inspector in Alabama. She says:

"I have become hardened by my years in the South to child labor and sub-standard conditions, but never have I seen so many children work for so little or under such conditions as exist in Pennsylvania today."

Some of the exploiters of Pennsylvania children would welcome corrective legislation. They are ashamed of conditions, but declare they have been driven to them by competition; they have had to lower standards and wages to meet the prices of the worst offenders among the factories.

The enslaved children in the Allentown sweatshops and elsewhere in Pennsylvania should be emancipated by the Legislature. It can be done by the enactment of any of a number of pending bills for the regulation of child labor and by the ratification of the Child Labor Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Get the Facts

Human nature being what it is, it was probably inevitable that the administration of poor relief in Pennsylvania on the scale to which this business has risen in the last year should be marked by charges of incompetency and extravagance.

Morris Lewis, a representative of the State Welfare Department, accuses several Pittsburgh social service agencies of negligence in the care of homeless men.

Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman, says in a circular letter to Pennsylvania newspaper editors that reports are reaching Harrisburg that State and Federal relief funds are being wasted and that men and women are getting relief who do not need it. He asks the editors to investigate and give him the facts.

Well, the facts should be obtained, but they should be obtained by the officials charged with responsibility for such things. If they cannot be trusted, let their jobs be given to men and women who can be.

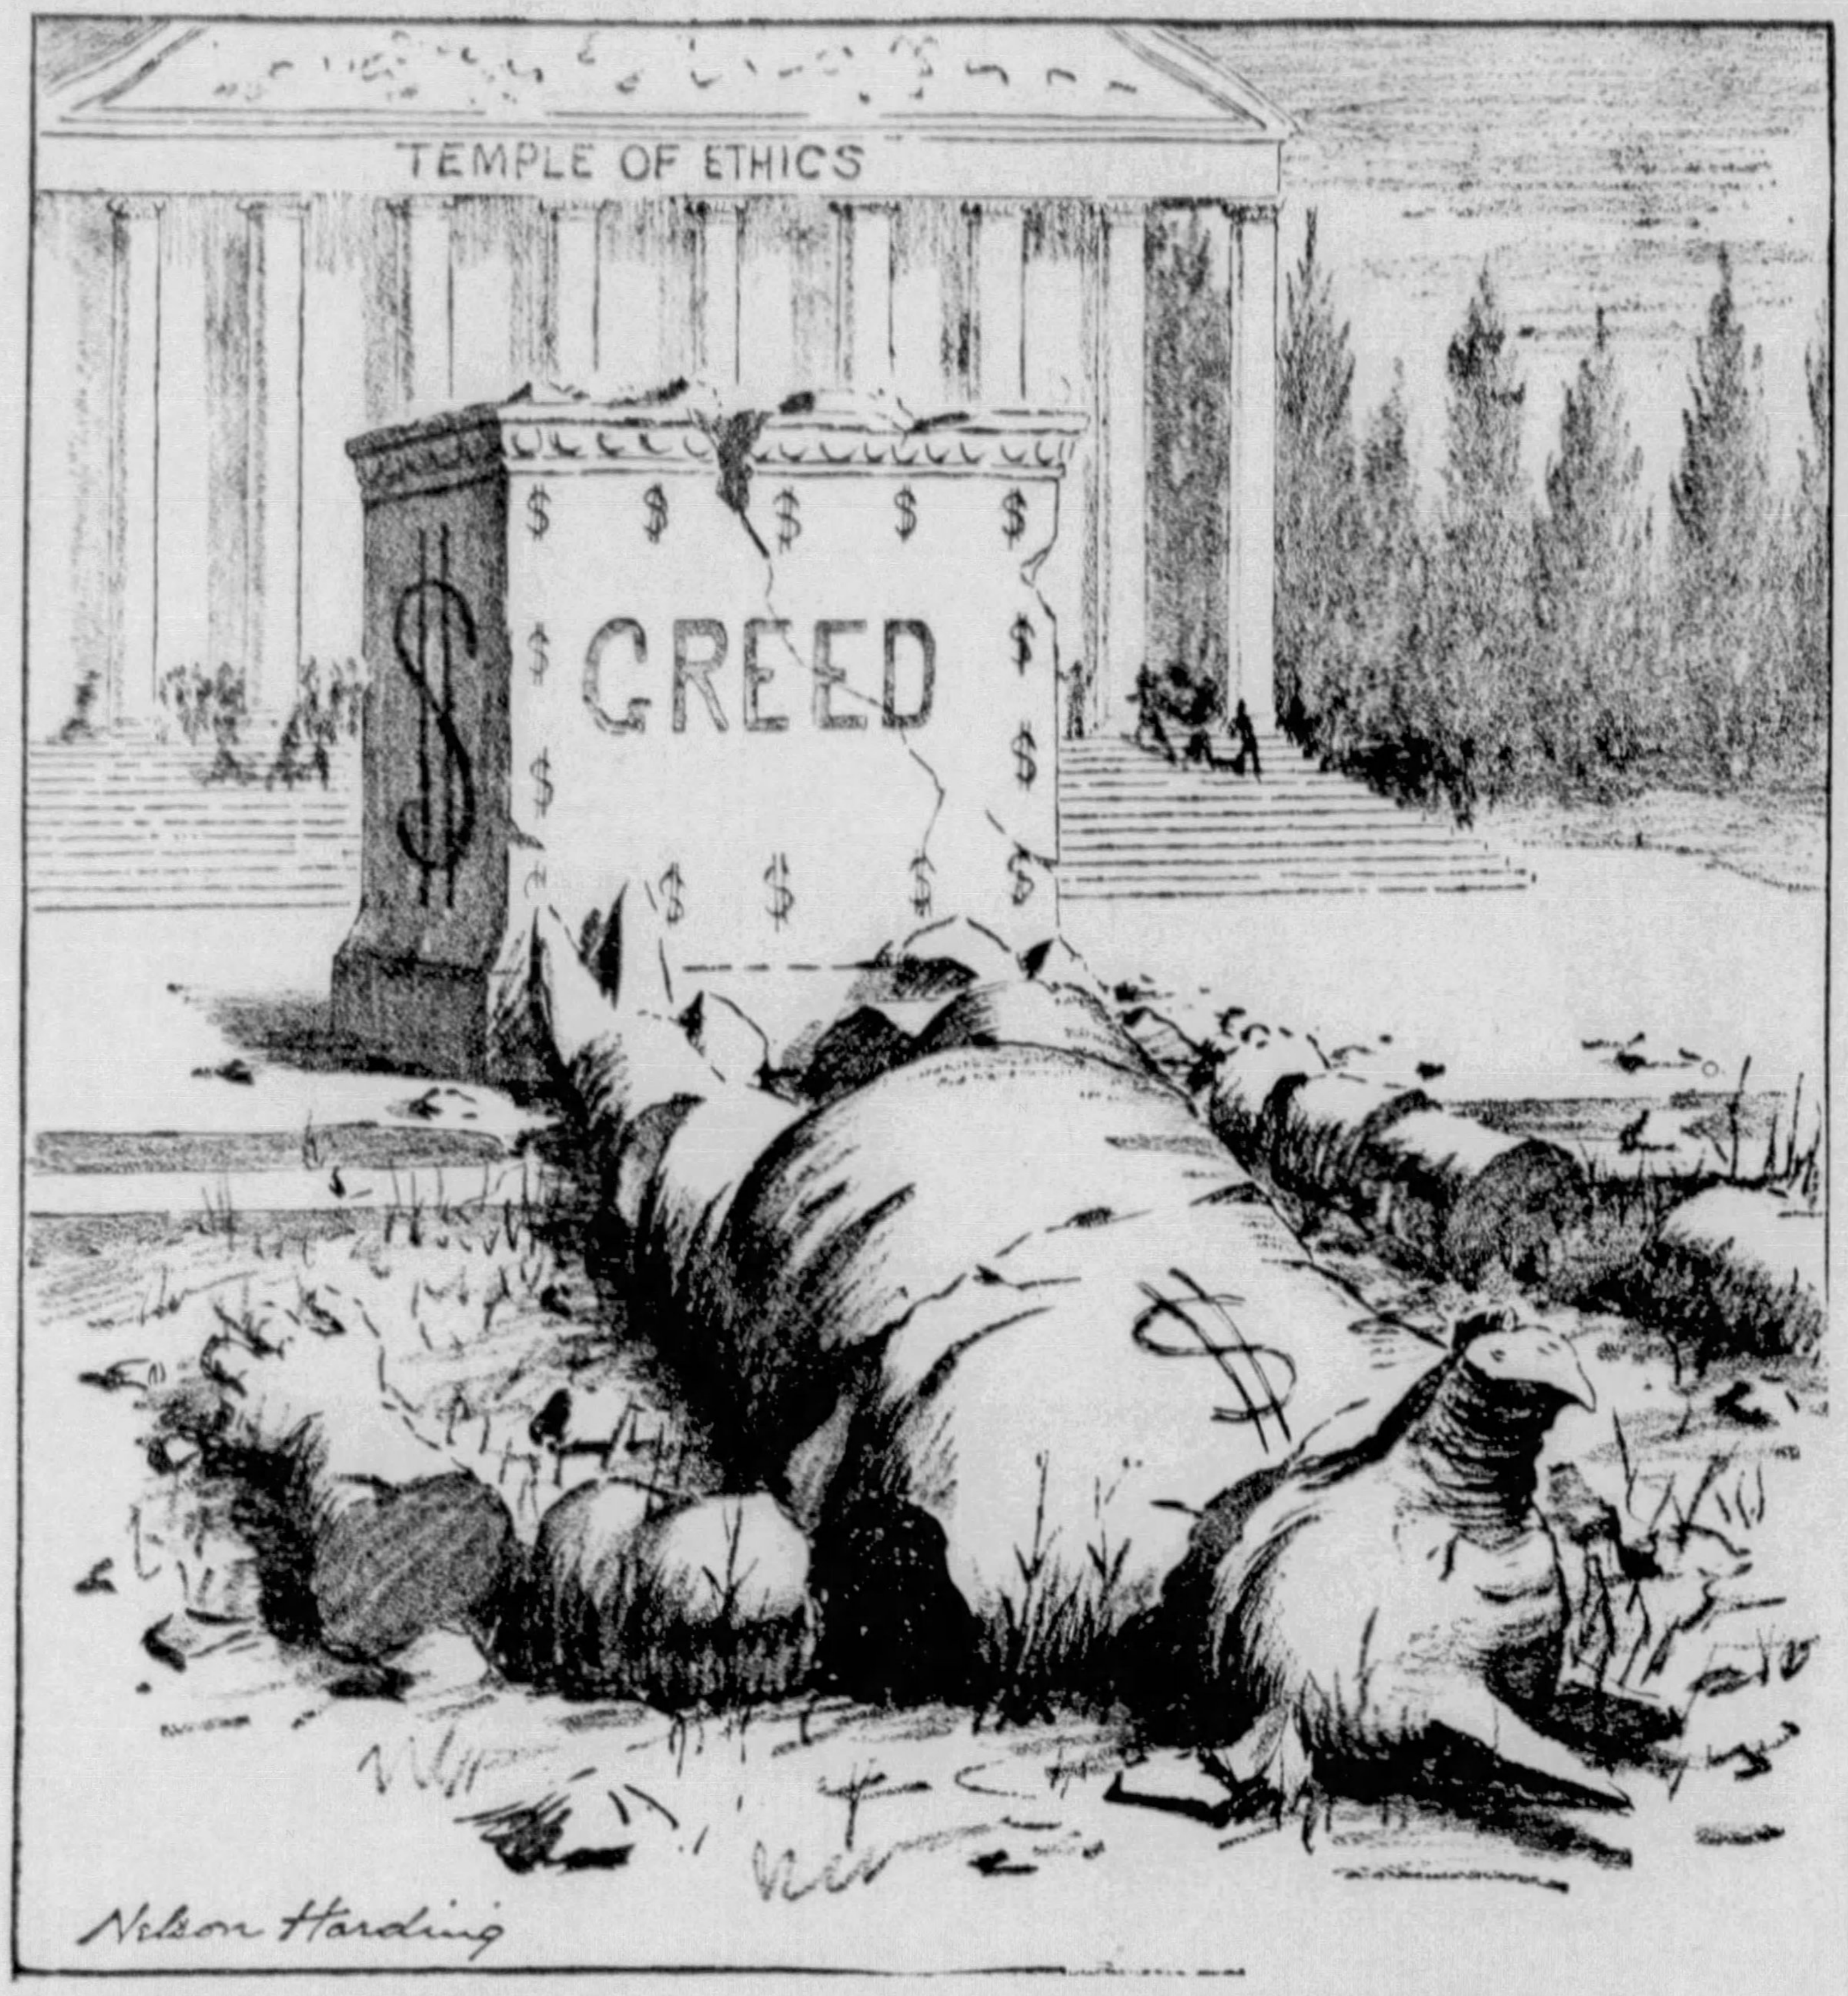
The Fallen Idol

By Nelson Harding



Fallen is the swinish image
That stood high before the temple;
Shattered is the brazen figure
And its worshippers confounded.

From its pedestal hurled downward
Is the false god, Greed, demolished;
Lying prone, its sordid shadow

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 18.—Few question the energy, even though misdirected, that swept the banker Charles E. Mitchell to the financial peak. His powerful physique, calm poise and the blend of overriding arrogance and go-gettism made him a figure. To admirers he was a whirring dynamo.

No other man so typified the glory of the era happily passed. He was up at 6 a. m. to gallop in the park, play a fierce game of handball and appear at his office with the bluster of a tornado. He could not tolerate people around who did not work at fever pitch.

In the spell of this hypnosis he awakened suddenly to the crumbling cosmos about him. What he lacked, it has seemed to me, is the divine quality of human sympathy. And it was this very quality he so sorely needed that did not come to him when his reign cracked.

I am told the day after he was dragooned to his despair the reception room of his office was deserted. He sat alone. In the forbidding mansion on the upper avenue that night the phone scarcely rang. Next morning the postman delivered but a single letter. All day he watched the sky. And a few weeks later came his arrest.

"We have loved the stars too fondly
To be fearful of the night."

R. M. Brinkerhoff is reputedly the fastest illustrator living. There is the story of a magazine art editor phoning him early one Monday for a rush order that must be delivered Wednesday at 5 p. m. "Brink" finished it before lunch the same day. But at the hour appointed he arrived at the magazine with the illustration under his arm, fairly swooning and gasping: "I just made it." P. S. He got a bonus.

Now and then it picks up some girlish giggle floating from a table and reproduces it with sustained enthusiasm. The contagion of laughter convulses the entire room. Lily Pons grew so hysterical over the mimicing the other evening she had to desert her meal for the sidewalk.

The original of Peter Arno's galumphing cut-up around town with bald dome, over-Niagara waxed black mustaches and thornbush eyebrows is Stanley Sackett, manager of an ultra-swank mid-town hotel. Intimate of many higher social brackets, he has been portraited by another up-and-coming limner, Stephen Etnier, also a member of Arno's class at Yale. It is to be exhibited shortly.

Tallulah Bankhead hails almost everybody as "darling." Dick Maney, Broadway super ballyhooist, greets friends as "foul wretches," while Tom Chalmers, movie news editor now spreading his versatility in a play, addresses intimates as "you mugs. Charles Hanson Towne looking down benignly from the Parnassus of his years, salutes with "young squirrel." John Golden's is "Lo' feller!" and to Joe Laurie, Jr., everybody is "Charlie."

No Manhattan playgoer is quite so ardent as Yale's beloved instructor, Prof. William Lyon Phelps. Yet he is never seen in the first night galaxy, or any night for all that. He reviews new shows at matinees, so he can be home in Whitney avenue in the Elm City for dinner. Like Mark Twain, Prof. Phelps favors white suits at all seasons, and unlike most of the critical gentry, applauds actors at the end of scenes. He smokes the same brand of cigars as the late Amy Lowell, knows all the porters and trainmen on the New Haven by name, and reads a new book every time he commutes to the metropolis. A grand gentleman!

Broadway's most famous midnight musketeers were Richard Cole, Pete Daley and Alfred Henry Lewis. They shunned daylight as a plague. One sunup Daley came blinking out of Churchill's. As usual, not wanting to go home, he hailed a cab and trying to think of some place far away, finally said: "Polo Grounds." Then fell asleep. Awakened two hours later, the driver said: "Here we are!" Daley, coming out of the fog, inquired: "Where?" He was told the Polo Grounds. "All right," he said, settling back, "drive around the bases until I tell you to stop."

MAYBE I'M WRONG

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

NEW YORK, April 18.—She was one of those dizzy little dames and they were trying to coax her into a bridge game.

"Oh, come on," said one of her friends, "we're only playing for a tenth of a cent."

"You can't kid me," she replied. "They don't make coins that small."

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

A Park avenue husband is planning to divorce his wife so that there'll be more room in the closet for his clothes.

All the actors who hang around hotel lobbies aren't lazy. One of them in particular is very eager to get a job. He figures that if he can only get on somebody's payroll he won't be wasting his own time.

Margaret Young is still posing for that oil painting, but she's been doing so much horseback riding lately that she's had to stand up for the last three sittings.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Funny little song. Maybe it isn't Art. That depends, of course, on what you call Art.

But there I was, plugging along home in the evening rush.

And, Stranger, did I have those twilight blues? Nothing Else But!

Headache. Heart ache. All those sad faces--poor twitching lips, trying to smile. All those desperate eyes--proud eyes, trying to be brave; and just about as much hope on the horizon as there's beefsteak on a flea. "Better times coming"--phooey! At that moment I wouldn't have wagered a nickle on the future of the whole human race.

And at that very moment, when anyone could have had my remains for the cartage, what should I hear but—

"THAT FUNNY LITTLE TUNE"

Not loud, not soft, not fast, not slow; just a wispy, twisty, teasy little tune, humming along to itself in the shadows; peeping, with its cheery challenge, at your telltale, teary eyes; pressing, with its chummy chuckle, at your hurt discouraged heart; coaxing; pleading—

"SHE MAY GET WEARY;
"WOMEN DO GET WEARY
"WEARING THE SAME SHABBY DRESS."

(Shabby dress—shabby dreams—no dreams at all, after a while. Men and women both—Oh, how did he know?)

"AND WHEN SHE'S WEARY
"TRY A LITTLE TENDERNESS!"

(Tenderness? You'd almost forgotten the word in these terrible days! But what wouldn't you give to feel some tenderness now? Great big city—great big night—all those lights lit for somebody else—none of them lit for you! If, just for a moment, you could sweep the years away; feel your sweetheart's hand; see your mother's smile—Oh, how did he guess?)

"YOU KNOW SHE'S WAITING,
"JUST ANTICIPATING
"THINGS SHE MAY NEVER POSSESS.
"WHILE SHE'S WITHOUT THEM
"TRY A LITTLE TENDERNESS."

(Waiting? Hard work? Bad breaks? What did it matter? What did anything matter—to men or women, either—if only one knew that somewhere somebody cared?)

"IT'S NOT JUST SENTIMENTAL;
"SHE'S HAD HER GRIEF AND CARE.
"AND A WORD THAT'S SOFT AND GENTLE
"MAKES IT EASIER TO BEAR."

(Grief and care? How far away they seemed once. How terribly near they are now! Headache, heartache, all the time, everywhere. Everybody needing just gentle words—somebody to believe in them—somebody to help them believe in themselves. Do you know? How terribly you know!)

"YOU WON'T REGRET IT;
"WOMEN DON'T FORGET IT;
"LOVE IS THEIR WHOLE HAPPINESS.
"IT'S ALL SO EASY—
"TRY A LITTLE TENDERNESS."

(Oh, you'd meant to try! You'd meant to be kind! But you were so busy; so worried and rushed. So you just kept putting it off. Tomorrow—next week—you'd tell her how you loved her. And now it's too late! Or is it? Isn't there still a chance? If you phoned her now—wrote him that little note—couldn't you, maybe, start all over again? Dear God please make it so!)

Isn't It So?

Happy Husband and Wife

They Have the Same Interest, Without Jealousy

CAPTAIN MOLLISON AND WIFE, HAPPY BRITISH COUPLE.

In married life, as in music, it is HARMONY that counts. Here you have a harmonious British young couple, and we wish for every young reader of this newspaper a marriage as happy based on COMMUNITY OF INTEREST.

The young woman in the picture is Mrs. J. A. Mollison, better known to the world as Amy Johnson. She is the girl that holds the woman's flying record for distance. She beat all the British fliers in triumphant flights—even the men.

Her husband, J. A. Mollison, has many important flights to his credit, and recently finished a trip from London to Brazil in 3½ days, going via West Africa and the South Atlantic, in a small "Puss Moth" plane, which he has named ''Heart's Content.''

When he started, his wife, instead of merely walking down to the front gate to say goodbye, jumped into her own plane and ''kept him company'' in the air, across England and the Channel, flying back to her house when he was well under way.

Both are interested in the same thing, each takes delight in the achievements of the other. And that makes happiness.

Hitherto women and men have been so much separated by living conditions that they could not well have the same interests. The man always left the house to work outside, the woman to work at home. But conditions are changing. Modern methods of living, modern electrical devices have diminished ''household slavery.'' The world should have millions of couples like this, working together in harmonious happiness.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Fill each blank:

1. "There is a ——— in the affairs of men
   Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune." Shakespeare.
2. "I only regret that I have but one ——— to lose for my country." Nathan Hale.
3. "——— hath her victories no less renowned than war." Milton.
4. "But pleasures are like ——— spread
   You seize the flower, its bloom is shed." Burns.
5. "He prayeth best who loveth best
   All ——— both great and small." Coleridge.

Match correctly:

6. Cape Cod	South America
7. Cape Fear	Virginia
8. Cape Charles	Massachusetts
9. Cape Horn	New Jersey
10. Cape May	North Carolina

Do you know:

11. What is the outflow of the Amazon River?
12. In what state is Mt. Ranier?
13. What is meant by the term "ex post facto"?
14. What is an epicurean?
15. What is a synonym for lethargic?

Answers to today's tests:

1. Tide (Shakespeare, "Julius Caesar"). 2. Life. 3. Peace ("Sonnet," Milton). 4. Poppies (Burns, "Tam o' Shanter"). 5. Things (Coleridge, "Ancient Mariner"). 6. Massachusetts. 7. North Carolina. 8. Virginia. 9. South America. 10. New Jersey. 11. Atlantic Ocean. 12. Washington. 13. Made after a thing, but retroacting on it. 14. A connoisseur in luxurious eating and drinking. 15. Very dull and drowsy.

QUEER PEOPLE

By Winifred Black

Queer people from Queer street. Where do they all come from in the first place—I wonder—don't you?

Ten or 15 years ago, we didn't know Queer people at all. We read of them in the papers every once in a while. And sometimes someone we knew would come home from a walking tour through the country and a staying tour in one of the big cities and they would tell us about some of them.

But we never knew them—we never even saw them in the dim distance. Nowadays you can't drop into your friends for a Sunday night's supper without meeting at least one of the Queer people. Inquiry reveals many strange things:

"They do say he's a bit of a crook, but wait till you see him do his imitations."

"The little blonde woman who improvises such charming songs? Oh yes, they do say she has other names in other cities, but isn't she delightful?"

"The young man who tells such outrageous stories—all in dialect? . . . Oh, they are too killing for words—don't indorse a check for him—your bank will be almost sure to make trouble about it."

Where on earth did they all come from? Who brought them? Who introduced them?

"Jimmie—let's see, what is his last name? Something French or Italian, isn't it? Nobody ever calls him anything but Jimmie, so what's the use of fussing about his name?

"Isn't he a friend of Babbs, that clever woman who decorates studios? Yes, she is the one who went to the police court a while ago. Awfully temperamental, they say—designs your decorations—and then if they don't suit you, she takes a chair and smashes a window or something."

Awfully interesting, these temperamental Tessies. And yet somehow I'm getting an old-fashioned craving to spend an evening with a few people who have never seen the inside of a police court and wouldn't think of making a handy dollar or so, cheating at cards.

Respectability sometimes is a bit dull to be sure, but dear me, it's sort of restful, too, don't you think?

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

The complaint that you make to an employer about one of his employes may have a very serious effect.

If the worker is disloyal to his employer, has deliberately done something harmful to the business, there may be some excuse for reporting him.

To lose a job today is a serious matter, and you should give an employe a chance to abandon a course damaging to his employer, before reporting him.

Becoming peeved at an employe, their first decision is to inform his superior, and, sad to say it, such complaints are liable to be exaggerated.

Often the position, to which there was objection, as taken by the employe, is in accord with instructions given by the superior.

Employes are there to serve—not to dictate or change policies.

The employe may be insistent upon carrying out explicit regulations and rules, and the irascible individual considers it an impertinence, while the one making the complaint is the one who is unreasonable.
